She Committed Suicide.
Mrs. F. D. Boe, at Watkins, left this letter: "My husband—Forgive me if I cause you trouble, but I suffer so. You do not know what these long, wakeful, wretched nights are to me, and I am so tired, darling—the pain will never be better. It is not easy to take my own life, but I have been sick so long. Good-by, my husband, I love you—your wife." This is but one of thousands that give up, instead of using Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerve, and being speedily cured of their wretchedness. Go to F. G. Fricke and get an elegant book and trial bottle free. 6

PROTECTION COLUMN.

CONDUCTED BY THE W. C. T. U.

Miss Willard went to Cincinnati June 23, for attendance upon the prohibition convention which met in that city June 29 and 30. She presided over a mass temperance meeting Sunday afternoon in Central Music hall, which holds ten thousand people. This convention had 1,191 accredited delegates, the largest number of any national political convention held in the United States this year.

The last vestige of the state debt of Iowa has recently been liquidated. Iowa, it will be remembered, is a prohibition state.

Out of 2,700 Congregational ministers in England and Wales, at least 1,600 are abstainers; of 361 students, 320 are abstainers.

THE PROHIBITION CONVENTION.
The national convention of the prohibition party met at Cincinnati last week. Representation in this convention is based on the vote polled by the party in the different states instead of on the number of congressmen and senators—a plan which it is proposed shall be adopted hereafter by republican conventions. The number of delegates in the prohibition convention, if all attend, will be 1,091, and it is expected that everybody who has a right to a seat will be present.

This will be the sixth convention of the prohibition party to nominate presidential candidates. In the five presidential elections the vote of the party was as follows:

|------|---------|
| 1872 | 5,207 |
| 1876 | 9,737 |
| 1880 | 9,678 |
| 1884 | 150,626 |
| 1888 | 249,945 |

This shows a considerable growth in the prohibition vote during the past twelve years, though not so great as the party expected.

The two chief prizes of Northwestern university, Evanston (which had in all departments over two thousand, three hundred students this year), are the Kirk prize for oratory, and the Bragdon prize for general scholarship. Both were taken by young women—Misses Nettie J. Hunt and Cora Monnier Rawlins. Mrs. Potter Palmer and our World's and National W. C. T. U. president were elected trustees of the Northwestern university, June 15. Lyman Gage, the famous financier, was also chosen to the post of trustee.

Half a million persons, it is said, are, in one way or another, employed on the Sabbath in connection with the drink traffic, and 200,000 of these are young people.

"The saloon is not an American institution; ninety per cent of the saloon keepers are foreigners; there is a growing prejudice in employing sober men even to attend bars. It is absurd that a man cannot draw up a legal contract on Sunday, while the saloon keeper is permitted to open and pursue his business. The saloon is born of the devil, and is a menace to society. The alleged right to sell liquor and create drunkards who commit crimes is preposterous. The saloon is called the poor man's parlor, but the fact is, that except for the demoralizing influence of the saloon the poor man might have a parlor of his own." We are sorry to say that the majority of the speakers seemed, in spite of all the points they made against it, to favor a continental rather than an American Sabbath. One of the worst results of foreign travel is the un-Americanizing of our people.

The Free church of Scotland has 632 ministers, all of whom are abstainers, and a total membership of nearly 64,000,000 teetotalers.

It is suggested by Mrs. Moots, superintendent of evangelistic work in Michigan, that the national W. C. T. U. have a flag of its own, and that it consist of the banner of our native land with one large white star in the center of the blue field, to represent the state of Wyoming, the only commonwealth on the face of the earth that has given to women the same powers in the government by which they are controlled, that it has given to man. At a recent election in Michigan the W. C. T. U. flung out such a banner on election day from its headquarters, and it proved to be a most suggestive object lesson. We believe that such a flag would be the best sort of an advertisement of our conventions—national, state, district and county—and would make any amount of helpful sentiment. If this suggestion strikes our members favorably they will, of course, feel perfectly free to act upon it.

REVEILLE.

Fly, poptled drowses, away!
Across the marshes sweep,
Chasing the fallen moon, the shadows gray;
Make me not laggard, Sleep!
Against the morning move,
Fronting the reddening smiles;
Touch the white eyelids of the girl I love,
And fill her dreams with smiles.
—John Hay in Cosmopolitan.

