WHAT has become of the farmers' alliance congressman from the solid south, of which we heard so much a few months since?

It is now pretty evident that Jerry Simpson will have to caucus alone. He will have one advantage anyway there will be a unanimous vote.

THERE is little doubt now that Sherman has more friends in the legislature of Ohio than Foraker. It will continue to be Senator Sherman.

Now that Kearney has secured the bicycle factory she will probably yet increase her speed. If the other towns do not mount the wheel soon, Kearney will be out of sight.

THE democratic party is not a unit on the tariff question. It is possible however that the Mill minority may yet whip the Crisp majority into line, thus insure the passage of a Mills bill No. 2.

AN Omaha lady has sued an Omaha railway company for $15,000 for alleged carelessness on the part of the company causing her to break her arm. The examining physician did not state that her nerve had been injured in the least, however.

In defeating Mills and electing Crisp to the speakership the democracy takes a decided step against true blue democratic principles. Mills is recognized, to a greater degree than any other man, to be the leader of the tariff reform idea in house and one of the oldest members in that body. He received all the support that Cleveland could tender with propriety and yet the tide could not be turned in his favor. The selection of a Randall democrat indicates that the party leaders fear to make a spirited campaign against the McKinley bill and it is very probable that no radical measure will be passed.

We have been requested to publish the following:

The export rates on grain, flour and breadstuffs generally have been advanced ten per cent, or nearly 2 cents per bushel, which decreases the value of grain in the hands of producers that much in consequence of the closing of the lakes. Notice was served on shippers some time ago that November 24 the lake lines would be forced to close down for the season, and nearly all of the fast freight lines at once wired orders to their western agents to stop receiving these commodities until the annual advance should take effect.

The advance on the rail lines, of course, was sent out, and while the railroads continued to handle grain they did so with some reluctance. This advance is a regular thing and goes to show the effect upon the grain business by lines of water communication. The handling of bulk grain at any time is the source of considerable trouble to the closing of the lake season to advance the rates.

While the lake route is closed, St. Louis still has a line of water communication open by the way of New Orleans. With storage facilities equal to those of Chicago, New Orleans would easily be the principal port of exit for the crops of the whole Missouri and Mississippi valley, and would be a prime factor in the regulation of rates to the seaboard. Mobile, Savannah, Galveston, in fact, the entire Gulf and Atlantic seaboard, would be compelled to take the New Orleans rate from St. Louis at present and from all Missouri river points in the near future.

With adequate storage and shipping facilities along the line of these rivers the farmers of the West could even bring the North Mississippi river points into line.

The river improvement commission to be held in Kansas December 15 and 16, will matter up. Under the auspices of states and all members of legislative bodies, 1851 and state, are eligible to membership. Presidents of commercial bodies in cities are entitled to two delegates for 5,000 population and two for each additional 10,000.

Joeko's Sunday Breakfast.
 A few pedestrians who were out for a morning stroll witnessed a brief but bloody battle through the windows of the Market street bird store Sunday morning.

Among the denizens of the place to a monkey called Joeko, whose proclivity for mischief has led him into disgrace before. On the morning in question Joeko determined to go on a lark. He succeeded in picking the lock of his cage, and once free turned his attention to his feathered companions. It took but a few minutes to unlock a dozen of the various cages in the room, and soon a funny procession of monkeys and parrots were strutting about. In a few minutes trouble began to brew. One of the parrots, in a spirit of mischief, probably hit Joeko, and a lively battle ensued. Polly soon found that she was getting the worst of it and made a rush for her cage, minus her tail feathers and part of a wing.

Joeko, who was then thoroughly aroused, sailed in for a general massacre, and in a short time had the floor to himself, save for Minnie, a little nightingale, who was too dazed to escape. With one blow the bird was stretched lifeless on the floor. The monkey then offered battle to a big stuffed owl which had been gazing solemnly upon the scene, and receiving no answer to his challenge, threw the bird off its pedestal. Joeko's Waterloo was awaiting him however. A huge vampire bat, which had been watching the battle, jumped down from his perch, and Joeko started for him. The contest was brief. The sharp beak and talons of the bird buried themselves like a flash in the monkey's flesh, and Joeko was glad to make his escape with the blood flowing from a dozen wounds. At this juncture the proprietor appeared and hostilities ceased.—San Francisco Chronicle.

A True Hat Story.
 Here is a new and absolutely true hat story. A New York gentleman, dining at a hotel in Boston, found on coming out that he was the last to leave the dining room, and his hat had been taken by somebody who had preceded him, leaving one very similar, but unmistakably not his, in its place. It was a sufficiently good substitute to allow of his wearing it for three weeks after his return home, when, after dinner one day, three weeks later, he said to a friend with whom he had just been dining:

"I must replace this hat; it's not mine, and it doesn't fit. Come with me and I'll do it now."
 Together they sought a neighboring shop and began to examine hats. One after another was tried on by the intending purchaser, none quite suiting him.

