THE free wool bill passed the house yesterday by a vote of 194 to 60.

IF China wants to retaliate, let her do so. We don't want any more Chinese immigrants, and we are going to use all legitimate means to keep them out.

WEeping WATER is troubled with tramps and the Republican wants a stone pile to utilize the wasted energy of the twenty five bums that drop in there each day.

THE democrats are sure to lose New York this fall, and where are they going to get the votes to make up this loss? They are sure to be beaten worse than they were in 1888.

THE St. Louis Republic thinks the democracy will come west this year for a presidential candidate and that it will light on Governor Boies of Iowa. If it should do so politics will be lively in Iowa this fall, and don't you forget it.

THE farmers evidently have a little surplus money to invest, as a number of them have already contracted for new homes to be built this summer. It is a pretty good sign that the country is prospering when the farmers provide better homes for themselves.

IN all the history of this nation there has never been a law enacted by congress and signed by a president so beneficial to the American farmer as is the McKinley tariff law. Its good effects has been felt in the homes of every farmer in the nation, its influence has reached along every channel of agriculture. It has touched the dozen of eggs and the pound of butter; the potato has been stimulated to a larger growth and the old hens after a useful life can be sold for the table at advanced prices and more it has reduced in price all articles consumed on the farm. This law can be retained by retaining in power the republican power.—Indianola, Iowa, Herald.

THE SILVER SITUATION.

It is evident now that the Bland bill is dead for this session of congress at any rate. The failure of Speaker Crisp to render the aid to the friends of the measure which they expected, and which, it is said, he had virtually promised, seals its fate for this year. The few democrats of the Eastern states who are sincerely opposed to the passage of the bill at any time and under any circumstances, in combination with the tricksters and dodgers of the south and west who, for partisan reasons, desire to postpone the bill until after the election, have triumphed. Their margin of victory it is true, is narrow, but it is sufficient for their purpose. Mr. Bland and the other honest but deluded friends of the measure intend to make another struggle to force it through the house, but it is easy to see that they are doomed to defeat.

The effect which this setback for silver will have upon the canvass can not be foretold at the present time with any confidence. Doubtless a vigorous and persistent attempt will be made in the west and south to secure an expression in the national convention in favor of free silver. Unquestionably also these sections, if they work harmoniously and with any approach to unanimity in this endeavor, will accomplish their purpose. Yet it would not be altogether safe to predict that they will do this. The extremists have lost prestige by their reverse and can scarcely regain their old influence and standing. For the time being anyhow they are losing ground. The eastern section of the party is showing a real cohesiveness and an affluence of resources which were not looked for, and promise to last throughout the canvass at least. Evidently the democratic leaders and managers are taking their orders from the east instead of the west, as they always did in the past.

It would be vain to deny that the republicans are disagreeably disappointed by the prospect that the democrats may be able to dodge the silver question this year. The passage of the Bland bill in the house would have put the four doubtful states of the north in the republican column without the shadow of a doubt, leaving to the democracy the old slave state region only. This would have happened even though the bill could not, by any accident or mischance, override the presidential veto which awaited it. However, success to the republicans has by no means been altogether dependent on the silver issue. This would have gained them a few extra electoral votes, but victory for them has been assured all along without it. The protection cause is still with us. There can be no dodging by the democrats on the tariff question. Then there is the reciprocity issue, which holds forth possibilities of many successive triumphs for its champions. Under this sign they are sure to conquer. The republican party is materially and distinctively stronger at this moment than it was on the eve of the opening of the national campaign of 1888.—Globe-Democrat.

THE following paragraph from Postmaster General Wanamaker's address before the conference of postmasters last month ought to be made familiar to every citizen who desires to see a business-like administration of our public affairs:

"At 12 o'clock this very day, three years ago, I took my place as a fellow workman with you in this service. As a matter of fact and for your encouragement I will state that these three years cannot be matched in good results to the service by any other similar period in 102 years of its history. From March 4, 1889, to March 5, 1892, we have established 10,549 new post-offices, more than one-sixth of the whole number in existence. To the 2,654 presidential offices of 1889 we have added in three years 467—about 18 per cent of the entire number of such offices, which is now 3,121. In the matter of the revenue, the three years prior to the present administration increased postal receipts $24,000,000, or from $130,000,000 to $154,000,000, being more than 18 per cent. The three years of this administration carried the revenue from $154,000,000 to over $195,000,000, an increase of more than 26 per cent; in other words, we maintained the $24,000,000 gained by the last administration and added over $40,500,000 to it."

I feel it my duty to say a few words in regard to Ely's Cream Balm, and I do so entirely without solicitation. I have used it more or less half a year, and have found it to be most admirable. I have suffered from catarrh of the worst kind ever since I was a little boy and I never hoped for cure, but Cream Balm seems to do even that. Many of my acquaintances have used it with excellent results.—Oscar Ostum, 45 Warren Ave., Chicago Ill.

According to the census of 1890, Chicago takes rank, by virtue of her population of 1,098,576 people, as the eighth largest city on the globe. Most of us desire, at one time or another, to visit a city in which so many persons find homes, and, when we do, we can find no better line than the "Burlington Route." Three fast and comfortable trains daily. For further information address the agent of the company at this place, or write to J. Francis, General Passenger and Ticket Agent, Omaha, Nebraska.

Rail-Road Pain Cure has no equal as a Pain Killer. Use for all bodily pains and soreness. Guaranteed by Brown & Barrett and O. H. Snyder.
