THERE will be no tariff legislation this year. The McKinley law will stand unchanged until the republicans regain control of the house, and then if the law needs revision the thing will be done.

THE democrats say they will carry Wisconsin for president. They said the same thing in 1888, but they did not come within 21,000 of doing it. Their chances are no better this year than they were then.

THE postmaster general reports that the experimental free delivery of mails in small towns has proved to be a complete success. It is to be hoped, therefore, that the system will be extended accordingly, and that a similar advantage will be provided for the farming districts as soon as possible.

A TEXTILE industry has just been transferred from Yorkshire, England, to Jamestown, N. Y., which will give employment to 1,250 men. The firm name is Henry Listen & Son. Allowing four mouths for each family represented by a man, there will be 5,000 people more for the farmers to feed, thanks to the McKinley tariff.

THE request of the Inman steamship line for permission to change the flags of the "City of Paris" and the "City of New York" from the American jack to the stars and stripes is a matter to be an American institution and will build its ships in the United States instead of the Clyde. It is considered certain that this means a change in the attitude of the principal companies toward this country. In a few years the American flag will fly over a large number of the great Ocean greyhounds, and those carrying foreign flags will be at a serious disadvantage in securing the patronage of patriotic American tourists.—Lincoln Journal.

THE NEW MINISTER TO FRANCE. T. Jefferson Coolidge, the new minister to France, to succeed Whitelaw Reid, has been attracting a great deal of attention. The significant question of "Who is Coolidge, anyhow?" has been asked by many papers, republican as well as democratic. Coolidge is clearly entitled to the name T. Jefferson, for he is a grandson of the old protectionist who is still worshipped as the father of the democratic party. On his father's side he is a descendant of the John Coolidge who came to Massachusetts as far back as 1630 and distinguished himself. The minister-elect, if the term is allowable, was a supporter of Cleveland in 1884. He is a man of business as well as social standing, and his influence was worth a great deal to Mr. Cleveland. But he is not a free trader any more than his great-grandfather, Thomas Jefferson, was. In 1887 when Cleveland issued his free trade message, he left the party and in 1888 was one of Harrison's most enthusiastic supporters. He was a protection democrat and when the democratic party was bodily turned over to the free traders he left it.—Des Moines Register.

ON Wednesday last the republicans of Connecticut in state convention at Hartford, among others, unanimously adopted this resolution:

We believe in the principles of protection to American industries. It has given to this country a greater prosperity than is known to any other nation. High wages to operatives, low prices to consumer, happy homes owned by workingmen, savings bank deposits proportionately exceeding those of any other country, busy factories, and unexampled development of national wealth and prosperity alike attest it.

So believing, we heartily endorse the McKinley law, whose beneficent results have already demonstrated its wisdom; and we see in the reciprocity feature of the law an adequate opening of foreign market to American products without in any degree infringing upon the policy of protection to American labor.

The whole story of the beneficence of the republican policy of protection and reciprocity has never been more tersely and forcibly stated. The national convention at Minneapolis next month can hardly do better than to put that resolution just as it is in the declaration of political faith, upon which the republican party is to fight and win the presidential contest of 1892.

THE EVIDENCE WAS AGAINST HER.

Finally, when the end of the meal was marked by the appearance of half a dozen new cut glass finger bowls, infantile wonderment could contain itself no longer.

"Mamma," piped the eldest cherub, "what's all this for?"

"All what?"

"Oh, havin' the real silver out, and all these new things and two kinds of meat."

"Why, Willie, what do you mean by talking in that fashion? You know this is the way we dine every day. Really, Cousin Mary, that child is losing his memory."

"No, I ain't. We had Irish stew six times this week, already, an' if Cousin Mary don't believe what I say—"

"Willie!"

"Well, just let her come in some day without tellin' nobody, and if she don't get stew, too, I hope the boogey man'll get me."

"Yes, to me often," piped the other two children, "an' let mamma know you're comin', for we're ortful tired of stew."—Troy Standard.

A STRANGE POND.

Hicks pond, in Palmyra, Me., is a strange body of water. It is only twelve acres in area, but it is more than 100 feet in depth. It has no visible inlet, although a fair sized stream flows from it into Lake Sebasticook. The volume of its waters is not materially affected by either drought or freshet, and the water is always cold.—Philadelphia Ledger.

According to the census of 1890, Chicago takes rank, by virtue of her population of 1,895,576 people, as the eighth largest city on the globe.
