

SHAW VERSUS BARR.

Another Contested Case Originating At Greenwood.

SHAW WANTS BARR OUSTED.

The Contestant and Incumbent Each Receive 41 Votes Apiece-- Other Notes About Town.

Suit has been commenced in county court by Charles E. Shaw contesting the election of J. Ross Barr. The facts of the case are as follows: In the village of Greenwood on the fifth day of April an election was held for the purpose of electing five trustees. The other three members were elected and J. Ross Barr and Charles E. Shaw each received 41 votes apiece according to the returns. A certificate of election was given to J. Ross Barr, he already being an incumbent. Charles E. Shaw alleges that there were five votes counted for Barr that should have been counted for him, and that he is positive of the same. If the allegations of Shaw are true the vote stands Shaw 46 and Barr 36.

Great Cry and Little Wool.

Quite a stir has been raised because rather loud lithographs of the Duncan Clark Female Minstrels were posted around the city.

As far as the performance goes, however, there is nothing more vulgar than one sees in the standard operas, and yet there are people who attend operas who hold up their hands in horror at the sight of females in tights in any other show.

Feeney hall was well filled Thursday night and a very creditable variety performance was given. The Camern, Boulder Col., March 14 1891. We want the ladies to come out and see this performance. No lady will object to it.

After a continued absence of two weeks Editor Polk of the News once more chronicles the proceedings of the district court. He has been conspicuous on account of his absence. Two weeks ago Editor Polk made the district court room his headquarters, but all of a sudden he failed to make an appearance and his magnificent form and sneaking look were greatly missed by the spectators of the court. It may be possible Editor Polk sent one of the attaches of the office over to the court room—Attache Burton, for instance—for the proceeding of the district court.

For The Ladies Only.

The ladies have a special invitation by Manager Clark of the Duncan Clark Company to attend the performance given by his company at the opera house next Monday night. He is desirous to have the ladies come out and be convinced that the performance is clean and free from objectionable features. You will not see as much to object to as you would see in a comic opera or spectacular performances. As an inducement to have the ladies attend the performance next Monday night Mr. Clark will give away the fifty complimentary tickets to the first fifty ladies applying for reserved seat tickets at the usual place in person or by their husbands. Tickets good for ladies only. Mr. Clark makes this offer in good faith and it is hoped the ladies will avail themselves of this liberal offer.

Wash Fruit Before Eating It.

The following curious instance is reported by M. Schnirer of the ease with which consumption germs may be disseminated. While at work one day in the laboratory of Weichselbaum, he sent for some grapes to eat. The fruit had been kept for some time in a basket outside the lavatory and was covered with dust, so that the water in which it was washed was black. On examining it he reflected that, inasmuch as the neighboring street was traversed by consumptive patients going to the clinic, the dust probably was charged with tubercle bacilli. To settle this, M. Schnirer injected into three guinea pigs ten cubic centimeters of water in which the grapes had been washed. One animal died in two days from peritonitis, the two others died on the forty-eighth and fifty-eighth days, respectively, presenting marked tuberculous lesions, especially at the place of injection.

The water in which the grapes had been washed was taken from the faucet, and the glass containing it had been sterilized; neither the boy who had bought the grapes, nor the merchant who had sold them, was consumptive. The cause of the infection was, beyond doubt, the dust on the grapes. This experiment illustrates the danger arising from the dissemination of desiccated tuberculous sputa in the air.—Hal's Journal of Health.

A Sort of Digital Depression.

Did you ever notice when a man smites his thumb with a hammer while putting down a carpet under wifely supervision and criticism how quickly he thrusts the bruised and throbbing member into his ready mouth? People think it is because the application is soothing. But no; it is an involuntary movement, same as winking. The man cannot help it. Nature knows what the man would be apt to say under the circumstances, and so she has provided him with a stopper and has ordained that whenever he hits his thumb hard enough to hurt—and it doesn't take very much to nearly kill a man when he is doing something he doesn't want to—by a sort of interlocking system the thumb flies into his mouth and stops him up, so that he can't say anything. Some men whom you and I know should be provided with an extra thumb which they might carry about in their hand all the time it wasn't in active use. It would be a great thing, wouldn't it?—Robert J. Burdette in Ladies' Home Journal.

An Anecdote of Washington.

It was while plunging through the "leaden rain and iron hail," at the battle of Monmouth that Washington's horse was shot under him. The chief coolly stepped from the prostrate charger, and having received from the hands of an attendant orderly a fresh horse, ready caparisoned, he turned to the sable body servant who followed him close through all dangers, and without the presence of whose ebon visage a picture of Washington and his family would not be complete, and quietly said:

"Here, Billy, take the saddle from that dead horse and look out for it." And then he dashed away to direct the planting of Oswald's battery.

