A particularly fine counterfeit was detected at the sub-treasury yesterday. It was the production of a pen and ink artist, who did his work so well that the bill passed through one of the city banks without detection. The counterfeit is of a $50 greenback of the series of 1880. —New York Commercial.

Uncle Sam has lost and Mexico gained a strip of ground averaging a mile in width across the southwestern border. It came from an error in a survey and was not detected until after the treaty had closed the way for making a correction. It is arid land and is not likely to be of any large value until the climate changes or water is poured upon it by artificial means.

There is law and penalty for almost every social offense if one will but bring any given case to an issue. Rare indeed is it that the proprietress of a disorderly house is sentenced to imprisonment, yet such a person has been so sentenced in New York as the first fruits of Dr. Parkhurst's intrepid crusade. And not only has one woman, the subject of the sensational trial, received a nine months' sentence, but a second woman, similarly employed, will go to prison for a year. So the machinery of modern society, as designed for the regulation of public morals, seems rather in disuse than to have been abandoned.—Inter Ocean.

PROTECTION AND THE HOME

Congressman Dolliver's eloquent reply to Bryan is as follows:

My yonng friend from Nebraska the other day took one of his farmer constituents down from the cannibal tree long enough to use him for the purpose of pointing the moral and adorning that tale of the "plundered homestead" or "the adventures of a young married couple." You remember that he represents a young man in the act of selecting "a young woman who is willing to trust her future to his strong right arm," and beginning to build a home which is the unit of society.

The picture represents that he is robbed by the tariff on lumber, on paint, on furniture, on carpets, on tablecloths, "on knives, forks and dishes, on spoons, on everything that enters into the construction and operation of that home." And to make the picture all the more pathetic and absolutely hopeless, the artist gives the unhappy couple no sign of defense except the lung capacity of the democratic party yelling at the top of its voice. "Hands off!" [Great laughter.]

Now, without stopping to point out that the actual price of every article that enters into the "construction and operation of that home" has been reduced in price by the republican policy of making them in the United States instead of Europe, I want to ask my friend, or any other man this house, to name to me a country in the Old World where a young man without money can slip his strong right arm around a girl without means and take her into a home of their own or give her even the prospect of a home, which is the unit of society? [Applause on the republican side.]

I have talked to hundreds of people from Ireland, from Scotland, from Denmark, from Germany, from the mountains of Norway and Sweden, and they tell me that a day's work in the United States, goes further than anywhere else in the world toward putting a roof over the head of a family, paint on a cottage, music in the parlor, newspapers on the stand, carpets on the floor, dishes on the table, something to eat in the dishes, and the divine light of love and joy in the sweet faces of wife and children.

They have come into my office again and again, husband and wife together, speaking in broken English the language of the thriftiest countries in Europe, to ask my help and advice in mailing a little American money to the Old World for father or mother or brother or sister or sweetheart, living in lands where the labor of a lifetime is not enough, after paying daily expenses, to pay their passage upon an ocean steamer. I have seen their tears falling upon the paper as they wrote out their message of hope and courage from the only country on earth where human life is lifted above the level of hopeless drudgery for the poor.

I have often stood in Castle Garden, at the gateway of the republic, watching that restless throng out of every kindred tongue and tribe of people. I have seen young men standing there holding in their hands a suit of "taxed" American clothes for a brother arriving on these shores out of the very countries where clothes are the cheapest. I have seen young women timidly hiding under a "taxed" American cloak the bright colors of a new hat for a sister who had just come from a land where everything is so cheap that nobody can buy anything.

Nor could I keep out of my heart words of welcome to those who have loved our flag even afar off, and have come hither to better their condition. And the day is coming when these fugitives from the hard conditions of the Old World will stand as a unit with the republican party to keep the shield of American law before the cottages of American labor.

I have not as much interest as some in the current agitation that seeks to shut the doors of the great republic in the face of mankind. I do not feel that we have been here long enough ourselves to begin to complain about the arrival of other people. I believe that men and women who know by experience the burdens of other countries are likely to serve the commonwealth as well as those persons born among us who go about complaining that American life is not worth living.

Hot Springs, Ark.—Carlsbad of America.

Preaching and Practice.

They were two bright women—one caller and the other hostess—and they had been discussing the value of temperance in eating as a means to prevent illness.

"I do not see," said the hostess, "that our boasted advance in civilization has been anything but a failure in regard to the preservation of health. With physicians better able than at any time in the world's history to cope with disease, this sudden snapping of vitality goes on all about us. I consider it entirely the fault of persons who do not take the care of themselves which their intelligence points out as imperative. I am always well, but it is at the price of constant denials of appetite."

"Yes," echoed the caller, "it must be so. I have to be firm in the matter of ice cream, which, wholesome for most people, is not so for me."

The hostess did not wait for this speech to be done. "Why, that makes me think," she said cordially, "I gave a luncheon today and there is some delicious banana cream going to waste down stairs. Can't you eat just a little?"

The caller hesitated. "Banana cream is my weakness," she confessed, "and"—but the reader can guess the rest. The health discourse ended in an enjoyable round of banana ice cream, and the caller went on her way boldly to meet digestive consequences, while the hostess took her valuable food theories back to her embrace prepared to air them on the next occasion which presented itself.—New York Times.

F. G. Fricke & Co., the druggists desire us to publish the following testimonial as they handle the remedy and believe it to be reliable: "I bought a 50-cent bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and applied it to my limbs, which have been afflicted with rheumatism at intervals for one year. At the time I bought the Pain Balm I was unable to walk. I can truthfully say that Pain Balm has completely cured me.—R. H. FARR, Holywood, Kan. Mr. A. B. Cox, the leading druggist at Holywood, vouches for the truth of the above statement.
