

It goes back

—all the money you've spent for it—if there's neither benefit nor cure. That's what ought to be said of every medicine. It could be— if the medicine were good enough. But it is said of only one medicine of its kind—Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It's the guaranteed blood-purifier. Not only in March, April and May, when the sarsaparilla claim to do good, but in every season and in every case it cures all diseases arising from a torpid liver or from impure blood. For all Scrofulous, Skin and Scalp Diseases, Dyspepsia, Indigestion and Biliousness, it is a positive remedy.

Nothing else is as cheap, no matter how many hundred doses are offered for a dollar.

With this, you pay only for the good you get.

And nothing else is "just as good."

It may be "better"—for the dealer; but you are the one that's to be helped.

"We stand," said Major McKinley, "for a protective tariff, because it represents the American home, the American fireside, the American family, the American girl, the American boy and the highest possibilities of American citizenship." There is the ring of true Americanism in these words. No foreign tendency, no anglomania here.

In 1882 Great Britain made 8,493,287 tons of pig iron, Germany made 3,386,805 tons, and the United States 4,623,323 tons. In 1891 Great Britain made 7,228,496 tons, Germany 4,452,019 tons, and the United States 8,279,733 tons. This is a decrease for the free trade country of 14 per cent and an increase of 33 per cent and 80 per cent respectively for the two protectionist countries. That is the kind of "victories" Cobdenism is winning these days—American Economist.

THE American home is the one thing we cannot afford to lose out of our American life. The American home, where the father abides in the respect, and the mother in the deep love, of the children that sit about the fireside; where all that makes us good is taught and the first rudiments of obedience to law, of orderly relations, one to another, are put into the young minds. That which distinguishes us from other nations whose political experience and history have been full of strife and discord, is the American home, where one wife sits in single uncrowned glory.—President Harrison.

DOMESTIC GOODS BETTER THAN EVER BEFORE.

In domestic production there never before were employed as much skill and as great amount of brain power as during the present season. The result is shown in the goods on the market, which in many instances are quite equal to the best of their grade produced from foreign looms. In every line the best assortments are shown, and in nothing is any of them wanting, except in the matter of design in certain lines of fancy goods, which, in consequence of the higher artistic skill of the foreign manufacturer, do not in all cases present that smartness and newness of design and pattern so characteristic in foreign goods. Even in these there is seen a marked advance on those of last season, and taken altogether domestic dress goods are a great credit to American production.—The Dry Goods Economist.

PROTECTION AND PATRIOTISM.
Aside from the fact of its material benefits, the higher wages and greater prosperity which it always brings, protection deserves the support of American citizens because it is pre-eminently an American policy.

The great statesmen of our country, irrespective of party, Jefferson as well as Washington and Hamilton, Jackson as well as Clay and Webster, have all believed in protection, not only because as wise men they saw the need of it, but also because it emphasized and exalted that true American spirit of which all were equally enthusiastic proponents.

Free trade has nothing to offer us but what is foreign.

It wishes us to buy foreign goods and import them in foreign ships. It holds out to us the prospect of foreign markets, and thinks no trade good but foreign trade. The very idea is foreign, imported from Great Britain, and its foothold has been secured in this country largely through the employment of foreign emissaries.

Protection thinks that so far as markets, laborers, industries, products, ships and trade are concerned in the words of an American poet, "There's no place like home."

It wishes it understood that American products are good enough for the American people.

It thinks that the free trader's claim that American laborers are not skillful enough to manufacture as well as the half starved laborers of Europe is a sneer at the intelligence of American manhood.

And above all other things, it emphasizes the fact that there is an American standard of wages and of living, and that our national life and the high grade of our country's citizenship depend on that standard's perpetuation.

The impartial man, therefore, who weighs both sides of the question cannot but conclude that protection is the more patriotic policy, and as such, more worthy of a patriot's support. For with the great mass of mankind, patriotism still continues to be regarded as a noble feeling, despite the contempt of the "philosopher" or the sneers of the mugwump.—American Economist.

Spaniards as Shoplifters.

Spaniards are now said to be most predominant among the criminals arrested for stealing in large shops or pocket picking on race courses or at great public gatherings. Several Spaniards have been caught purse snatching at the Gingerbread fair, and there have just appeared before the police court two men and two women from over the Pyrenees who practiced shoplifting on a large scale. The Spaniards, who had been suspected of pocket picking in the Jardin d'Acclimation, were dogged by a detective, who saw them enter the Grands Magasins du Louvre. They drove to the place in a hired victoria, the jehu of which was one of the men. After having remained for awhile in the shop they saw that they were being watched, so they left the place, entered their vehicle and were conveyed to the Printemps.

Neither the detective followed them, and although he had no ocular proof that the Spaniards stole anything he arrested the lot, the driver of the victoria being seized by a policeman who had received instructions to observe his movements. Under the cushions of the vehicle were found three large pieces of silk which had been stolen from the Louvre shops and were valued at a little over forty pounds.—London Telegraph.

English Reporters Must Be Educated.

There are to be no ignoramuses in the English journalism of the future. A special committee of the institute of the profession has prepared a report in which it is recommended that candidates for admission to membership must pass an examination in the English language, English literature, English constitution and political history, political and physical geography. They must also have a "sufficient knowledge" of Latin, either French and German, and "some acquaintance" with universal history.

But perhaps the most important recommendation of all is that every candidate shall be examined in "The Principles of the Law of Newspaper Libel." This is certainly a poser, and any journalist who succeeds in showing that he has mastered the law of libel will be well worthy of all the honors which his colleagues can bestow.—Pall Mall Budget.

Mr. Weslosky's Aristocratic Hen.

At the farm of Mr. Maurice Weslosky, of Albany, a Plymouth Rock hen had been set on sixteen eggs—thirteen of which were Plymouth Rock eggs and the other three eggs of a common breed of chickens. The motherly old hen hatched out the whole sixteen, but when they were all able to run about according to her clucking she seemed to eye the three little aliens suspiciously. That Biddy disapproved the mixture of the breed was at once evinced by the scornful manner assumed, and soon she showed it in an emphatic way by falling viciously on the three strangers and putting a sudden and violent end to their young lives.—Cor. Atlanta Constitution.

Teething at Ninety-Eve.

Michael Fritz, of Friedensburg, the oldest man in Schuyler county, has had three sets of teeth and is likely to get a fourth.

On his eighty-first birthday he was tendered a big surprise party by members of his family and friends, and it turned surprised his visitors by showing them three perfectly formed pearly white teeth in his upper jaw, where for years there had been none. These three disappeared several years afterward and Mr. Fritz resumed the use of his false teeth until a short time ago, when another set of natural teeth began to make their appearance. Four teeth have all ready grown, and there is reason to believe a full set will make its appearance. Mr. Fritz is ninety-five years of age.—Cor. Philadelphia Press.

Too Heavy to Go Down.

A correspondent sends the following tough story from Lancaster, which we don't believe: "Several days ago Walter C. Hardy noticed that a lot of tenpenny nails he had in a shed were disappearing, and he yesterday discovered that about three pounds of the nails had been carried to an elevated place by one of his pigeons and used in building a nest."—Philadelphia Ledger.

The exact site of the famous Black Hole of Calcutta, long supposed to be lost, has lately been rediscovered in the course of excavating the foundations of buildings in Old Fort William.
