WITH A HEALTH DOCTOR.

EARLY MORNING SCENES IN TENEMENT HOUSE DISTRICTS.

Half Starved Babies and Children That Live on Decayed Fruit and Nourishment That is Worse—Deadly Smells Abound and How They Are Corrected.

Twenty minutes in one of the districts of the summer corps of the board of health will enable any one to obtain an idea of how the tenement house people live.

It is a hot August day, 8 o'clock in the morning. The air even at this early hour is stifling. Are you surprised to find life astir here?

Pushing our way we proceed. It is really pushing our way, for the street is lined with mothers, each holding a baby in her arms...

Can any one be ignorant that nothing can quench thirst but water? Milk is a poor substitute. Here is a chance to give a private lecture...

Looking up and down the street we see that it is very dirty. Going over to investigate a pile of dirt, we see on its uphill side a pool of stagnant water...

Looking around we see the houses that need to be most—dirty, filthy houses. No wonder the people camp out in the streets all day—yes, and all night.

Out in the yard we notice a child about three years old, with an old man's face—this face being characteristic of rickets, that disease now becoming so common among poor people.

Our twenty minutes is almost up, but we can hardly tear ourselves away from this gyp-like encampment. A last look at them forces a smile, as we see a German housewife with her basket of lunch, blanket and knitting.

Two farmers recently laid a wager that one could hold a wasp longer in his hand than the other. The man who rubbed chloroform on his hands expected to win, but the other happened to know that male wasps do not sting...

The number of immigrants into the United States during the year 1890 was rather more than 495,000—that is more than the population of St. Louis, Baltimore or Boston.

Did it ever occur to you to think how wretchedly inferior as a runner man is to nearly every other living creature?