"It's too bad," said his friend, "like you, I am hard to fit. Now, this one is the most comfortable hat I ever had."
 "It looks so," remarked the hat seeker; "let me try that on." The hat was handed to him. It adjusted itself perfectly to his head. "Man alive!" he ejaculated, "this is my lost hat," and he took it off quickly, turned back the inside band, and, sure enough, there was his name and residence in indisputable proof. It turned out that the friend had been in Boston the same day, though they had not met, had dined at the hotel, but had not discovered that he had worn away another man's hat. And the shop lost a sale of a hat.—New York Times.

Not an Eleemosynary Institution.
 "It's funny about some people one meets traveling," remarked a drummer at the Cadillac as he threw his feet upon the writing table.
 "How?" inquired the man next to him.
 "On a dining car, for instance, the other day," he went on jerkily.
 "What?" asked the other man encouragingly.
 "Coming over from New York. Odd sort of a genius across the car from me. After he left the car the waiter who had served him brushed the crumbs off of my table.
 "See dat man, boss?" he asked.
 "Reckon he nermal was on a dining car befo'."
 "Why?" I inquired.
 "Cazo, boss, he axed for a second helpin. Gemen who eats on dese yer dining cabs, boss, knows dey ain't no charitable institutions for givin victuals away in no sich manna as dat."
 "I had been thinking I wanted a little more than had been allowed me, but I didn't ask for it after that," and the drummer sighed.—Detroit Free Press.

Bless Her!
 There is a family of little folk not far away who are delightful from their love for each other. Vin has the greatest admiration for his sister Molly, and will do anything for her—"You's so pitty, Molly." He is five and she is three. One cold morning Molly's mamma set her in her high chair, while baby had her necessary care and papa ate his breakfast. It was rather chilly, and Molly was in her nightdress.
 Vin wanted to make her warm, so he wrapped up her feet in a newspaper, but poor Molly slipped and fell solidly on the floor from her high chair. "Oh, Molly," said Vin, in tears, "did you hurt your?" "No," said Molly, winking back the tears which would come; "No, bruvver, I fell on 'a paper."—Gardner (Mass.) Home Journal.

A Cure for Paralysis.
 Frank Cornelius, of Purcell, Ind. Ter., says: "I induced Mr. Pinson, whose wife had paralysis in the face, to buy a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. To their great surprise before the bottle had been used she was a great deal better. Her face had been drawn to one side; but the Pain Balm relieved all pain and soreness, and the mouth assumed its natural shape." It is also a certain cure for rheumatism, lame back, sprains, swellings and lameness. 50 cent bottles for sale by F. G. Fricke & Co., Druggists.

We have sold Ely's Cream Balm about three years, and have recommended its use in more than a hundred special cases of catarrh. The unanimous answer to our inquiries is, "It's the best remedy that I have ever used." Our experience is, that where parties continued its use, it never fails to cure.—J. H. Montgomery & Co., Druggists, Decorah, Iowa.

When I began using Ely's Cream Balm my catarrh was so bad I had headache the whole time and discharged a large amount of filthy matter. That has almost entirely disappeared and have not had headache since.—J. Sommers, Stephney, Conn.

A POPULAR FAMILY.
 JENNIE: "How is it, Kate, that you always seem to catch on to the latest new thing? Do what I may, you always seem to get ahead of me."
 KATE: "I don't know; I certainly do not make any exertion in that direction."
 JENNIE: "Well, during the last few months, for example, you have taken up painting."

without any teacher; you come to the rescue when Miss Lafarge deserted her lessons so suddenly, and certainly we are all improving in grace under your instruction; I heard you telling Tommy James just evening how his club made mistakes in putting basins; you seem to be up on all the latest 'fash' and know just what to do under all circumstances; you entertain beautifully; and in the last month you have improved as in health, owing you follow to your physical culture exercises. Where do you see all of your information from in this little out-of-the-way place?—For you to see go to the city."
 KATE: "Why, Jennie, you will make me vain. I have only one source of information, but it is surprising how it meets all wants. I very seldom hear of anything new but what the next few days bring me full information on the subject. Magie! No! Magazine! And a great treasure it is to us all, for it really guides the reading for the whole household; father has given up his magazine that he has taken for years, as he says this one gives more and better information on the subjects of the day; and mother says that it is that that makes her such a famous housekeeper.
