We have sold Ely's Cream Balm about three years, and have recommended its use in more than a hundred special cases of catarrh. The unanimous answer to our inquiries is, "It's the best remedy that I have ever used." Our experience is, that where parties continued its use, it never fails to cure.—J. H. Montgomery & Co., Druggists, Decatur, Iowa.

When I began using Ely's Cream Balm my catarrh was so bad I had headache the whole time and discharged a large amount of filthy matter. That has almost entirely disappeared and have not had headache since. J. Sommers, Stephney, Conn.

Brown & Harrett have just received a fine line of imported tooth and nail brushes, cloth and hair brushes. Prices away down. If

Notice to Coal Consumers
 I will furnish the best of coal of all grades to those who pay me, but those who wish to run long winded accounts I don't want. As I have to pay for what I get I must insist on pay for what I sell. A Cure for Paralysis.
 Frank Cornelius, of Purcell, Ind. Ter., says: "I induced Mr. Pinson, whose wife had paralysis in the face to buy a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. To their great surprise before the bottle had all been used she was a great deal better. Her face had been drawn to one side, but the Pain Balm relieved all pain and soreness, and the mouth assumed its natural shape." It is also a certain cure for rheumatism lame back, sprains swellings and lameness. 30 cent bottles for sale by F. G. Fricke & Co., Druggists.

 Mrs. George Ferguson, formerly of this city, came in from Lincoln this morning to visit a few days with old friends.

HOW HE STARTED.
 He gradually acquired a few other birds, which paired off and commenced to lay and hatch eggs during the summer. The small ones were successfully hatched out, but died very shortly after.
 Mr. Rudolph determined to discover the cause of their early demise, and, knowing it must be lack of proper food, determined to watch the habits of the older birds and experiment upon them with varieties of grain and insect food.
 In spite of the amusement of his friends, who considered his attempt impossible, Mr. Rudolph set to work in earnest to raise quail, and, after numerous failures, was able, in his second year, to successfully hatch and raise a brood of quail. He had hit upon the right method of feeding them, and the young birds were as strong and healthy as if born under natural conditions. Since then he reckons that 65 per cent. of his young birds have been successfully brought to maturity. As statistics show that hardly 50 per cent. of wild game birds attain their full size, owing to the number of their natural foes, such as hawks and vermin, this is an extremely good record.

In a small yard, scarcely twenty feet square, Mr. Rudolph keeps his pets.
 The inclosure is shut in on three sides by a wooden fence, and on the fourth by the rear wall of the house. Around the borders are beds of geranium and small shrubs. In the center is a patch of grass, with a tall plant in the middle.
 On one side of the lot are the cages, in which these birds are paired off in separate coops.

RAISING QUAIL.
 In the fourth cage is a lonely and disconsolate hen, while running loose about the yard are two cocks and a hen with three chicks. The latter are a remarkable brood. They were hatched, with five others, on the 8th of July, which is nearly one month ahead of the breeding season. The defunct ones were killed by the inclement weather or some other cause common to infant quail, but the survivors remain perfectly healthy.
 When the next brood is born, the chicks loose in the yard, together with the parent birds, will be shut up to make room for the newcomers. Owing to the extreme pugnacity of the cocks it is impossible to let more than one pair loose at a time, or the lives of the birds would be endangered. The pairing off of two cocks with one hen, although rare, is occasionally found. The two male birds who champion the little mother hen live in peace and harmony, and both work together at making the nests and take their turn in sitting on the eggs.
 The principal food which Mr. Rudolph gives to his pets is grain; grasshoppers also form part of their diet. But the secret by which he manages to raise the young Mr. Rudolph refuses to reveal.
 He says that it is something natural to the birds in wild life, but beyond that he will not commit himself. The quail are very fond of humped, but they get so fat on it that its value as wholesome food is very small. It would soon kill them off. It is useful, however, in feeding hens which have been sitting in order to bring them back to their proper condition.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Applying at Headquarters.
 "I understand that you have been attending the lectures on 'First Aid to the Injured,' Miss Rosalie," said the young man.
 "Yes," answered the sweet girl.
 "Can—can you tell me," whispered the youth, drawing a little nearer, "what you would do for a bro—broken heart?"
 —New York Truth.

Too Late.
 "I say, old fellow, here are five shillings I borrowed of you last week!"
 "Thanks, dear boy! I had forgotten all about it."
 "Hang it, old man, why didn't you tell me that five minutes ago?"—London Tit-Bits.

Base Ball.
 To-morrow at 2 o'clock a club of the energetic boys of the High school are to try their skill upon the heroes of Murray in an interesting game of base ball.
 This is the first game to be played by the school boys and they have undertaken a big job when they challenge the farmers of Murray precinct.
 The public are expected to encourage the boys by their presence at the park. General admission 15 cents school children 10, ladies free.
