The people of Lincoln will be glad to know that Judge Chapman was re-elected in Cass and Otoe counties by a handsome majority. —Lincoln Call.

The N. S. society of the Presbyterian church will give an entertainment and social in the basement of the church Nov. 13. Admission ten cents. All are invited.
A certain business man presented himself at the city clerk's office on election day for the purpose of swearing in his vote, and upon inquiry it was found that he had never taken out his naturalization papers. If a man is capable of carrying on a successful business in America he should certainly take enough interest in the welfare of his country to become a citizen.

HONORED BY THE BAR.

A Banquet Tendered Judge Chapman at the Riley.

Many Prominent Legal Lights Testify of Their High Regard and Esteem for the Able Jurist.

A banquet was tendered Judge Chapman last evening at the Hotel Riley, the bars of Cass and Otoe counties, irrespective of party affiliations, participating in the festivities of the occasion. The spacious dining hall was brilliantly lighted and appropriately decorated; and in preparing the bill of fare the butler fairly eclipsed all former attempts in every particular, thus indicating a familiarity with the traits and possibilities of the members of the bar. S. P. Vanatta acted as toastmaster and in a few appropriate remarks, in which he paid a glowing tribute to the integrity and ability of Judge Chapman, announced as the first toast "Our Guests," which was responded to by Hon. J. B. Strode. He was at a loss to understand why he should be chosen to respond to "Our Guests," as he no longer belonged to the bar of the Second district, but inasmuch as he was now practicing some in Cass county, he presumed that this was his home and Otoe members were the guests.

Hon. T. B. Stevenson responded to the toast "The Alliance and the Bar." Mr. Stevenson in a quaint manner remarked: "Gentlemen, the alliance does not patronize the bar, but its representatives does sometimes eat with the members of the bar." He expressed profound regard and respect for Judge Chapman, and though himself a defeated candidate, he considered the judgment in safe hands.
To the toast "The Relation of the Judge to the Bar," Judge Chapman responded. He eulogized the bar of the district and expressed delight at the many manifestations of regard toward him. He had paid little attention to the canvass, and no action of his toward any opposing candidate brought unpleasant recollections to his mind. He felt grateful that fairness had characterized the campaign throughout.

H. D. Travis responded to the toast "The Relation of the Bar to the Court." He thought that the utmost respect should characterize the relation of the members of the bar to the court and to each other. He spoke in high terms of the ability of Judge Chapman and personal relations between them would continue most friendly. His remarks teemed with wit and were heartily applauded.

Judge Sullivan responded to the toast "Duty to the Alliance." The Judge said he was raised a farmer and his sympathies were with the farmers' interests. He favored a farmers' organization for mutual protection but as a political organization it was a failure. A political party should be so broad and liberal as to deal fairly with all classes of industry, and the party that could not protect the farmers' interests deserved to die.
Mathew Gering responded to the toast "A Lawyer," in which he outlined his ideal lawyer. He should have a broad education, integrity above reproach and be unwavering in his fidelity to his client.

"The Bar of the Second Judicial District" was responded to by W. L. Browne; "The Jury System and Its Relations to Justice," by Hon. R. B. Wadham; "The Supreme Court," by Allen Heeson; "Partisanship in the Election of Judges," by W. L. Hayward; "The Honesty and Integrity of the Bar," by J. H. Haldeman; "The Relation of the Bar to Each Other," by C. S. Polk; "The Efforts of Some of the Bar Experimenting With Stimulants," by Byron Clark; "The Chirography of the Bar," by Myron E. Wheeler; "The Future Lawmaker," by Hon. F. E. White; "The Law Student," by D. O. Dwyer; "The Lawyers and Finances," by B. A. Gibson; "The Press and the Bar," by H. G. Race; all of which were replete with witty remarks, gave expression to many lofty and inspiring sentiments and in every instance the high regard and esteem in which Judge Chapman is held was unmistakably indicated.

Attempted to Steal Corn.
In the police court to-day a Bohemian was charged with stealing corn from the field of Geo. Lindsay. Judge Archer fined him $2.50 and costs. The evidence against him was conclusive as he was discovered in the field with a sack of corn on his shoulder. His plea was that he was simply getting some corn husks for the purpose of making a bed, but as the sack was about half filled with corn with the husks removed it was very evident that it was the corn he was after.

District Court.
In the case Hayes vs. Nebraska Coffee Co., suit for salary for services performed as traveling salesman, the jury returned a verdict of $75 for the plaintiff.
The day has been consumed trying the case Sull vs. the Omaha Southern R. R. In this case the plaintiff appeals from the decision of the board of arbitration, which assessed damages resulting from the running of the railroad through Sull's land. The plaintiff alleges that the allowance made by the board was insufficient. Messrs. Strode and Clark appear for plaintiff and Judge Sullivan for defendant. The case will probably go to the jury about 4 p. m.

The Advertising Train.
The advertising train will return to Omaha to-morrow evening. The tour throughout the east has been a success from the start and it cannot fail to be productive of the good results apprehended by the prime movers of the enterprise. The newspapers in nearly every town through which the train has passed have spoken in high terms of the magnificent representation of the possibilities of Nebraska soil. This together with the exhibition itself has done more talking for Nebraska than has ever been done in the same period of time before. The delegates have improved opportunities to impress the fact upon eastern capitalists that we offer good inducements to manufacturers and that by reason of the adaptation of our soil, to the production of raw material manufacturing establishments could be located here profitably. It is highly probable that opportunities will be given in the near future for Plattsburgh to reap benefits accruing from this advertising scheme and in view of this step should be taken to still further encourage the investment of capital. Several industries might prosper here but THE HERALD advises that an effort be made to secure the operation of our canning factory and the location of a beet sugar industry first.

Railroad Humbling.
"Can you tell me," he asked, as he entered an office on Broad street the other day, "why the railroad should discriminate so heavily against dressed meat over live stock?"
"Certainly, sir. Dressed meat is dead, isn't it?"
"Of course."
"Well, anything that can't kick is always bulldozed by a railroad company — Texas Siftings."

A Tree That Produces Milk.
A growing wonder is the cow tree of South America, which is credited with yielding a lactical fluid which, in color, taste and nutritive property closely resembles the offerings of your milkman. It forms large forests in some districts of Venezuela and is much prized for its product. — Philadelphia Times.