"Golly!" exclaimed old Billy, as he related the incident to one of the family on his return home, "who eber did see such a man as Mas'r Washington? Who'd eber 'a thought ob dat saddle but him? I tell ye, mas'r remembers ebryting—ebryting down to de berry littlest."—New York Ledger.

NEWELL ELECTED AS ALTERNATE.

Gere of Lancaster and Holland of Richardson Chosen as Representatives at Minneapolis-- Harmony in the First.

The delegates of the First congressional district met in convention last evening at Falls City, for the purpose of electing two delegates to the national convention at Minneapolis in June. The following account from the Lincoln Journal will be read with interest:

The First congressional republican district convention convened in the opera house and was called to order by Chairman W. H. Woodward at 8 o'clock. The house was filled to its utmost capacity and profusely decorated with bunting and portraits of eminent republicans. Over the stage was hung a large banner bearing the words, "Protection" and "Reciprocity."

Frank E. Helvy of Otoe county was made temporary chairman, who, on taking the chair, made a short speech which was enthusiastically applauded. J. D. Church of Nemaha and M. Tulson of Pawnee were chosen temporary secretaries. The temporary organization was made permanent. A motion was carried instructing the delegates chosen to the national convention to use their best endeavors to secure the re-nomination of Benjamin Harrison.

C. H. Gere of Lancaster and G. W. Holland of Richardson, were placed in nomination as delegates to the national convention, the former in a rousing speech by C. A. Atkinson of Lancaster; the latter by Judge Reavis of Richardson, while Paul Schminke, in behalf of Otoe and delegates from other counties, seconded the nominations. The rules were then suspended and Messrs. Gere and Holland were unanimously elected by acclamation. The gentlemen were called to the stage and thanked the convention for the compliment paid them, both making stirring speeches, which were received with enthusiastic applause.

The Pawnee City quartette was called upon and favored the convention with "Annie Laurie." They were loudly encored and responded.

Judge Allen Field, Jesse Strobe, Judge Newell of Cass, and Judge Stewart of Johnson were elected alternates to the Minneapolis convention.

Willard Deboird of Pawnee was called upon and brought the house down by singing the following song, entitled "Our Billy":

Say, voters, have you seen young Bryan,
With his big head stuffed with wool,
Since he came back from little Rhode Island,
Where he thought he had a pull?
He shot his wad at the good old tariff,
But he found Tom Reed at bay;
Bill took his hat and left very sudden,
And I s'pose he's run away.

CHORUS.

Young Bryan say "Ho Ho!"
Old Tom say "Ho Ho!"
It must be now the kingdom's comin'
and the year of jubilee.

He took along the same old chestnuts,
And the speech you've heard before;
His Mary's lamb he tried on Rhody,
But he only made them roar.

They guayed our Bill, who talked like a parrot,
And they used his head for a chunk
On which to pile a lightning majority,
And down in the wind he sunk.

When our farmers heard of Russia's famine,
In her deep distress forlorn,
They freely gave the starving peasants
10,000 tons of corn.

Then Bill was asked for a ship to move it,
But the heartless crew said no,
I hope some day he'll be very hungry
And have to eat "biled" crew.

Now Bill will come again this summer
With his sweet and honeyed words,
And a tireless man when he sets it a-goin'
A beggin' for your votes.

But will he get 'em?
That's the question.
No matter how he rants,
He'll hear a voice like this replying,
"Billy Bryan, your name is pants."

The democrats run, ha ha,
The republicans say "you bet,"
It must be now the kingdom's comin',
What a good time for us yet.

Thomas Majors, Judge Allen Field, Jesse Strobe, Judge Newell, Judge Stewart, Church Howe, Paul Schminke, A. E. Corbin and Jarvis S. Church made speeches, after which the convention adjourned.

HENRY R. GERING, Sec'y.

I feel it my duty to say a few words in regard to Ely's Cream Balm, and I do so entirely without solicitation. I have used it more or less half a year, and have found it to be most admirable. I have suffered from catarrh of the worst kind ever since I was a little boy and I never hoped for cure, but Cream Balm seems to do even that. Many of my acquaintances have used it with excellent results.—Oscar Ostum, 45 Warren Ave., Chicago Ill.

Some Foolish People allow a cough to run until it gets beyond the reach of medicine. They say, "Oh, it will wear away," but in most cases it wears them away. Could they be induced to try the successful Kemp's Balsam, which is sold on a positive guarantee to cure, they would see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Price 50c and $1. Trial size free. At all druggists.
