

Baby Gone.

On Wednesday, February 10, little Lester, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Sanders, died of lung fever and pneumonia.

Little Lester's voice is hushed and still, He is no longer here; Their home is desolate indeed Without that one so dear.

With him the birds of earth is'er; His work forever done; But yet we know the bliss of heaven With him has just begun.

His losses we deeply feel Our hearts are sad and dreary; But while we weep the bitter tear, May the Holy Comforter be near.

Rest, little Lester, in happiness rest, I know thou art happy In the realms of the blessed.

RUSSIAN RELIEF TRAINS.

Banners That the Cars Starting From Omaha Will Fly.

The Union Pacific has consented to allow its cars that are loaded with grain and flour for the Russians to go through to the east without transferring the loads at Omaha. There are seven of these cars off the Union Pacific lines in Nebraska.

About six cars will be brought in by the Elkhorn road, and all of them will go east over the North-western.

The train from the South Platte country will be made up at Lincoln and will cross the river at Plattsmouth and go over the Burlington.

Before the train that is to be made up at Omaha leaves the city it will go through a course of trimming at the hands of the board of trade, and as it files eastward, will have on its sides such language as this:

"Nebraska, the Home of King Corn."

"Nebraska can feed the World, 1891 Menu. 1651,000 Bushels of Corn."

"Nebraska to Russia, Live and Help Live."

"Western Progress, Eastern Polish."

The cars will all be at Omaha in a few days.

NAMES OF NEBRASKA TOWNS.

A Bit of History Liable to be Forgotten During the Flight of Time.

The recent presentation to the city of Kearney of a bronze bust of General Phil Kearny is made the occasion for the Kearney Journal to publish the following interesting bit of history:

"In May, 1871, Rev. D. N. Smith, Hon. George W. Frank, Captain I. E. Wambaugh and Mr. Wiltze, the latter private secretary of Mr. Smith, met in the Wyoming hotel, Omaha, and the question of naming the present site of Kearney was discussed. As many old settlers will remember, Rev. D. N. Smith belonged to the South Platte Land company and was interested in locating the C. B. & Q. and B. & M. railroads through Iowa and Nebraska. It is said he named every original town on these roads from Burlington, Iowa, to this point.

"In Nebraska he began at Ashland and aimed to name each in alphabetical order, but made exceptions in the cases of Lincoln and Kearney, the Nebraska legislature naming the former.

"From Lincoln comes Crete, Dorchester, Exeter, Fairmount, Grafton, Harvard, Inland, Juniata, Kenesaw, Lowell, etc. After this outline was formed others sprung up along the route and these towns had to take names outside of this alphabetical formula, such as Sutton, Hastings, etc. As the letter 'M' was next not used after 'L' in Lowell, this place Minden had it not been for Mr. Smith. Various names were discussed earnestly and at some length, when Mr. Smith said: 'Gentlemen, there is old Fort Kearney, located near the new station, of national reputation, already renowned in history and named for the gallant General Kearny who so bravely gave his life for our country and we will call the new station Kearney for the illustrious soldier, also. We will call it Kearney Junction, and when the citizens get ready they can cut off the 'Junction' and have simply 'Kearney,' a name which will give the place a notoriety and character at once.' So Kearney it was, and Kearney it is, and if the reverend gentleman were living to-day he would be proud of the child he named more than twenty years ago.

"Strict adherence to official records would seem to require a slight correction to the above. When World's Fair Commissioner A. G. Scott, of Kearney, corresponded with government officials to secure data for the history of the Fort Kearney flagstaff, he was informed that the fort was named for Major S. W. Kearny, who once commanded the fort under its old name. Thus it would seem that the namers of the city labored under a misapprehension as to the naming of the fort for General Phil Kearny. It will be noticed that in either case the second 'e' in the name of the city is superfluous."

The Girls Choice.

