

AN ELABORATE AFFAIR.

The Dedication of The Court House Will be a Gala Day.

THE DENTISTS ELECT OFFICERS.

An Important Cass County Case Sent Back for Another Trial--
The News In and About the Capital City.

The committee on program for the dedication of the court house will have the program ready by this evening. An outline of the program is as follows: Court will be opened at 11 o'clock by Brad Slaughter of Omaha, with Judge Chapman presiding. The day will be occupied by speeches. In the evening a regular program will be had, with toasts for the Cass county bar to respond to. The orchestra will be in attendance. A special invitation is extended to the ladies to attend, both day and evening.

Dentists Elect Officers.

The sixteenth annual meeting of the State Dental association, held at Fremont, closed yesterday. The following officers were elected: President, W. F. Connor of Omaha; vice-president, T. F. Skeede, Seward; recording secretary, W. C. Davis, Lincoln; corresponding secretary, D. P. Simms, Lincoln; treasurer, J. H. Diefenbacher, York. A fund of $200 was raised for the purpose of securing the enforcement of state laws relating to dentistry.

Supreme Court Decision.

Eikenberry vs. Clifford; error from Cass county; reversed and remanded. Opinion by Chief Justice Maxwell.

In an action of replevin the plaintiff alleged in his petition that the property was "not taken in execution on any order or judgment rendered against said plaintiff or for the payment of any tax, fine or arrearage assessed against him by virtue of any order of delivery, etc.," and on the trial was permitted to prove that the property was taken in execution on a judgment against him, but that the property was exempt. Held, that the proof must conform substantially to the allegations of the pleadings and that the plaintiff could not introduce proof that the property was taken under an execution, but that it was exempt without an amendment of his petition.

THE HERALD publishes the names of the persons who are to be invited to attend the dedication of the new court house. According to the list, George Adams is the only Weeping Water man invited, and we doubt very much if he goes.—Weeping Water Republican. THE HERALD will inform the editor of the Republican that every citizen of Cass county—Weeping Water included—is invited to come to the metropolis of Nebraska's fairest county and assist in the dedication services. Invitations were only sent to people living outside the county. The only man receiving an invitation living inside of Cass county, was Geo. W. Adams, mayor of Weeping Water, and had he been a private citizen of Weeping Water he would have fared the same as the editor of the Republican and the rest of the citizens of the county did.

The constant demand of the traveling public to the far west for a comfortable and at the same time an economical mode of traveling has led to the establishment of what is known as Pullman Colonist sleepers.

These cars are built on the same general plan as the regular first-class Pullman Sleeper, the only difference being that they are not upholstered.

They are furnished complete with good comfortable hair mattresses, warm blankets, snow white linen curtains plenty of towels, combs, brushes, etc., which secure to the occupant of a berth as much privacy as is to be had in first class sleepers. There are also separate toilet rooms for ladies and gentlemen, and smoking is absolutely prohibited. For full information send for Pullman Colonist Sleeper leaflet. E. L. LOMAX, General Passenger and Ticket Agent, Omaha Nebraska.

Committee Meeting.

There will be a meeting of the committee on dedication of the court house at the county judges office at 7:30 this evening. All members of the committee and others interested are requested to meet with them.

PECULIAR FRED RACE.

Had a Merry Popping at the Lincoln Asylum.

There's merry hades popping over at the asylum among Governor Boyd's new appointees. It appears that Fred Race, well known by his noise in politics, is "the fly in the ointment." The racket developed but lately, when it was brought to the attention of the board of public lands and buildings, that about $1,500 worth of extras had been purchased without the board's approval during the previous month, and investigation discloses a peculiar state of affairs.

To begin at the beginning, it appears that ever since Race has been over there in the capacity of bookkeeper, he has been trying to get his work in, and has been extremely officious, although his duties are not of a nature to warrant him exercising anything more than a clerical function. Shortly after Governor Boyd's new Stewart, M. H. Madden, made his debut at the asylum, Race intimated to him that he would like to have a new pair of shoes go in with the order for shoes for the institution. Madden either did not care to rob the state, or at least he did not want to do it in Race's behalf, and neglected to order Mr. Race's shoes. Other little clashes came between the clerk and the steward, until Race gave up Madden as a bad job, as a man he could not work, so he turned his attention to coddling Dr. Bowman, the superintendent. He made the good doctor believe that his duties as superintendent necessitated keeping a sharp eye on Madden. And, straightway the doctor began checking up Madden in every quarter, it is said to the extent of weighing each pound of tobacco, butter, etc., to see if there were sixteen ounces in it. This made Madden hot, and put the superintendent and the steward at sword points. The superintendent concluded to do a little buying on his own account, it appears, and purchased a horse from himself for the state for $90. He took a school ma'am to board, at $20 per month, and employs the horse to convey the schoolma'am to and from the schoolhouse.

The relations between the superintendent and the steward thus became so strained that Governor Boyd, it is said, called both of them up to his office and read the riot act to them. It is also reported that the board of public lands and buildings called down both of them and notified both the superintendent and steward that no more purchases of extras must be made without a permit or requisition having been granted by the board.

The investigation, it is further stated, revealed that all through the trouble between the superintendent and the steward, the bookkeeper was the marplot, playing each one against the other to gratify his own ends. Just what the nature of these ends was may be guessed at from a little transaction over a lawn tennis outfit which the steward had ordered from Shilling Bros., agreeing to pay therefore $25, the said lawn tennis outfit being for the use and recreation of convalescent patients. When the set arrived Shilling Bros. found that it cost them $23.50, and remarked to Race that it left them a very small margin of profit, whereupon the officious clerk advised them to make their bill for $35 and he would pass it as correct; at the same time gently intimating that his wife might like a bottle of perfume. Shilling Bros. were finally prevailed upon by Race to make their bill $27.50, which, when it met Madden's attention, was rejected as being more than the agreed price, $25.

It is said that there were divers other small transactions of this kind which are apt to lead to Race's removal, and possibly to the restoration of harmony in the warring camp of democracy at the asylum.

A funny incident in connection with the new outfit at the asylum is the business letter-head used, which was evidently ordered by Race, as he has his name up at the top of it as one of the officers, and this, too, at the exclusion of the hostler, the firemen and the other employees.—Lincoln Journal.
