Tom majors in the chair. Lieutenant Governor Majors called yesterday on Governor Thayer and while he still maintains his former position of holding aloof from the controversy, he will perform his duty and occupy the governor's chair when Governor Thayer leaves for Texas next Monday. He will abide by the decision of the Governor's attorneys and turn the office over to Governor Boyd whenever they request him to do so or whenever official notice is received from the proper tribunal. It is understood that the lieutenant governor first secured such instructions from Governor Thayer before signifying his willingness to fill the place.

Governor Thayer leaves Monday and will remain away about ten days, and as nothing new is expected from the United States or state court before he leaves, there is no probability of any change in the present situation.

In case the office was turned over under the present state of affairs it is alleged that the acts of Governor Boyd would be official and valid. Eminent lawyers hold that Governor Boyd would not legally be qualified until the courts clothe him with further authority.

After the decision was first announced in the newspapers, like everyone else, Governor Thayer considered the matter settled and prepared to vacate the office at a moments notice. Thursday afternoon he held a consultation with his attorney at Omaha and all the attorneys met yesterday in that city. It is safe to say that those who know Tom Majors do not expect him to either leave the state or call an extra session of the legislature while occupying the governor's chair. Another noticeable fact is that Governor Boyd does not now insist upon his right to take possession of the office at this time. Even his friends agree that if the truth were known Governor Boyd would be fair-minded enough to agree with the position taken by Governor Thayer in the interview appearing in these columns. No one here questions the good faith of Governor Thayer.—Lincoln Journal.

Elmwood Echo Items. Mr. Dickson tells us the prospects for new buildings here in the spring are far better than they have been for two years, and this is saying a good deal. He says he already has several lumber bills to figure on.

If you want to swear, and haven't the money to pay for it, just go before Judge Clements. He swore a fellow Monday night and accepted a rutabaga as fees. The rutabaga is the largest one on record and may be seen at the Echo office.

The Crandell eighty-acre farm, as advertised in the Echo, was sold Wednesday afternoon to C. Lemasters and Henry McLaughlin for the neat sum of $3,075, cash. This was an unimproved farm, so far as buildings are concerned, and shows the real price of land in this part of Nebraska.

The Echo reporter counted the teams in town at one time on Saturday last and found there were ninety six hitched to the racks. It is estimated that there were fully two hundred teams in town that day. And Tuesday was not far behind in that respect; in fact Elmwood is always crowded with traders and teams.

An old Settler Gone. DIED—At his home near this city, Thursday evening, February 4, 1892, Frank Stander aged 56 years, of consumption, after an illness of several months.

Mr. Stander was born in Valkarota; Prussia, May 26, 1835. He came to America when a boy of 19 years, landing in New York. In 1858 he turned his steps westward and arrived at Nebraska City, where he entered 123 on section 35, Louisville precinct. After eight years residence on this tract of land he sold it and purchased 160 acres on section 34 where he has resided until his death.

In 1882 Mr. Stander erected a large store building in this city, and in 1885 he, with his son James purchased the Louisville bank of J. J. Manker. He has been since a man prominent in the community and his word was considered as good as his bond. He has served as a member of the school board for fifteen years, officiated as assessor six year, and has accepted various other precinct offices. He voted the straight democratic ticket, and in religious matters is a devout member of the Catholic church.

He leaves an aged widow and a large family of children in good circumstances.

The funeral will occur to-morrow at 11 o'clock a. m.

Thus, one by one the old pioneers pass to the great beyond.—Louisville Journal.

"Below Zero." Once more Rentrow's "Below Zero" company tested the capacity of Houstain street theater last night. There was scarcely room to breathe long before the rise of the curtain. The "standing room only" sign was out. So well was the company received the night previous that admission after the doors were open was away above par. The company is one of the best that ever visited our city. The music new, specialties fine and in few words they are all artists and a credit to their profession. Miss Mellie Hayden's musical execution on the glasses received a worthy encore. Miss Della Jackson, without a doubt, is an artist of rare musical ability. Her rendition of "Coming Thro' the Rye" was something wonderful. Her voice is strong and exquisitely sweet, and far superior to any vocalist heard in our city for many a day. To all who love to laugh we can simply say "Below Zero" is a comedy of high degree.—San Antonio (Tex.) Express. "Below Zero" appears at the Waterman to-night. Don't fail to see it.

I feel it my duty to say a few words in regard to Ely's Cream Balm, and I do so entirely without solicitation. I have used it more or less half a year, and have found it to be most admirable. I have suffered from catarrh of the worst kind ever since I was a little boy and I never hoped for cure, but Cream Balm seems to do even that. Many of my acquaintances have used it with excellent results.—Oscar Ostum, 45 Warren Ave., Chicago, Ill.
