The Pas Discharged from Them is Full of Dangerous Germs. Boils are caused by germs, but it is ot fully determined just how the germs and access, but they are probably received through some slight abrasion or other injury to the skin. The pus which is discharged is full of germs. A slight injury in the vicinity of any of the glands of the body through which germs are given opportunity for entrance, is often followed by enlargement of the glands. An injury to the face for instance, will cause the glands of the neck and jaw to swell. Sometimes from inflamed tonsils germs find access and are carried by the lymphatics along to some point where they obatruct the bloodvessels and form a tiny elot which gives the germs a chance to feed and grow upon dead blood and in this way develop a boil. Germs of consumption are similarly taken to the lungs sometimes. Enlarged lymphatic glands about the neck or elsewhere should receive attention because they may lead to something else. They often take on tuberculosis degeneration and after awhile reach the lungs. It is best to have the glands removed by surgery while the enlargement is still alight. Otherwise gland below gland may be found affected and the operation come to be quite a serious one. It is very rare that they can be cured by any remedy. A simple enlargement of ance. the glands can sometimes be driven away by arsenic, but the arsenie may develop a disorder worse than the enlarged glands.-Dr. J. H. Kellogg.

A BIRCH-BARK STAND.

New to Make a Thermometer Stan Which is Very Pretty Indeed. Fancy articles made of the birch bark brought home from summer wanderings are always acceptable gifts, and the following thermometer stand is not only pretty but easily made.

Take a strip of bark seven inches long and about six inches wide, cut it in a sloping line across the top, beginming at the left. Slope down the right side for about four inches, and roll over the remaining two inches or the small end of the right-hand corner in such a manner as to make both top and bottom of the stand of equal width; the roll is kept in place by a narrow ribbon

Now fasten the bark to a piece of cardboard of the same shape, only a trifle smaller. This is to hold the bark flat. Sew another piece of cardboard, say about 3x5, on the back, at the top only, so as to support the whole and allow it to stand like an easel.

Little slits are cut in the bark ou the left side, which have narrow ribbon run through, finished both top and bottom in tiny bows; the center is ornamented with pressed flowers and mosses held in place by fine stitches or white varnish, and the little ten-cent thermometer is tied on with tiny bows of ribbon; yellow ribbon is used in this ease, as the flowers are buttercups.

An Improved Ink.

This is for an ink which is permanent and unaffected by the application of acids, alkalies, etc., and which renders forgeries and erasures, additions or alterations easy of detection and difficult to accomplish. To carbon black (preferably prepared by the action of concentrated sulphuric or other acid on sugar) are added a solution of gum arabic or other mucilage, caustic, soda, oxalic acid and Indian ink. Vanadium in any form, Aleppo galls, nut galls and a small quantity of an aniline dye are then added along with sufficient water to make the ink flow readily. The following proportions yield good results: Nut galls, 20 per cent.; Aleppo galls, 5 per cent.; carbon black, 10 per cent.: "vanadium, 1 per cent.;" Indian ink, 10 per cent.; oxalic acid, 3 per cent.; aniline dye, 1 per cent.; rain water, 50 per cent. "The whole is boiled, filtered and strained."- Scientific American.

Hasty Friendships.

Some people are continually acquiring "dear friends." Ladies of an impressible nature have been known to add two or three to their list every week Muring the visiting season. Men are not, generally speaking, as apt to rush into friendship as the more amiable sex, yet many a man contracts friendships in haste that he repents at leisure. True friends are scarce acquisitions. They cannot be picked up at the rate of half a dozen a season at linner parties or balls.-N. Y. Ledger. To Make Butter-Scotch.

Take three pounds of sugar, a quarter pound of butter, half a teaspoonful of cream of tartar, and add sufficient water only to dissolve the sugar. Boil without stirring until it will easily break when dropped in cold water. Then pour into a well-buttered dripping pan, and when almost cold cut into small squares. If desired, a dash of lemen may be added into the mixture before putting on to boil. Eight drops will be suffi-

I have not used all of one bottle yet. I suffered from catarrh for twelve years, experiencing the nauseating dropping in the throat peculiar to that disease, and nose bleed almost daily. I tried various remedies without benefit until last April, when I saw Ely's Cream Balm advertised in the Boston Budget. I procured a bottle, and since the first day's use have had no more bleeding—the soreness is entirely gone,—D. G. Davidson, with the Boston Budget, formerly with the Boston Journal.

How a Coat of Tar Feels.

People who read of tarring and feathering know that the punishment is a very unpleasant one, but few imagine how terribly painful and dangerous it ta. In Wyoming I once saw a man who had been tarred and feathered, and although he fully deserved the discipline I could not help pitying him. Hardened tar is very hard to remove from the skin. and when feathers are added it forms a kind of cement that sticks closer than a brother. As soon as the tar sets the victim's suffering begins. It contracts as it cools, and every one of the little veins on the body is pulled, causing the most exquisite agony. The perspiration is entirely stopped, and unless the tar is removed death is certain to ensue.

But the removal is no easy task and requires several days. The tar cannot be softened by the application of heat, and must be peeled off bit by bit, sweet oil being used to make the process less painful. The irritation to the skin is very great, as the hairs cannot be disengaged, but must be pulled out or cut off.

No man can be cleaned of tar in a single day, as the pain of the operation would be too excruciating for endurance, and until this is done he has to suffer from a pain like that of 10,000 pin prices. Numbers of men have died under the torture, and none who have gone through it regard for and feathering as anything but a most feather in fit. Living Shifts Benocest.
