Closed by the Sheriff. Reed Bros', general merchants at Weeping, were closed Saturday by the sheriff. The liabilities so far reach about $800 with assets of nearly $1500. The First National Bank, of Weeping Water, headed the list with over $7000. The firm has been doing business but a short time. The old firm Reed Bros' & Co. contracted the debt. The members of the firm doubt the legality of the proceedings, and say they are not responsible.

A Turkish Bath. Manager Young has secured a five act action in "A Turkish Bath," which will appear at the Waterman opera house to-night. They are composed of excellent singers, dancers and comedians. The Omaha Bee says: "Marie Heath, the chief performer of the company, enacted a leading role as the old man's daughter and introduced some specialties that were original and clever enough to bring down the house repeatedly and win several encores. Miss Heath is one of the most remarkable combinations of age and infancy that have ever been seen on the local stage. She can do the part of a vivacious child with an art that is absolutely perfect, her voice, face and figure constituting a combination that cannot fail to excite wonder with admiration. Her bits of work that she threw in occasionally revealed the knowledge and finish of an experienced actress. Marie is, in her own person, a rosebud, and won a good many hearts last evening."

La Gripple. No healthy person need fear any dangerous consequences from an attack of la gripple if properly treated. It is much the same as severe cold and requires precisely the same treatment. Remain quietly at home and take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as directed for a severe cold and a prompt and complete recovery is sure to follow. This remedy also counteracts any tendency of la gripple to result in pneumonia. Among the many thousands who have used it during the epidemics of the past two years we have yet to learn of a single case that has not recovered or that has resulted in pneumonia. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by F. SPECIAL MARKET LETTER.

W. G. Press & Co., Bankers & Commission Merchants, Nos. 2 and 4 Sherman Street, Chicago, in their last special market letter say: The depression in the wheat markets of the world since the issuing of our Department of Agriculture report showing the crop of 1891 to be 611,780,000 bushels, is in a measure due to the prevailing belief that the report indicates an exportable surplus much larger than we believe a candid and just interpretation of its significance warrants. As the yield is given in measured bushels, and our exports and receipts are reported in commercial bushels the report is of value only as furnishing a basis upon which to predicate estimates of the total yield in bushels conforming to the commercial standard. A glance at the inspection returns of the leading primary markets is sufficient to convince any grain dealer that the average weight of a measured bushel is considerably under the standard of 60 pounds, and that a general average of 57 pounds is as much as the returns indicate. Applying this ratio of deficiency to the reported yield would reduce the estimate of 611,780,000 bushels to 381,191,000 sixty pound bushels. From this should be deducted wheat harvested but rendered unfit for use, in order to determine approximately the available yield. As there is a large amount of grain in the northwest still in shock, and in imperfectly constructed stacks, the loss there will doubtless be large, and may be conservatively estimated at 5,000,000 bushels, leaving the total available supply from last year's crop 576,191,000 commercial bushels from which to supply bread, seed, export requirements and increase in reserves above the amount on hand at the beginning of the present crop year. That reserves, July 1st, were small is generally conceded, for farmers had the incentives of monetary stringency and the prospect of an unprecedented crop for disposing of their wheat, while this year they are confronted with a poor prospect for an abundant yield, and have seldom been in an easier financial condition. Should the prospect for this year's crop show no marked improvement in the spring, producers being in independent circumstances, will be disposed to hoard their grain and carry into another crop year, much larger reserves than they did into this, and which may be, without exaggeration, estimated at an increase of 15,000,000 bushels. The bread, seed and manufacturing requirements for the year may be safely estimated at 360,000,000 bushels, 365,000,000 bushels being the amount figured by the majority of statisticians, for there are no special reasons for any marked curtailment in consumption, the laboring classes being quite generally employed, at remunerative wages and apt to supply themselves liberally with bread. Deducting from the available production of 576,191,000 bu., 375,000,000 as probable requirements for bread, seed, manufacturing purposes, and increase in reserves, and we have for export for the entire crop year 201,191,000 bushels, of which we have thus far forwarded about 130,000,000 bushels, leaving the exportable surplus for the remainder of the year 71,191,000 bushels. Of this amount available for consumption in Europe before another harvest will be confined to the proportion of the total, east of the Rocky Mountains and what will be shipped from the Pacific Coast before April 1st, for shipments from there later than that date will not reach their destination before the Atlantic seaboard markets are receiving and shipping wheat from the crop of 1892. While these estimates and deductions are of value only as they are approximately correct, they are submitted for consideration as being warranted by existing conditions and a reasonable interpretation of the data available. With the probability that we have but about 70,000,000 bushels more wheat for export, while Europe must depend upon us for nearly all her requirements until the first of August, France alone needing over 60,000,000 bushels, there is apparently but little need of continued depression on our markets, and any further decline should be followed by a substantial and permanent advance.

State League. What is the matter with Nebraska having a state baseball league? Iowa has just made arrangements for one. The other cities in Nebraska are willing. How is it with Plattsmouth? The following from the Lincoln Journal is proof that Lincoln can be counted on: "The Lincoln base ballists have about made up their minds that if this city wishes to have a team in the field it must be in a state league. The Western league, with its expensive circuit, extravagant management and high-priced players, entails upon the clubs an expense greater than the earnings warrant, and when it is seen that the teams of the larger and wealthier cities are compelled to draw out, puts a damper on cities of the size of Lincoln trying to hold their own."

"There are many who think that after having spotted a Western league team it would be poor policy to come down to a state organization. Better, they say, not have any team at all. "Hastings, Beatrice, Plattsmouth and Fremont are busily at it in the matter, and are anxious to have the capital city join in. Every thing is favorable to the venture. The street car company will leave standing the fences and buildings on the M street grounds, and the same promises have been made as to Lincoln park. It has been stated, and seems true, that it is 'state ball or no ball.'"
