World's Fair Notes.

An immense wooden box, bound in iron, was recently found in Helsinki, in Finland, by workmen engaged in excavating in the cellar of an old house. Upon opening the box the men found that it contained a large parchment and a quantity of pieces of iron of odd shapes. Being unable to make out the contents of the parchment, they carried it to Mr. Rizeff, the nearest magistrate, who found that it was written by Father Suger, one time minister to Louis the Seventh of France. It was an elaborately written treatise upon the use of steam as a motive power, and further examination revealed that the bits of iron were numbered parts of a rudimentary but complete steam engine. It is proposed to fit the parts together and to exhibit this pioneer steam engine at the exposition.

Chief Willard A. Smith, of the department of transportation, is arranging for a large number of interesting exhibits. Recently he has been paying special attention to the marine section. In it will be models of the rig of the old frigate Constitution, the flagship of Nelson, a caravel from Spain, the exact copy of the Santa Maria, in which Columbus made his first voyage, canoes of the native traders of the West Indies, hewn from a single tree and propelled by twenty-five paddles. There will be models of such modern racing schooners as the America, Mayflower, Puritan and Volunteer. All sorts of stern-wheel passenger and freight steamers for river navigation, steel-screw ferryboats, electric pinnaces, naphtha launches, etc., will be shown. Then there will appear in their natural order sketches and brigantines, sloops and barques of the Atlantic coast in 1714, rafts, arks, barges, keel-boats, and other craft.

Dr. David J. Guzman, the director of the Costa Rica commission which has in charge the exhibit of that republic at the world's fair, has prepared a very carefully detailed classification and descriptive list of everything which will be included in its display at Chicago, and printed the same in a pamphlet, which has been sent to all the officials of the government, with specific directions for securing the desired articles. The planters, merchants, artisans and skilled workmen, in various parts of that country, are taking a great interest in the matter, and are already at work in the preparation of their products and illustrations of their varied industries. The director is a gentleman of large experience in other exhibitions, and is besides an enthusiast on the subject of a fine display for Costa Rica, so that, with the active aid and sympathy of the government there is no doubt of his success.

All decent republicans are heartily ashamed of the gang that manipulated the Third ward yesterday. That ward usually gives the republican ticket a good majority and would yesterday if it had not been for a few sore heads who want the earth.

Feelings of a Monkey. A native of India was sitting in his garden when a loud chattering announced the arrival of a large party of monkeys, which forthwith proceeded to make a meal of his fruits. Fearing the loss of his entire crop, he fetched his fowling piece, and, to frighten them away, fired it off, as he thought, over the heads of the chattering crew. They all fled away, but he noticed, left behind upon a bough, what looked like one fallen asleep, with its head resting upon its arms.

As it did not move, he sent a servant up the tree, who found that it was dead, having been shot through the heart. He had it fetched down and buried beneath the tree, and on the morrow he saw sitting upon the little mound the mate of the dead monkey. It remained there for several days bewailing its loss.—Robert Morley in Nature Notes.
