TONS OF FISH BAIT.

CATCHING MENHADEN OFF THE COAST OF NEW ENGLAND.

How Schools of Fish Are Pursued, Captured and Stowed Aboard—An Accommodating Member of the Fishery Trade Which Can Be Used in Many Ways.

Pitching his voice high the lookout at the masthead of the menhaden steamer shouts out gleefully: "A school! A school!" and immediately all is bustle and excitement on board.

"As this is a new experience to you, sir, you shall have a seat with me in my boat."

"Thank you, captain; I am only too eager to see the fun." The crews now take their places in the seine boats, while two of the party, known as drivers, go out in advance in little thirteen foot boats to learn the direction in which the school is moving, and to mark out its size.

They now begin throwing out the seine, each boat going in an opposite direction around the school, the drivers in the meantime splashing the water to keep the fish from escaping.

The next thing on the programme is to prepare the menhaden for salting, to be used as bait—for which there is great demand. This is a simple process, but to do it neatly involves it with particular interest.

This opening act of the day's drama ended, Captain Williams invites me to accompany him into the cabin, and the jolly skipper there entertains me with some interesting points about the fishery.

The originator of the idea has found an architect willing to build the house on condition that he receives payment in advance. But there is no renting agency that will take the agency for it.

Woodchoppers on Dr. Price's Lenape farm report that squirrels are very numerous among the trees. When the choppers began last fall there were several acres of trees standing and the squirrels were not numerous, but as the trees were cut, a few at a time, the little animals were driven from one place of refuge to another until all were gathered into a small space, and the few remaining trees are filled with them.

"About how long, captain, does the catching season last?" "Well, you see, as soon as the menhaden make their appearance in the spring, vessels start in pursuit of 'em, and continue capturing 'em till they disappear in the fall.

"The average steamer is about the size of this one. That is to say, some 70 tons measurement, 90 feet long, 17 feet beam, 7 1/2 feet depth of hold and seven feet draft aft and costs $16,000. It costs not far from $1,000 a month for wages, fuel and provisions to run it.

"Since steamers have come into vogue the factories have greatly increased their facilities for handling large catches. The first factory could work up only a few hundred barrels a day, while now the big factories take from 3,000 to 5,000 barrels daily."

Challenging a Critical Journalist.

A very slight and polite criticism indulged in at the expense of a cavalry officer who was riding about a week ago at the horse show has assumed the proportions of a serious event.

The region abounds in warlike tribes. Mr. Chanler intends to enter the region from the west, after leaving Lake Rudolph, and proceed along the Tubba river to the sea. He expects to be absent about eighteen months.

At the city of Dinard, in the department of Ille-et-Vilaine, France, there lives a man distinguished both for his originality of ideas and for the fullness of his money bags.

In the morning when the men go out to work they are met at the railway tracks by the knowing little animals, which feel secure because the game laws protect them at this season.

A contemporary relates that there was a tragedy in the composing room of a Philadelphia paper the other day. The compositors were busy at their cases when one of their number, a young woman, fainted away, and she was conveyed to her home.

An installation of electric light is being laid down in the Batignolles tunnel, near Paris, in which the incandescent lamps are placed at a height of about fifteen feet above the rails.

O. E. Cruise, of Kingston, Ont., died on Good Friday, and when his father, Thomas Cruise, formerly auditor general of Canada, learned of it he said: "I am going to die myself tomorrow. You can bury us together on Easter Sunday."

If the advertisements in a paper published in Boston last Sunday had been pasted together column upon column they would be 283 feet long, or sixty-two feet higher than the Bunker Hill monument.

Black snow lately fell in the canton of Geneva, Switzerland, a phenomenon which was once thought to presage the black plague and other calamities, but is now known to be due to a fungus in the snow.

Going to Africa.

Great interest is exhibited in the proposed East African expedition of Mr. William Astor Chanler. The Tama river, which he proposes to follow, is inhabited along the lower part principally by the Wa-Pokomo, a race which subsists by cultivation.

He will start early in June in company with Lieutenant Hohnel, of the Austrian navy, and Count Tolaki, with the object of careful scientific research and observation in that region.

The little duckling has been in the family since Easter Sunday, when it was brought as a gift to Mrs. Carr's baby daughter, Serena, aged four years, who was delighted with her new pet.

Whenever Mary speaks the duck responds with the piping salutation and waddles after the young woman wherever she goes. The most astonishing thing about this freak of nature is that if any other inmate of the household attempts to induce it to answer, the footed prodigy maintains a solemn silence, but Mary has only to utter a word when the quacking begins and is kept up until she has ceased speaking.

A little girl is reported to have died near the imaginary line in Oklahoma which divided the recently opened reservations from the remainder of the territory just as the signal was given for the grand rush for lands.

A runner on a swift horse located a homestead, and returning placed the father of the dead girl in possession of it. The body of the child was transported to the claim and buried upon it.

Some time ago there was published the story of the death of a Long Island physician from blood poisoning resulting from an ingrowing toe nail.

The cause of the disease is common and painful and usually directly traceable to narrow toed shoes. It causes pain as severe as a toothache and not infrequently, when neglected, results in blood poisoning.

The diet of the Tyrol last week passed a bill imposing heavy fines upon persons found selling any sample of the beautiful but rare Alpine flower called edelweiss, which has been pulled up by the roots on the mountains.

The herring fishing season on the Susquehanna river is finished, and the catch has been unprecedented. The pack will amount to over 60,000 barrels of salted fish.
