World's Fair Notes. Special World's Fair Commissioner Alexander Campbell has returned from Australia and reports that great enthusiasm over the exposition is felt in that part of the world. New South Wales, South Australia, Victoria, Queensland New Zealand and Tasmania are all making extensive preparations for their representation, and splendid exhibits are reported sure to be sent. Three new steamers between Sydney and San Francisco are about to be put on.

Mr. Barilusow of St. Petersburg, Russia, a dealer in fine oriental goods, intends to exhibit in the exposition rare carpets, shawls, hangings and textile fabrics from the far orient. He will furnish a number of rooms in rich oriental styles representing the residences of the wealthy Mahometans of Asia, and by way of contrast the tents of the nomad tribes of the Kirguiz Tartars. Some of the apartments will be in the style of the Caucasus, others in the Bokkara and Chiva styles. The furniture and decorations for these apartments have for the most part been collected at great expense in the remote orient. Suirnow & Co., of the same capital, will exhibit a complete suite of apartments of a "Boyar," or wealthy Russian noble of the XII century, and also the cabin of the rich Russian peasant of modern times. Each of these exhibits will be in a separate pavillion of distinctively Russian architecture. The great samovar factory at Toula, Russia, will send to the exposition a large exhibit of its products. It will also erect a great tea-saloon that will be a great reproduction of the most luxurious of these establishments to be found in the great cities of Russia

NO RAILROADS THEN.

But the Sport Was Just as Good and the Bears as Active.

'No," said Gilman, "the' wa'n't no railroads then, an' 't seems 's ef the' wa'n't much of anything else. The boys nowadays do know anything about what the'r daddies hed ter git along with when they was young. I e'n remember when matches fust come 'round. The' was a young feller 't went over to Chatham, 'bout twenty miles f'm where we lived then, an' he bought a little box 'bout 's big 's that, 'n' he paid a York shillin' for 'em.

"Well, every boy he come to on the road hum hed ter see one o' them matches lit, an' b' the time he got ter our place they was nigh about burnt We used ter cover up the coals keerful o' nights, but many's the time I've been round ter the neighbors to git 'em we'd put some loose tow in the old shot-gun an' fire it out. Sometimes we'd use a flint and steel, but mos' gin'lly the gun. Them old flintlocks wa'n't much to brag on, but they was better'n nothin'.

"It's jest about fifty year ago. I was about 9 year old, I know, an' one night about 1 o'clock my mother shook father an' told him the bears was after Uncle John's hogs. We the old tin lantern-you've seen them, I s'pose, full o' holes ter let out the light. He loaded up his old shotgun with shot-he hedn't no ball-an' primed her up, an' away he goes ter Uncle John's. It was jest about such a night as this-a-rainin' hard an' dark as all git out.

"Well, he routed out Uncle John, an' an old one-armed sailor they hed there, name o' Simmons, an' he would swear awful. They loaded up another ol' flintlock an' started for the hogs, an' sure enough there was the biggest kind o' bear, with his arm right round one o' the hogs, and a-eatin' away at the back of his neck. He looked up an' growled, an' then went on a-catin I was a-shiverin' at the winder, and I could hear the hull racket.

"Then they opened the door of the old tin lantern, so's to get a good sight, an' both on 'em pulled, an' snap! went the old locks-they were both wet. Then they went ter work an' primed 'em up agin; the bear a-growlof 41.8 per cent of the crop. This is time, an' the ol' sailor a-cussin' for all 'at's out. Seems ter me I never did hear sich a-growlin', an' a-squealin', an' a-cussin' in all my born days, but I was a little feiler then, an' wa'n't use to it, an' I was feared the bear 'd eat up father an' uncle, 'n' all the hogs in the pen, 'fore he got through; an' fer all I knowed the was forty bear-'t sounded 's ef there might 'a' bena-clawin' at them hogs. "Then they opened the lantern agin, an' drawed another bead, an' that time father's gun went off. He made a lucky shot, too-lucky fer him, I guess, for ef he hadn't, an' the bear'd 'a' got a clip at the lantern, an' put that out, they couldn't 'a' see nothin', an' might 'a' run right into his arms.

"But he run off, up hill a piece, an' they follered on, an' there they see him a-lying down. Then father wanted Uncle John ter gwup 'n' hit him with the ax, an' he wouldn't, fer fear the bear warn't dead. So father he went up 'n hit him a clip, an' he was dead, sure 'nuf. Four hundred pounds that bear dressed, an' they sold the skin for $12-a big price them times, but 'twas late in the fall. Yes, we EVERS-FRAHM-At the home of use' ter see some tough times them Mr. and Mrs. Henry Evers in Fourth days, but we ruther enjoyed it, a'ter all."-Forest and Stream.
