The City Was in the Hands of the Cass County Bar,

ELABORATE PROGRAM EXECUTED.

Hon. J. Sterling Morton Presented The Painting of General Lewis Cass to the Court House Last Night.—The Evening Long to be Remembered.

The district court room was crowded last night and standing room was at a premium long before the time set for the opening of the evening program.

The program of the evening was commenced with a selection from the orchestra, after which Judge Chapman, in a few well chosen words, introduced Hon. J. Sterling Morton of Nebraska City. Mr. Morton presented to the court room an elegant likeness of Gen. Lewis Cass. Mr. Morton gave a thrilling description of the pioneer life of Nebraska and also a history of Gen. Cass and how he secured possession of the painting; also stating that the picture had been hanging in his parlor for the past thirty-four years.

A vote of thanks from the citizens of Cass county was tendered Mr. Morton for his valuable gift. It was also moved that the Cass county bar draft a set of resolutions and that they be spread upon the records of the court and also upon the records of the county commissioners, which was unanimously adopted.

A. N. Sullivan, on behalf of the county commissioners, acknowledged the receipt of the gift and thanked Mr. Morton for the same.

Judge Chapman then turned the program over to the bar of Cass county, and Hon. R. B. Windham, as toastmaster, took possession of the chair.

The program opened with a song by the quartette, composed of Messrs. James Johnson, Noble, Burris and Miss Nannie Moore and Messrs. Pettie, Pollock, McElwain and Dickson.

J. L. Root responded to the toast, "The Bar of Cass County," and handled his subject in an able manner.

The toast, "Reminiscences of the Probate Court," was responded to by Judge Ramsey. After a few remarks he read several old records, among which was the following:

FORM OF MARRIAGE CELEBRATION.

TERRITORY OF NEBRASKA, ss. In the Name of God, Amen: Know all men by these presents, greeting:

Whereas, the supreme law of the Territory of Nebraska, has authorized the solemnization of the marriage of men and women, and whereas, it has been duly proved to the satisfaction of this court, that the base judge that the legal contracting parties are of sound mind and disposing memory; that they are of legal age and competent to contract; that they are of love and affection and also of the necessary age;

And it appearing to the satisfaction of the court that legal proof has been made among the records of this court, of the solemnization of the marriage of said parties, this therefore ordered, that said parties be and they are hereby required to stand up, the gentleman on the right and the lady on the left, and join their right hands.

Do you, Miss, take this gentleman whom you hold by the right hand, to be your lawfully wedded husband? Do you promise to forsake father, mother, brothers, sisters and all former loves, to be faithful, true, honest, and loving, and all other relatives, and love him whom you hold by the right hand, and be only so long as you both shall live?

Witness my hand and the seal of the court, this 1st day of June, 1892.

Mrs. G. W. Noble and Miss Nannie Moore sang a duet that received a hearty encore.

"Dignity of the Bench and Bar" was responded to by J. H. Halde-man.

M. Archer responded to the toast, "The Justice of the Peace of Cass County."

"Fiat Justitia Ruit Caelum," which means, after translation, "Let Justice be Done, Though the Heavens Fall," was responded to by S. P. Vanata.

The orchestra then rendered a selection that was heartily appreciated.

D. O. Dayer responded to the toast, "The Lawyer as a Citizen," and E. H. Woolley to the toast, "The Duties of an Advocate."

Mrs. G. W. Noble followed with a solo.

H. L. Travis responded to "The Weeping Water Bar," C. S. Polk to "Trial by Jury," and Allen Beeson, "Reminiscences of an Old Ber-riester."

Mrs. E. B. Barris and Frank Dickson rendered a duet, followed by Byron Clark in response to the toast, "The Presiding Judge," and M. A. Hartigan to "Equity." A. N.

Sullivan responded to "The Lawyer and His Client" and Mathew Gering to "Idealism of Advocacy," after which the entertainment closed.

From Elmwood. THE HERALD received the following from ex-County Clerk Bird Critchfield:

ELMWOOD, Neb., May 23.—Editor HERALD: I desire to say to my many friends in Plattsmouth that I regret very much that I could not be in the city to attend the dedication of the new court house. Circumstances are such as to prevent me from coming, but I join with the rest of the many citizens of Cass county in setting before the coming generations a structure of which every loyal citizen of the county should be proud, and a building which will hereafter hold in perfect safety the records of one of the best counties west of the Mississippi river. I shall visit the county seat in the near future, at which time I hope to see my many friends. Yours respectfully, BIRD CRITCHFIELD.

Fremont 9, Plattsmouth 2. The Lincoln Journal has this to say regarding the game at Fremont yesterday:

Notwithstanding the heavy wind and the clouds of dust that were blowing, people who went out to the ball park yesterday witnessed a very pretty game of ball between Plattsmouth and Baker's freaks. Up to the seventh inning it was as neat an exhibition as one would care to see, but in the eighth the visitors went to pieces. Green was obliged to retire to the bench with a broken thumb and Pond was substituted in his place. The feature was the batting of Butler, Long and Marsh. The score:

THE COURT HOUSE.

Not What Might Have Been; But What Is, and Has Been.

The exercises (?) yesterday remind us of the march of events thusly: "Behind the squaw's birch bark canoe, The Steamer rocks and raves, And city lots are staked for sale, Above old Indian graves." Behind the old brick court house walls, A stately building stands, And quiet reigns at Weeping Water falls For peace came o'er the warring bands. J. A. M.

A Typewriter's Luncheon.

A young woman whose work as a typewriter makes her daily luncheon at a restaurant a necessity says that the most satisfactory and sustaining meal she gets is a plate of raw oysters, with a bottle of ginger ale and plenty of brown bread and butter. If she feels poor she omits the ale, which is an appreciable item, and contents herself with the oysters and bread. "There are so few things to be had at the average restaurant that are satisfactory," she says, "but you may really rely on the oysters and Boston brown bread."—New York Times.

Importance of Plates to Collectors. The affixing of the bookplate completes, in a certain manner difficult to describe, which most book lovers must readily recall, the subtle joy of book possession. And inasmuch as once pasted in the label becomes an integral part of a cherished volume, it is in all but rare cases meant to be in itself a thing of definite beauty. Here is one of the many interests offered by a bookplate to the collector.—London Saturday Review.

A Great Show for Him. Miss Candide—Where I spent the season there were twelve girls to every young man. De Smithers—How I wish I had been there!

Miss Candide—You ought to have come down. A young man would have been almost worshiped no matter how unattractive.—New York Tribune. Number of the Stars. At the present time the whole number of double stars known and recorded by astronomers is something over 10,000, far exceeding the total number of stars visible to the naked eye in the entire firmament (about 6,000), and others are being frequently discovered by the great telescopes now in existence.—New York Journal.

Big Alaska Salmon. Salmon, such as are found in the rivers of Alaska, are very large. Three salmon will ordinarily fill forty-eight one pound cans, making one case.—Washington Star. Becoming. Clara—That's an awfully becoming veil you have on. Maude—What makes you think so? Clara—Because it's so thick.—Cloak Review. A bright New York boy has set himself up in the business of exercising fine bred dogs for rich men whose time is too much taken up with money making to properly look after their canine property. In all competitive sports it is dangerous for the contestants to ignore physical differences. Spirit and excitement may help to win a temporary victory at too great a cost. Doubtless the coldest civilized place on the globe is Werchojansk, in Siberia, where the thermometer once registered a temperature of 81 degs. below zero. French farmers prefer horseshoes that are made in the United States, as they are both cheaper and more easily worked.—Exchange.
