THE Iowa legislature adjourned yesterday.
THE Journal will find Mr. Dovey a bigger "boy mayor" than he thinks next Tuesday.

ANYONE not acquainted with the facts would think that Mr. Dovey was already elected mayor of this city, as the Journal speaks of him as the "boy mayor."

HON. S. M. CULLON in a letter to ex-Mayor Roche, of Chicago, declines to be candidate for president and announces his intention to support Harrison.

THE New York Sun names Cleveland and Harter for the democratic ticket on a platform of "stuffing." The platform will be adopted whether the ticket is nominated or not. Stuffing is an old democratic game wherever there are ballot boxes.

CONGRESSMAN DOLLIVER, the young man eloquent of Iowa, delivered a speech in the house on the tariff question Tuesday which it is stated riddled Brilliant Billy Bryans harangue into tatters. The Nebraskan stood the fire bravely for a time but before the Iowa republican had finished his address crept out of representative hall. He felt that a moment had come when he should be alone.—Bee.

ANOTHER attempt is to be made to raise the old British ship Hussar, which was sunk, treasures and all, near Hell Gate, N. Y., November 25, 1780. All the attempts heretofore have proved unsuccessful on account of the strong current at that point. The projectors think they can overcome that difficulty this time. History says that the treasures are worth something like $4,000,000.

THE Manchester Guardian is not satisfied with the actions of its friends on this side of the ocean. In its issue of February 26 it says: "On the whole, the democrats seem to be merely playing at tariff reform for the present. A bolder policy might be made successful, but the party is unable to decide whether tariff reform or free coinage is the more likely to win." Great Britain is not contented with mere piecemeal measures such as those proposed. What she wants is to have the whole American market thrown open to her at once.—American Economist.

EASTER LILIES.
These are the days when the florist takes the Gen. Jacqueminot and all other roses from the front row in his well-arranged window, and in their places puts pots of Easter lilies. He does not entirely hide the queen of all flowers from view, however, choosing to present to the admirer of all things beautiful a contrast that is very pleasing to the eye. The at-ention the florist pays nowadays to the Easter lily is a marked one; for not so many years ago the demand for the beautifully simple white flower was exceedingly small. They found the readiest sale with churches then, and it was rare indeed to find a private house decorated with these flowers. Even the churches did not require so many as to make the production of the Easter lily more than a mere incident in the work of a florist's gardener. Now it is a feature of his labors in the fall to pot thousands of bulbs.

Besides the usual amount of care exercised by a good gardener in raising flowers of any kind, these lilies require special attention. Before or after the Easter season there is very little demand for the flower, and he must see to it that the buds appear just as Lent is ushered in. To have the plants flur several weeks before or not until the season is closing means a big financial loss. Placing the plants in a dark room delays the budding until the time arrives for them to be salable, and then the forcing begins.

The Easter lily may be seen by the thousands in the fields at Bermuda. From these islands there used to be received quantities of the flower. They were packed in moss, but more often than not reached us here in a faded condition, discolored by the packing and too soft to handle. After some years home florists began to raise them, and now they furnish a lily with which the Bermuda flower cannot compare. The trade from the islands has fallen off to almost nothing—so far as the florists north of Washington are concerned, at least. Perhaps the increased popularity of this flower is due to its longer life and superiority over those of former time.—Boston Transcript.

THE Washington Post of yesterday had the following to say of Mr. Dolliver's speech: "It is rarely indeed that a parliamentarian, so skilled an orator, so able as Mr. Reed, will yield his entire time in a debate upon a subject like that now pending on tariff bills to another and younger member of his party as he did yesterday to Mr. Dolliver of Iowa. Shortly after Mr. Bryan, the brilliant young Nebraskan, had made his speech and discussed the fallacies of protection and reciprocity, as seen through democratic spectacles, the republicans looked around for a western man to make the reply. Their choice was Mr. Dolliver, and that gentleman yesterday for an hour and three-quarters held the attention of the members on the floor and the crowded galleries.

His voice was excellent, his sentences well rounded, and the body of his speech enlivened by apt illustrations and quick repartee. Like the gentleman to whom he was replying, Mr. Dolliver is young, being but thirty-four years old, but his speech indicated a thorough familiarity with and understanding of the complex subject of the tariff."

GOVERNMENT EXPERTS SAY DROP IT.

Some of the Chicago papers are trying to reform the spelling of the Behring Sea by leaving out the "h." Our old geographies spelled it with an "h" and we see no good reason why that letter should be dropped, especially as the sea was named in honor of the discoverer, a German navigator named Behring, who probably knew how to spell his own name.—Cedar Rapids Gazette.

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard soft or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavins, curbs splints, sweeney, ring bone, stifles, sprains all swollen throes, coughs etc. Save 50 cent by use of one bottle. Warranted the most wonderful blemish cure ever known. Sold by F. G. Fricke & Co druggists Plattsmouth.

I feel it my duty to say a few words in regard to Ely's Cream Balm, and I do so entirely without solicitation. I have used it more or less half a year, and have found it to be most admirable. I have suffered from catarrh of the worst kind ever since I was a little boy and I never hoped for cure, but Cream Balm seems to do even that. Many of my acquaintances have used it with excellent results.—Oscar Ostum, 45 Warren Ave., Chicago Ill.

Itch on human and horses animals cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's sanitary lotion. This never fails. Sold F. G. Fricke & Co. druggist, Plattsmouth.

G. A. R. CAMP FIRE
APRIL 9, 1892 AT ROCKWOOD HALL.

McConihe Post No. 45 will hold a rousing camp fire on Saturday evening, April 9th, the anniversary. Turn out everybody as we will have something that will interest you.

D. A. DORSEY
Will give us a talk on the Anderson raid which consisted of 24 men who went down in the very heart of the rebellion at Big Shanty, Georgia, captured an engine and several cars and made their escape. It is one of the most thrilling incidents of the war. Money spent to hear Comrade Dorsey will be well spent.

COMRADE DORSEY is no humbug as he was one of the 24 raiders called by the rebels "the engine thieves"
ADMISSION 25 CENTS.
Supper will be served by the W. R. C. in the G. A. R. Hall.
