

Bound Over. Jasper Clawson from the vicinity of Louisville was arrested on a warrant charging him with stealing wheat. He had his preliminary hearing before Justice A. G. Clive of Louisville. The evidence of his guilt was so conclusive that he was bound over to the next term of the district court. He was brought in this morning and will be a guest of Landlord Wm. Tigue.

Done up in Denver. The following concerning Andrew J. Doran, a man well known in Cass county, is from the Lincoln Journal: "Private advices received at Waverly tell briefly of the killing in a gambling house in Denver of Andrew J. Doran, who was well known in Waverly, and other towns in this vicinity. Doran was formerly foreman or boss in the stone quarries at Louisville, Cass County. He was also at one time connected with one of the quarries at Weeping Water, but more recently operated a resort in Waverly where it was suspected that liquors were being sold. Those who assembled in Bohanan's hall some months since to witness a wrestling match which proved to be a fake and did not take place, will remember that A. J. Doran, who claimed to be from South Omaha, was selected as referee. He was the same to whom reference is herein made some two or three weeks since, Doran secured a contract to do some stone work in Denver, left for that city. Several days since his friends received word that he had been killed in a Denver gambling resort, but no details of the affair were related. Those who know Doran say that some six or seven years since, his father was killed in a quarrel and that the son has spent several thousand dollars searching for the man who killed him. They think that perhaps he may have found him only to suffer a similar fate at his hands."

Something of a Sensation. Quite a stir was created in Lincoln yesterday in political and medical circles by the discovery that Dr. Charles B. Manning, who was appointed by Governor Boyd as superintendent of the insane asylum, was not a legally licensed physician under the state medical law. The statutes relating to the qualifications of superintendent of the Lincoln hospital for insane require that he "shall be a physician of acknowledged skill and ability in his profession, and a graduate of a regular medical school." The statutes further provide that trustees of the institution "shall have full power to make all by-laws for the government of the same, not inconsistent with the constitution and laws of this state." Upon investigation, says the Lincoln Journal, Dr. Manning had no diploma as a graduate of a regular school, and has not received a certificate to practice medicine from the state board of health. It is also stated that he applied to the board for a certificate, claiming to be a graduate of the Harvard medical school. He failed to produce a diploma, and his name is not on the list of graduates from that school, but at his own request the matter was dropped without the granting of a certificate to practice, the doctor agreeing to discontinue the practice of medicine.

It is understood that steps will be taken to test the legality of the appointment. In that case Mr. Manning's friends claim that he will place the case in the hands of attorneys and attempt to force the board of health to issue a certificate. It is understood that the doctor claims he is entitled to the missing diploma and that he will be able to secure one from Harvard. Those who recommended the doctor for the position were very much exercised last night when they discovered that he was not a licensed physician. In regard to his diploma it is stated that he passed through Harvard and then entered the hospital department. One requirement of the hospital regime was that those only who were without diplomas might enter; thus it was that he did not at first receive his diploma. That version, however, is at variance with the custom in vogue in all hospitals, where in fact the internes are usually graduates of a medical school.

It was apparent, however, that his appointment was with the understanding that he would be able to procure a certificate entitling him to practice. There are grave doubts entertained, however, of his ability to do so.

Dr. W. H. Dearing filed his certificate from the state board of health to-day with the county clerk. Dr. Dearing received his certificate dur-

ELLENBAUM VICTORIOUS.

The Jury Decides the Celebrated Cow Case in Favor of the Plaintiff.

The celebrated cow case had its third hearing before Judge Archer and consumed two days. This case has probably attracted more attention than any case has in Cass county for some time past. The case has been bitterly fought from beginning to end. The case was tried before a jury of three and they were out about three quarters of an hour when they returned with a verdict for the plaintiff. The evidence of Benton Brown and Dr. Hall had a good deal of influence with the jury. They both testified that they saw Bilstein coming down Washington avenue in company with Tom Henderson on the day that they claim the cow was killed. While Bilstein and Henderson both swore they were not together. Bilstein's friends claim the verdict is an outrage, but the majority of the citizens think it is all right. If the necessary bonds can be furnished the case will be taken to the district court, but the prevailing opinion seems to be that the case is ended.

Calling The Dead.

In the office of Houghton, Mifflin & Co. on Park street hangs an epistolary curiosity which is sure to attract the attention of all who have occasion to visit the sanctum of this well-known publishing house. It is a letter written by the principal of a school in a Pennsylvania town to Nathaniel Hawthorne, and is dated October, 1887.

The teacher begins by trying to worm himself in Mr. Hawthorne's good graces by telling him how highly his works are considered by his neighbors, and he winds up by asking a donation of a book or two for the school library.

"It seems very strange," remarked a visitor to the office a few days ago, "that a school-teacher should not have heard of the novelist's death twenty-three years after his decease."

"That is not the strangest feature of the matter," replied a member of the firm, to whom the remark was addressed. "The letter was directed to Mr. Hawthorne at Salem, and after remaining unclaimed in the post office there for the usual time, it was sent to us with a request to forward."—Boston Herald.

Overreached Himself.

A shoe manufacturer of New England, becoming dissatisfied with the efforts of his salesmen, started over the route of one of them (without his knowledge) to see what he could do in the way of selling goods. He didn't meet with any success, and at last, on learning from an old customer that he was too late, the order having been placed, he offered to take the order at 1 cent per pair less if the dealer would countermand the one he had given. This was agreed to, and the manufacturer returned, with the feeling that his journey had been an entire failure. But he discovered, on looking at his correspondence, that it was an order taken by his own salesman which he had bribed the dealer to repudiate. Then he soliloquized in language more emphatic than orthodox.—Shoe and Leather Reporter.

The Favorite, a paper published at Bonham, Texas says: The Noss Family, of which so much has been said and written, gave one of their delightful entertainments at the opera house last Friday night. We have seen lots of people who were able to play on different instruments but we don't think they were equal the intensely musical family. The two little Nosses in their song "Wont you Come out and Play" were very clever and scored a recall. The saxophone quintette was good, likewise the orchestra in which a number of specialties were introduced. The oboe had to be seen to be appreciated. They are nice people and are entitled in every way to the high esteem in which they are held by press and public.

I feel it my duty to say a few words in regard to Ely's Cream Balm, and I do so entirely without solicitation. I have used it more or less half a year, and have found it to be most admirable. I have suffered from catarrh of the worst kind ever since I was a little boy and I never hoped for cure, but Cream Balm seems to do even that. Many of my acquaintances have used it with excellent results.— Oscar Ostum, 45 Warren Ave., Chicago, Ill.
