TONS OF FISH BAIT.

CATCHING MENHADEN OFF THE COAST OF NEW ENGLAND.
A Modern Hero.

A sergeant of fire patrol in New York City, John R. Vaughan, was present at the fire in the Hotel Royal. At a window in one of the upper stories was gathered a group with anxious faces—a father, mother and child—waiting, perhaps, to die together.
At the next window, in an adjoining building, appeared a sergeant of our patrol. The distance was too great to reach. Without hesitation he threw himself down, resting one arm upon the sill and entwining his leg around a telephone wire, fortunately conveniently near; with his other arm, one by one he conducted this group of three over his prostrate body, as a bridge, to the window of safety.

His work was not yet done. Ascending to the roof he discovered a man standing upon the sill of a window in another portion of the house, doubting whether to meet death by jumping or wait to be overtaken by the fire.

Shouting to him to wait and he would save him, Mr. Vaughan rushed to the street, and calling upon his comrades to follow ascended to the roof of another adjoining building; hastily throwing off his coat, his companions holding him by his legs, he threw himself head downward over the cornice, and with their assistance raised this man of over 200 pounds in weight to the roof. The rescue was completed, these lives were saved.

Mr. Vaughan was presented with a gold medal commemorating his heroism. And he richly deserved it. He was a true hero, and none the less so that he performed his deeds in the line of his duty.—Christian at Work.

Pound Fishing for Scup.
Late in April great schools of pogies rush on the southern New England ocean coast, and for several weeks all the fishermen from Stonington to Newport have the liveliest kind of work tending their great pounds on the wild shore. The fish usually appear first in Rhode Island waters, in which state they are called scup, and then the news is flashed along shore to the Connecticut fishermen. At once the latter begin to set their pounds, for no time is to be lost if money is to be made in scup fishing. They erect a netted fence from the strand straight into the ocean for many hundred rods, and at the end of the fence set a great heart shaped pound, in which the fish are captured.

A pound is a big and costly thing and costs from $1,500 to $2,500. In the height of the season 100 or more barrels of scup are taken daily from each one of the pounds along the Connecticut and Rhode Island shores. In two weeks' fishing at Quonochontaug, a few miles east of Watch Hill, Captain Andrew Langhear took over 1,000 barrels of scup out of his traps. Most other poundmen have had almost equally good luck. The fish are sold mainly in New York, and in the rush of the season not less than 1,000 barrels of pogies are shipped thither each night by the big sound boats from Stonington.

At first the fish fetch twelve dollars a barrel, but the price drops rapidly as soon as the fish become plentiful. Often there is a glut in the market, and then the price in the New York market is not sufficient to pay the expenses of the fishermen.—Cor. New York Sun.

The Old Love Was the New.
Last evening at the residence of the bride's father, south of Crawfordsville, occurred the marriage of A. B. Rush, aged about sixty years, and a resident of Missouri, to Miss Emma Branch, not many years the bridegroom's junior. The couple were devoted lovers many years ago near Alamo, but being estranged by a quarrel Mr. Rush married another girl. His wife died last summer and he lost no time in returning from Missouri, where he had located, and resuming his attentions to his old love, who had remained single and who seemed very happy to renew the old attachment. Mr. and Mrs. Rush will leave in a few days for Missouri, where the bridegroom has married children residing.—Indianapolis News.

A Dust Storm at Sea.
The British ship Borean, which recently made the voyage from Tasmania around Cape Horn to England, encountered a remarkable but not unusual phenomenon at sea, viz., a storm of dust. After crossing the equator she fell into the northeast trade winds, and when about 600 miles west of the Cape Verde islands, the nearest land, the Borean's sails and rigging were thickly coated with a very fine powdery dust of a dark yellow or saffron color, scarcely discernible on or near the deck, but profuse on the highest parts of the rigging, so that the sails appeared "tanned."—School and Home.

An Expensive Plaything.
A pet cat owned by a New York family is fond of expensive playthings. The wife of its owner missed a $400 diamond a few days ago, and after notifying the police and advertising largely for it, offering a suitable reward for its return, the cat was found playing with it on the floor. Whether the cat received any portion of the reward or not the papers failed to state.—Harper's Young People.

A Venerable Pedagogue.
Schoolmaster Johann Friedrich Schulz has just celebrated at Pankow the seven-thirtieth anniversary of his wedding day. Johann is ninety-two years old and his wife ninety-one. The happy couple had the good fortune to see around them, participating in the festivities of the day, nine of their children, twenty-six grandchildren and fourteen great-grandchildren.—Vossische Zeitung.

Ek-Alderman George O. Fall, a lunatic, escaped from the asylum at Danvers, Mass., just after midnight and had walked twenty-five miles along lonely roads in a chilling atmosphere in his night robe before he was captured.
The walls of old Exeter castle, England, are crumbling. An inspection revealed the fact that millions of microbes are gradually powdering away the stone.

Curious Fate of a Shark.
The steamship Kansas City, of the Ocean Steamship company, which arrived here on Wednesday night from Savannah, caused the death of a five foot shovel nosed shark in a somewhat unusual manner. Off Hatteras Shoals, steaming along at the rate of seventeen miles an hour, the steamship ran its cutter into the shark, striking the fish square amidships, so to speak. The shark was unable to extricate itself owing to the intense pressure of the water.

A Toy Industry Festival.
A remarkable token of the importance of the toy industry in the ancient city of Nuremberg is afforded by the great gathering in one of the public halls at a banquet in celebration of the completion of the 300,000th model steam engine by a well known maker. Among the guests were the heads of the municipality and several industrial and commercial corporations.

Car Rails Five Miles Long.
The electric welding of street railway rails, as a substitute for fish plates, has been the subject of experiment for some time. The process is now said to be entirely successful, and it is possible to weld by electricity two pieces of steel of twenty-five square inches section, and therefore a solid rail four or five miles long can be had if required. The tests are also said to prove that the necessity of joints to provide for contraction and expansion is not so apparent as engineers have supposed.—New York World.

Six Educated Toads.
Landlord J. W. Steen, of the Lawrence Junction hotel, has six well trained toads, which he has been instructing for three months. The reptiles are trained to march, or hop in squads to catch roaches. One has been trained to climb a ladder, while another turns the crank of a small churn.—Cor. Pittsburg Dispatch.

Southampton Losing Its Shipping.
Not only have the peninsular and oriental steamers ceased going to Southampton, but other companies owing large steamers are now threatening to go elsewhere and abandon the use of the Southampton docks.—New York Times.
