DEATH IS PAINLESS.

THE LAST SENSATIONS IN THIS WORLD ARE HAPPY ONES.

As the End of Life Approaches Nature Seems to Bring Her Peculiar Anasthetic and the Sufferer Passes Away Without Half the Agony of Sickness.

A human being's Seath was formerly considered a great struggle, and vivid, almost shocking, descriptions of the phenomena of dying were given in such or the pleasure of dying, takes the very opposite view and proclaims death to be easy and almost painless. As the end of life approaches nature often brings her peculiar anæsthetic and the person passes off without suffering half the agony which the sickness causing the death brought to the patient. Even men meeting a violent death in the jaws of wild beasts have a few seconds of calm preparation before dying, which brings relief and a certain degree of the sickness and pain which carries one to the door of death, and it is at such moments that one suffers all the torment | parted." and agony of a dozen deaths.

The pleasures of dying can only be likened to those of the dreamy morphine eater, who gradually passes off into a semiconscious state where everything seems like floating visions of bliss. The body and nerves are numb, and the excited, overwrought brain becomes quiet and unexcited.

The imagination plays fancifully with blissful pictures, and the whole condition of the nervous system is of pleasurable exaltation. The drowning man experiences the same relief and pleasure when the struggles are over and the cold limbs grow stiff and numb.

BLISS BEFORE THE END. Persons frozen in blinding snowstorms have reported their sensations accurately, and they all agree that after a certain amount of suffering which every one feels at first in extreme cold they enter into a blissful state from which they do not wish to be roused.

Morphine, cocaine, ether and laudanum bring to the patient this same mental and nervous condition, and patients resent any attempt to rouse them from their dreamy state. Nature supplies her own anæsthetic before the important moment has arrived.

Before the death rattle is heard the convulsed frame relaxes, the signs of pear, and often a smile partly opens the lips. The whole body shows signs of a painless moment, and if the mind wanders and the tongue utters words they are all of pleasure and joy.

Those who have watched at hundreds of deathbeds have noted that death was easy, and officers in battle have testi-fied that the last moments of dying sol-The republican electors of the diers were paintess. PLEASURES OF DYING. The pleasures of dying may remove a dreds who are inevitably approaching death. The old fashioned notion that insidious diseases, and many aggravated their complaints by feverishly dreading the pain of the last struggle. In this way a great deal of harm was done, and many sufferers hastened their own end.

Even in the case of poisoning, the combats against the desire to yield to the influence of the drug. Sleep generally steals over the person, and only the dreamy pleasures caused by the poison and of dying are again experienced in this world. The greatest pain felt that of the stomach pump, which may be applied in time to recall the suicide to life, and in every case they rebel against this most emphatically. That the suffering is not so terrible may be surmised from the fact that persons who have once attempted suicide frequently make the second or third attempt.

It is a fact that the pain of death is frequently far less than the pain that accompanies many diseases that are not fatal. Opium Smuggled Within a Dead Body. A remarkable snuggling story is related by a reliable resident of National City, Cal. According to the story a corpse was brought across the line from Mexico, ostensibly to be shipped to relatives in San Francisco. It was not examined very closely, as the mourners would have resented too close an inspection of the dead body, but the informant happened to be there and his curiosity was aroused. He therefore investigated.

No sooner was the solemn procession well away from the line than it changed its course, and instead of going toward San Diego went rapidly toward the east, exaggerated forms that none cared to climbed the hills until it reached Otay think of the supreme moment when mesa, and stopped at a house where the death should come to them. He rode boldly up to the corral and put up his horse. The occupants of the house were too busy to notice his arrival. He then walked to the house and looked through the window cautiously. He saw the whole crowd of mourners busily engaged in taking out small tin boxes of opium from the cadaver and piling them on the table. The observer, feeling that he alpleasure. A Parentless Nest Full.

The passengers on the 7:20 western bound passenger train of the Pennsylvania railroad Friday evening had their hearts moved by a most touching sight. Huddled together in two of the train seats, facing one another, were eight little children, the eldest not yet in her teens and the youngest a tiny babe, which opened its eyes to the light on Christmas day. These poor little ones were all brothers and sisters, but fatherless and motherless, left adrift thus early in their lives without a single relative, save one in far off India, whither they were bound.

The birth of the little babe Christmas morn had proven the death of its mother. The anguish stricken father, a poor mechanic named Robert Graham, turned from the sad bedside a heartbroken responsibility thus imposed upon him combined with his great grief to prostrate him, and from the severe fever which ensued he never recovered. New Year's day his silent remains were borne those of his wife.

But for the charity of a kind hearted neighbor the eight little orphans must have fared very ill in their lonely state. This neighbor learned of the whereabouts of the relative in India, corresponded with him and left with the little ones last Friday. - Philadelpina Record.

Built His Own Church.

The new Hovey Avenue Baptist church building is a handsome one, for which its pastor, J. C. Jacob, is entirely responsible A year ago he began to agitate the building of the structure, but meeting only with rebuffs he decided to go ahead with the construction.

Accordingly he begged the lumber from prominent firms of the city, and with his own hands laid the foundations and erected the superstructure. Six days out of seven for nearly six months past he has toiled early and late on the structure. With his own hands he has painted the entire building, and his own ingenuity is responsible for the beautigreat burden from the minds of hun- ful interior finish of butternut, sycamore and black ash. A Brave Pilot.

Captain John Stout, a Mississippi pilot, died recently in New Orleans. His life was distinguished by several acts of bravery. He was at the wheel of the steamer Robert E. Lee when she was burned at Yucatan plantation, in 1882. On that occasion he saved a score of lives by remaining at the wheel and holding his boat to the bank. He remained on the blazing vessel until the very last moment, and only escaped by sliding down the log chain. Captain Stout was on board the steamboat J. W. White when she was burned above Bayou Sara in 1886, and jumped overboard to escape the flames. He was picked up almost lifeless.-Philadelphia