A pleasant evening was spent last night at the residence of Mrs. H. H. Hilton in South Park. The young ladies gave a leap year party and high five held sway until 12 o'clock, when refreshments of a high order was served. Miss Rose Hyers and Tom Miller won the king prize and Miss Clara Green and Wendall Foster the booby prize. Following is a list of those present: Edith Patterson, Bert Holmes, Bessie Walker, Tom Miller, Gertrude Hilton, Frank Ballance, Lucile Simpson, Glen Carruth, Clara Green, Wendall Foster, Anna Sullivan, Chas. Sullivan, T. Vallery, Louis Vallery, Rose Hyers, Hal Johnson, Mollie Ballance, Gus Hyers, Mattie Smith, Will Cooledge.

J. A. Lantz is the name of a man who thought he had a corner on the whisky market, but officer McGuire gathered him under his protecting wings and landed him in the city bastille. This morning he was brought before Judge Archer who administered to him a severe reprimand and then it was thought necessary to assess him $500 and costs amounting in all to $11.80.

A GOOD PROSPECT.

Plattsmouth has a Good Show for a League Team-- "G T Together."

Is Plattsmouth to be one of the eight live cities of Nebraska this coming year, or not? That is the question that is irritating the minds of our base ball enthusiast just at present. A city is not a real live, progressive energetic city unless it is afflicted with a large, full-grown, well developed ball club and we are going to be a live city or know the reason why. We will have a club and, if our wealth will only hold out, it will be a state league club. After much figuring and many sleepless nights our mathematical editor has arrived at the conclusion that about six or eight hundred dollars is all that is necessary to give us a first grade team. He has further arrived at conclusion that we are enthusiastic enough to cough up this amount this year and go in and knock the spots out of Kearney or Beatrice or any other thriving and progressive village that may bob up against us. For the nucleus of a club we have Miller, Perrine, the Pattersons and John Schulhoff. If that isn't nucleus enough we have never seen one. With six hundred dollars to start with, with a ball park already in good trim and with a reasonable amount of confidence there is no reason why we can't be in it. The next step on the program is for the president of the association to call a meeting of the stockholders and set the ball rolling. We can "get together" and start Plattsmouth out this year at the head of the procession where it belongs.

"Uncle Hiram." The comedian, Aaron H. Woodhull, and his company will shortly appear here in his latest success, "Uncle Hiram." The play is a sparkling New England comedy, simple but interesting in plot, besides having all the elements of popularity, and is diversified with good singing and dancing. Humor crops out everywhere in it. The role of "Hiram Homespun" introduces an excellent Vermont farmer on the stage. He is good, and does not overdo the part of a country jay, but acts the farmer enough to bring down the house every time he makes a misstep.

Mr. Woodhull has endeavored to create a new character in the stage farmer, and has succeeded. "Uncle Hiram," while shrewd and possessing the good and manly qualities of "Uncle Josh" in the "Old Homestead," is more of "the jay" and consequently creates more fun. He has all sorts of tricks played upon him, and every time Woodhull speaks the audience yell. He is admirably supported by the comedienne and protean artist, Miss Griswold, a handsome and talented girl, who captures the house at once with her specialties, German warbling, etc., etc. If you miss seeing "Uncle Hiram" at the Waterman Saturday night, you will regret it.

The Factoryville Roller Mills' new process buck wheat flour "takes the cake." There is no better made. Ask your grocer for it. All live grocers keep it, if they do not they will order it for you.

I feel it my duty to say a few words in regard to Ely's Cream Balm, and I do so entirely without solicitation. I have used it more or less half a year, and have found it to be most admirable. I have suffered from catarrh of the worst kind ever since I was a little boy and I never hoped for cure, but Cream Balm seems to do even that. Many of my acquaintances have used it with excellent results. Oscar Ostum, 45 Warren Ave., Chicago, Ill.

La Grippe.

No healthy person need fear any dangerous consequences from an attack of la grippe if properly treated. It is much the same as a severe cold and requires precisely the same treatment. Remain quietly at home and take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as directed for a severe cold and a prompt and complete recovery is sure to follow. This remedy also counteracts any tendency of la grippe to result in pneumonia. Among the many thousands who have used it during the epidemics of the past two years we have yet to learn of a single case that has not recovered or that has resulted in pneumonia. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by F.
