WORK OF THE MCKINLEY TARIFF.

Woonsocket, R. I., is a good place in which to study the practical operation of the McKinley tariff act. Among the new establishments which have been brought into existence by that act are the River Spinning company's works for manufacturing fine woolen and worsted yarns. When the act was passed a Belgian firm having a plant worth $2,000,000 was exporting fine grades of yarn to the United States on a large scale. It determined to put up a plant in Rhode Island with the assistance of English and American capital. Breaking ground in Woonsocket last July, it had in operation by January four buildings and an extensive plant. Its first investment was $220,000, and within three months it has found itself able to manufacture the finest lines of goods most successfully. The capital is to be increased to $1,000,000, and the works are to be speedily enlarged so as to include sixteen buildings and to employ 400 operators. As the qualities of the yarns is superior in fineness, the most skilled labor is required, so that wage earners in the new factories will have the best class of mechanical labor, and will receive the highest wages for it. The success of the venture is so well marked that it is not improbable that the Belgian plant will be abandoned or largely transferred to Woonsocket, and a great industry introduced on a large scale.—The Tribune.

THE NEW SHIP.

The launch of the Raleigh at Norfolk on Thursday has an interest not only because another fine warship is now added to those we have afloat, but from the circumstances of her construction. She is the first unarmored modern steel war vessel ever put into the water at the government yards, and is likely enough to be the first completed. The Maine preceded her at the Brooklyn yard, but is an armored vessel, the completion of which is likely to be delayed beyond that of the Raleigh. The latter and the Cincinnati were begun by Secretary Tracy's orders in the navy yards, because the bids of the contractors were not within the limit fixed by congress. The problem was one which the secretary had to face soon after assuming office, and it was not an agreeable one. However, he was not long in determining to take advantage of the proviso in the act of congress which enabled him to build these ships in the government yards, and no doubt the general effect was good, while so much was added to the resources put under contribution to hurry forward the new navy. With the high speed which her 1,000-horse power will give her, a good radius of action, and a fine battery of rapid-fire guns, the Raleigh will be a valuable addition to our navy.—New York Times.

HOW PROTECTION HAS WORKED IN THE CASE OF CALICO.

Before we made any [cotton prints] in this country they were bought in Europe, and we paid 38 cents a yard for them. We placed a protective duty upon them. We immediately began to establish the manufacture here, and the price has kept on going down, until to-day what do we see? The duty on cotton prints is 4 cents a yard. They are worth 5 cents, common standard prints, in Great Britain. Now, if the tariff is a tax, all the domestic prints in America should be sold for 9 cents a yard. Are they? Two years ago I sent to a friend in Manchester, England, and asked him to buy me a piece of English cotton print. He paid 5 cents a yard for it and sent it to me.

I asked my wife to go to a store here in Washington not distinguished for its cheap prices, perhaps, and get me an American print of equal quality and inform me what she had to pay for it. She bought a piece that she said was better and she paid 5 cents a yard for it, precisely the English price. Thirty cents a yard when we first applied protection, five cents to-day, and every yard made in this country. We never could have established the manufacture of those articles if we had not adopted protection. The price would never have fallen as low as it has if it had not been for protection.—Congressman Dingley of Maine.

A MCKINLEY DEMOCRAT.

About a week ago Governor McKinley of Ohio received by express a big pocket knife, the first made by the Cataraugus Cutlery company, whose factory at Little Falls, N. Y., was opened as a result of the increased protection to the cutlery industry afforded by the McKinley law. With the knife came the following letter:

I voted the democratic ticket for nearly thirty years, but a drive through New England in the year 1890, past idle cutlery factories in Briceport, Naugatuck, Union City and Torrington, together with the nearly paralyzed industries of Lakeville, Northfield, Thomaston and Shelburne Falls, convinced me of the error of my ways.

I found old friends, who were good mechanics in our line, driven by the cheap Dutch knives, which were on sale in every city and hamlet through which I passed, out of profitable employment, and seeking work as common laborers, ditch diggers and coal heavers. Grass grew around many of the doors of factories.

Passing through the towns, I heard Bill McKinley and the McKinley bill talked of on every side. I was first convicted, then converted, and, like Saul of Tarsus, the scales fell from my eyes and I saw the parties contending over American industries in their true light.

Thanks to your efforts, the McKinley law was enacted, and hard times in our line of industry are past. Trade is good, wages are good, our little town has nearly doubled its population in two years, and we believe it will double again in two years more.

Hoping in the near future to address you at the Executive Mansion, Washington, D. C., instead of Columbus, Ohio, we remain, yours sincerely,
J. B. F. CHAMPLIN,
For Cataraugus Cutlery Co.

Feelings of a Monkey.

A native of India was sitting in his garden when a loud chattering announced the arrival of a large party of monkeys, which forthwith proceeded to make a meal of his fruits. Fearing the loss of his entire crop, he fetched his fowling piece, and, to frighten them away, fired it off, as he thought, over the heads of the chattering crew. They all fled away, but he noticed, left behind upon a bough, what looked like one fallen asleep, with its head resting upon its arms.

As it did not move, he sent a servant up the tree, who found that it was dead, having been shot through the heart. He had it fetched down and buried beneath the tree, and on the morrow he saw sitting upon the little mound the mate of the dead monkey. It remained there for several days bewailing its loss.—Robert Morley in Nature Notes.

An acre planted with sunflowers yields 2,000 pounds of seeds, from which 250 pounds of oil may be obtained. Ten million quarts of this oil is produced by Russian mills annually.

I feel it my duty to say a few words in regard to Ely's Cream Balm, and to do so entirely without solicitation. I have used it more or less half a year, and have found it to be most admirable. I have suffered from catarrh of the worst kind ever since I was a little boy and I never hoped for cure, but Cream Balm seems to do even that. Many of my acquaintances have used it with excellent results.—Oscar Ostum, 45 Warren Ave., Chicago Ill.

D. A. DORSEY

Will give us a talk on the Anderson raid which consisted of 24 men who went down in the very heart of the rebellion at Big Shanty, Georgia, captured an engine and several cars and made their escape. It is one of the most thrilling incidents of the war. Money spent to hear Comrad Dorsey will be well spent.

COMRADE DORSEY is no humbug as he was one of the 24 raiders called by the rebels "the engine thieves"
