

Skill in a Canoe Race.
That the skill of the canoe sailor is more to do with the winning of races than with the spread or shape of hull has been proved again and again. A canoe designed by W. P. Stephens for the secretary of the New York Canoe club on lines offering no anything before produced has sailed in a number of the local New York races lately. This canoe is a perfect piece of work, so far as construction goes—smooth, fair and well proportioned. Its peculiar feature is a very deep, thin underwater body aft. Everything about the canoe suggests speed, and yet it has not won a race. Perhaps it will later on, when Skipper Stephens has completed his "tuning up" process.

In marked contrast to this result is the success that some of the older canoes have had by being well sailed and properly equipped, notably the Nests, owned by Daniel Goodell, of Yonkers. The Eclipse is also a comparatively old canoe with a reputation, and it is sure of a good place in the races when fairly well handled unless something breaks—which has been a rather too common occurrence of late. A strong and handy rig in the hands of a clever sailor will often land an old canoe over the finishing line far in the lead. The races during June on Hendon lake, near London, England, illustrated this principle very clearly. The winner was the only survivor of a fleet of six in one race. All the other canoes either upset or broke down.—Sail and Paddle.

A Big Year for Fruit.
Fruit has not been so plentiful and so cheap for many seasons as it is this year. For the past month the fruit stands have been laden with large juicy Bartlett pears and delicious, rosy peaches, and now grapes are making their appearance. All are unusually cheap, too, and the demand is larger than it has been for years. A leading Fulton street dealer said the other day that he was reaping a golden harvest this summer. "How is that?" I asked. "Oh," he replied, "fruit is so plentiful that I can keep the prices down; and so long as such splendid pears and peaches and melons and plums as these are cheap everybody who can afford it is going to enjoy them. Last year the poorer class of my customers didn't get any fruit, nor did they the year before. They couldn't afford to buy it, and they wouldn't have done so if they could, for there was no fruit worth having at any price. This year there's any amount of it, and it's all cheap. Everybody is hungry for fruit after being denied it for such a long time, and consequently, as I said before, we dealers are reaping a rich harvest."—Brooklyn Eagle.

Cost of Filtering Air.
The air of the house of commons was filtered last winter at a cost of sixty pounds for cotton wool, besides the two or three hundred pounds originally spent on the steam that worked the fans that drove the air in. The layers of cotton wool used were six feet thick, and had to be changed three times, the outer layers in a very short time becoming black and full of an oily and sooty substance, with the smell of a very bad fog, though the heaviest particles had been removed by passing the air through water.

On one occasion the filter had to be renewed after only forty-eight hours' use, a dense fog having lasted the whole of that time. This information was given to a parliamentary committee by Mr. William Prim, consulting engineer to her majesty's office of works.—London Tit-Bits.

Slept in His Coffin.
There has just died at St. Joseph's hospital, in Chippewa Falls, an eccentric individual called Andreas Lowea. He was born in 1834 in Lower Bavaria. His trade was a worker in woods, which he learned in the piano factory in Munich. Perhaps no man in the United States has acquired like skill in renovating woodwork and restoring its polish. About ten years ago he built a repair shop, in which he lived, doing his own cooking, for he was never married. He manufactured a beautiful coffin composed of different kinds of wood, in which he slept despite the persuasions of intimate friends.—Chicago Herald.

Cast Iron Railway Bridges.
Sir John Fowler's report to the directors of the London and Brighton railway with reference to their bridges states that the company has 171 cast iron bridges altogether, and that eighty-one of these ought within three years to be replaced with wrought iron or steel structures. He does not state that any of them are unsafe, and concludes his report by saying: "The result of my investigation does not indicate any unusual weakness in the Brighton bridges, which are neither better nor worse than those of similar lines of railways at home and abroad."—London Tit-Bits.

Miss Antoinette Knaggs, a college educated young woman of Ohio, owns and manages a farm of 300 acres. She carries on her work according to the theories of books, rather than by ancient traditions, and, contrary to the usual impression about book farmers, she is making a success of her undertaking.

