PENILESS PIONEERS OF PLATTE.

Possess Thousands of Acres and Dollars To-day—Prospects of Tobacco Farming.

The following is clipped from the Omaha Bee dated at Columbus, Nebraska, and shows very plainly that the farmers out there are not all paupers, as the Independent agitators would have the people believe:

Your correspondent has made inquiries of a number of farmers in Platte county, and the results of the investigation proves that farming is a paying business in this portion of Nebraska, at least. There are very large number of tillers of the soil here who came years ago without property or money, their sole possessions consisting of helpless families and large appetites. Many of these men can now be pointed out who are worth over $100,000, and none can be found who has not succeeded gaining a competence: it would be strange were it otherwise when we consider the fact that during the past twenty-five years there has been but one partial failure of crops, caused by dry weather, and that was in 1890. It is true that small areas have occasionally suffered by hail storms, and during the early days the grasshopper visitations were sources of annoyance and loss; but the loss caused by the grasshopper has been greatly by the exaggerated, owing to the fact this locality was then mainly planted to wheat and oats and but little corn was raised. The grasshopper always came too late to seriously damage the wheat and oat crop, and had to be content with destroying the corn.

Patrick Murray came to Platte county 35 years ago with comparative nothing. Not having sufficient means to enable him to commence farming, he went to work for the government, putting up hay. While thus engaged his brother was killed by the Indians and his wife, who died recently, was severely hurt by an arrow. Mr. Murray now owns 3,000 acres of land, which cost him all the way from $150 to $30 an acre. He owns numerous business buildings and residences in Columbus and is now worth $100,000. He is about to retire from farming and intends to pass the balance of his days in comfort.

Mr. C. H. Sheldon is one of our foremost citizens and president of the commercial bank as well as an extensive farmer. He does not hesitate to say that farming pays in this locality. He came here the 1st of May 1853. He paid for $720 to $10 per acre for 1,400 acres of land which could now be sold for $30. He farms 980 acres of this, using the balance for pasture. Corn, wheat, oats and rye and tame grass are the crops he raises. Mr. Sheldon says that he owes his success in farming to raising grain and feeding it. From what inquiries he has made he is satisfied that tobacco growing can be made a decided success in this valley.

Coming to Nebraska.

It will be clearly seen by perusing the following article that Iowa is emigrating to Nebraska by train loads at a time. The following is from the Monitor, published at Manning Iowa: "Last Tuesday night two special trains started over the Northwestern—one from Gray and one from Manning—for Nebraska, loaded with the effects and belongings of a number of persons who will hereafter try and make a living in our sister state. Among those from Manning and vicinity we note the following, who are all among our friends: J. M. Nettleton shipped one car load; H. C. Hays, one car; U. Lenhart, one car; A. Lenhart, one J. A. Swearingen, one car; Carl and James Steffen, two cars; S. Grant, three cars; all going to Coleridge; E. W. Ferguson' one car, and I. O. Bingham one car to Hartington; Hugo Grundmeier for Henry Rohr, one car to Bloomfield; C. O. Johnson one car to Wakefield. H. A. Emes also shipped the same day one car to Iantha, Mo. The Gray train consisted of nineteen cars. Each train carried a passenger coach for the accommodation of the emigrants. A Fine Organization.

One of the best musical organizations we have in our city is an orchestra composed of some of the best musical talent to be found in the state. We had the pleasure listening to some of their excellent music last evening while they were rehearsing at the music store of Jas. Muir on Sixth street, and we, as well as we are able to judge, think it would be a hard task to try and beat them. It is composed of the following members: Waldemar Beck, first violin; J. P. Dray and Lillian Kauble, second violins; Don Latimer, clarinet; Mr. Eigenbroadt and A. H. Dray, cornets; Harry LaMack, trombone; Miss Lucile Simpson, piano; Harry J. Dray, bass.
