A Merry Gathering.

When, by some pre-arranged plan, Bart Kirkham arrived home at the unusually early hour of 9 last evening, he was surprised to find the house filled to overflowing with a joyous assembly of his young friends. He had entirely forgotten the fact that yesterday was his nineteenth birthday, although his friends had not, and he was forcibly reminded of the matter several times during the evening. The young folks were a jolly crowd, judging from the infectious peals of laughter, and they were at no loss for amusements, the time being most entertainingly whiled away in games and social intercourse. A delicious repast was served at 11 o'clock. The crowd dispersed shortly after midnight. There were present: Misses Lettie Smith, Maud Stickle, Margaret Safford, Alma Schmidtmann, Eva Smith, Cora Schlegel, Ada Bibby, Nellie Dray, Mattie Carmack and Lizzie Bibby, and Messrs. Fred Schlegel, George Smith, Tom Sherwood, Will Tucker, Morris Crisman, Otto Herold, John Kirkham, Will Smith and Charles Rhode.

Three Funny Men.

It is often said that a good German, Irish and negro comedian can give a show by themselves and they often do, but in addition to having Chas. A. Loder, German, C. E. Edwards Irish, and W. S. Lang, negro comedians, who are the very best in their lines, the "O What a Night" company has also ten other good people besides the English marvels, the Sisters Leigh. They are twin sisters who look alike exactly, and are the most accomplished dancers ever seen on the stage. Their wonderful "Delusion Dance" is the greatest act ever seen in this country, and people who have never seen it, will not believe that human ingenuity, patience and energy could accomplish so much, even though assisted by nature, in making two people resemble each other so perfectly. You will miss the best play of the season if you fail to see "Oh! What a Night" next Thursday night. Secure your tickets now. Price, 75 cents.

They Must Transact Business According to Law or Suffer the Consequences.

At a meeting of the banking board yesterday morning, upon the recommendation of Bank Examiner McGrew, the following was adopted and will be sent as a circular to each bank in the state.

Sir: It has come to the knowledge of this department that several banks within the state who claim to be doing a savings bank business are violating the provisions of the banking act relating to such banks by using and delivering to their depositors a form of blank receipt or check sometimes slightly different in form from those used by commercial banks, but which in fact are treated as ordinary bank checks, being paid through other banks and returned to the bank where the deposit is kept for collection. In some instances the managers of these banks are claiming to evade the provision of the law regulating the payment of deposits by such banks by at all times keeping the depositors pass book in the banks, which is plainly in violation of the spirit of the law and cannot be permitted.

Some such banks also make a habit of receiving on deposit checks, drafts, bills of exchange and other commercial paper, and selling or furnishing without cost, exchange drawn on foreign cities, all of which is plainly in violation of the law regulating the operation of savings banks.

In order that a bank may legally transact a general commercial banking business, it is necessary, among other things, that such bank shall be possessed of a certain amount of capital (specified in section 1 of the banking act) and that it shall at all times keep on hand a certain amount of available funds as a reserve, which shall be 20 per centum of the deposits in all cities of 25,000 or over, or 15 per centum in all other cities.

It is deemed expedient by the banking board and has been so ordered that any bank claiming to do a savings bank business which shall violate the law in the manner above indicated, and which shall not have the requisite amount of capital to transact a general banking business in the city or town where such bank shall be located, and which shall not at all times keep on hand the amount of available funds as a reserve which is required of a bank doing a general banking business, shall be deemed as doing an unsafe and an authorized business jeopardizing the interests of the depositors, and that it is unsafe and inexpedient to allow such bank or banks to continue to transact business and the proper steps will now be taken to wind up the affairs of such bank as provided in section 14 of the banking act.

This order will be enforced and the hearty co-operation is asked of all savings bank managers who are complying with the law and thus prevent the disastrous consequences which must follow the violating of the wise provisions of the banking law relating to this class of banks.

A Brave Pilot.

Captain John Stout, a Mississippi pilot, died recently in New Orleans. His life was distinguished by several acts of bravery. He was at the wheel of the steamer Robert E. Lee when she was burned at Yucatan plantation, in 1882. On that occasion he saved a score of lives by remaining at the wheel and holding his boat to the bank. He remained on the blazing vessel until the very last moment, and only escaped by sliding down the log chain. Captain Stout was on board the steamer J. W. White when she was burned above Bayou Sara in 1886, and jumped overboard to escape the flames. He was picked up almost lifeless.—Philadelphia Ledger.

When the Men Were Saved.

A small Victoria trading sloop was water logged, her mast having fallen through her bottom, in a recent blow off Cape Flattery, Wash. Some Indians went off to the boat, but refused to take the men off until they agreed to give the Indians all the contents of the sloop, which they did, and the red men then towed her into Cape Beal. The Port Angeles Tribune calls the Indians along that coast regular freebooter sharks.

A Seven-Year-Old Hero.

Dee Moines has a veritable hero seven years old, named John Green. The four-year-old daughter of Senator Lewis was playing in a neighboring yard, and while crossing a cistern the boards broke and dropped her into seven feet of water, ten feet from the top. Green was near and plunged in after her and held himself and child above water until help came, which was not for fifteen minutes.—Exchange.