The land which the Jewish bankers have bought in Palestine contains 10,000,000 square meters. The Jews are leaving Odessa every day by thousands for Palestine. Baron Rothschild is expected at Jaffa, and is said to intend buying 5,000,000 meters more of fertile land east of the Jordan.

The other night at Retford Junction, England, an immense swarm of bees settled in a lamp case on a signal, and the lamp could not be placed in position without considerable danger. Consequently the signal was abandoned all night and fog signals substituted.

Rev. Edward Beecher's adopted daughter received at her baptism the name of Voice Adams. She was one of a family of fifteen children, whom her father, a great-grandson of John Quincy Adams, supported by lecturing on "The Voice of Nature."

County commissioners are in session to-day.
Bert McElwain is viewing sights at the State fair to-day.
Mrs. M. Martin and daughter, of Macomb, Ill., are visiting at the home of Dr. Schildknecht.
Mrs. Malick and children returned from Waverly last evening, where they have been visiting a few days.
The M. P. railway has a time table in this issue. The accommodation train leaves at 10:35 a. m. and arrives at 4:10 p. m.

The regular business meeting of the Epworth League, meets at Miss Margaret Davis', on Pearl street between Eighth and Ninth to-night at 8:00. All are cordially invited to attend.
THE HERALD stated a few days since that Mrs. R. Martin went to Omaha on a pleasure trip. We are informed that the trip was rather one of sorrow than pleasure, being to attend the funeral of a Mrs. Carney. We gladly make the correction. Our intentions were good but our informant was mistaken in regard to the matter.

Oxford Dancing Club.
The Oxford Dancing Club open their dancing season with one of their nice parties this evening at Rockwood Hall. The club is composed of about thirty couples of our best young ladies and gentlemen, and these parties give promise to them of many pleasant evenings during the coming winter.

Love Finds a Way
To-morrow night Kate Putnam appears at the Academy of Music in her new play, "Love Finds a Way." Miss Putnam's impersonations of subtle roles are well known to Charleston theatre-goers, but this season in a new play, "Love Finds a Way," she has a piece which gives full scope to her superior dramatic abilities. Not only does she find a proper place for singing, dancing and banjo playing, but there is a sustained heart interest in the new play which Miss Putnam presents charmingly. Her company is nicely balanced, in fact, excellent, and the performance as a whole is said to be artistic and very catchy.—Charleston News and Courier.

Will appear at the Waterman next Wednesday night. Reserved seat sale opens Monday morning at J. P. Young's. Price 75 cents.

Union Nubbings.
Almost frost.
Thrashing—the farmers' rage.

We are coming to Joe's grand opening. When is it?
As an "unexperienced adviser" the Ledger is unexcelled.

A few peaches, plenty of apples, grapes, water and musk melons in our precinct.
Most all agriculturalists and horticulturalists are well pleased over their year's toil in the hot sun.

The democrats held their primary here last Saturday. We are not prepared to send a list of the delegates installed.

Miss Estella Traver, of your town, commenced teaching in District No. 13 Monday morning. Miss Traver taught in 12 last spring and we predict she makes teaching a success.

Prof. A. Philipps, newly employed principal of our school, arrived here Thursday with his family, and took the shackles Monday morning as principal, with Miss Morse as assistant.

The dedicatory exercises of the recently finished M. E. church at this point were very ceremoniously observed, there being over one hundred in attendance through the day and a crowded house in the evening.

Attend the Primaries.
The republican primaries will meet to-morrow. For a designation of voting places for the respective wards, refer to instructions on the editorial page of this issue.

It is highly important that every live republican attend the primary and express himself as to who shall represent his ward at the convention. THE HERALD believes the degree of party success in November will depend largely upon the action of our delegates, whom we shall choose to-morrow. This is no year for factional fights or bolting inside party lines, but on the contrary, a year which demands a united persistent and harmonious pull of every member of the party. Select men who are well acquainted with all the aspirants and that will nominate a ticket upon which the members of the party will unite.

If you want to see nice clean and well made up clothing you should go to JOE and look his stock over.

Hair chains, rings, crosses a n hair work of all kinds to order.