How the Wends Dance.

The serska raja is a pantomimic dance. Each couple has its own turn of leading. The cavalier places his partner in front of him, facing her, and while the band keeps playing and the company singing one of those peculiarly stirring Wendish dance tunes he sets about adorning her to grant him his desire and dance with him. She stands stock still, her arms hanging down flop by her side. The cavalier capers about, shouts, strikes his hands against his thighs, kneels, touches his heart—with the more dramatic force the better. At length the lady gives way, and in token of consent raises her hand.

Briskly do the two spin around now for the space of eight bars, after which for eight more they perform something like a cross between a chasses croisee and a jig, and so on for a little while, after which the whole company joins in the same performance. As a finish the cavalier "stands" the band and his partner some liquor, and a merry round dance concludes his turn of leading to the accompaniment of a tune and song, roncka, selected by himself.—Westminster Review.

A Real Nice Girl.

"Why, my darling," exclaimed Mrs. Worldly to her eighteen-year-old rosbud Maud, "why in the name of goodness can you want to marry that impetuous young fellow Harry Juventus, when there is that charming Sir Crossus Senectus, a man of dignified maturity and countless wealth, who is dying to make you Mrs. Senectus, and who would place my jewel in a magnificent setting?"

"How can you talk so, mamma?" replied Maud, looking down and blushing a few lines of solid nonpareil. "It is true that Sir Crossus is rich and Harry is not; but then Harry is young and Sir Crossus is old. Now, Harry is young and he can acquire wealth; while Sir Crossus is rich, but he cannot acquire youth. Do you catch on, mamma, as the boys say?"—Minneapolis Journal.

Compress Heater and Sterilizer.

A useful appliance has been introduced in hospitals in the shape of a compress heater and sterilizer. There is no moistening or wringing of hot cloths necessary. It does away with the use of oiled silk or cotton, as it cannot wet bedclothes and will retain heat longer than the ordinary compress, and the compresses may be applied to different patients without washing, as they may be easily sterilized and freed entirely from germs.—New York Telegram.

Street Railway Figures.

The extent of the street railroad interest in the United States may be estimated from a report which states that there are 5,783 miles of such roads in operation, having 32,505 cars and employing 70,764 men. The total number of passengers carried in one year was 2,023,010,202, being 349,820 per mile of road work and 62,237 per car.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

A Legal Question.

Little Willie—Papa, when a man takes up the law it means he starts in being a lawyer, doesn't it?
His Father—Yes.
"And when he's a judge and lays down the law is that where he quits?"
But his father told him it was time he was in bed long ago.—Kate Field's Washington.

He Had Been There.

"Mr. Jones," said Mrs. Jones, looking up from the paper she was reading, "here is an excellent article on 'How to Hang Pictures.' You ought to read it."
"Oh, I know how—hang 'em!" retorted Mr. Jones savagely, and then silence came like a poultice to heal the blows of sound.—Detroit Free Press.

Seaweed Made Useful.

The hollow stem of the species of seaweed indigenous to the neighborhood of the Cape of Good Hope was formerly used by the natives as a trumpet when dried. Still another kind furnishes the savages of some parts of Australia with vessels, many implements and even food.—Washington Star.

The Roumanian has, in every walk in life, a fierce and savage pride which causes him to abhor the idea of medicine and surgery, and to consider the loss of a limb as terrible as that of life.

Miniature bears' tusks and the shells so much affected by gypsies are both of very ancient origin. What they signify can be easily found out by any one who cares to inquire.

The city of Kaskaskia, Ill., claims possession of the first bell rung for divine service west of the Alleghany mountains. It was cast at La Rochelle in 1741.

THE PERFECT FRIEND.

One only friend we have Accounted sure;
One only love is ours
That will endure.

All other friends are dear;
He knows how dear
Who gave them for our joy
And solace here.

All other loves are sweet;
He knows how sweet
Of whom sad souls that lack
For love entreat.

But friends however true
This life will test,
And they will fall us oft
Who know us best.

And loves however strong
In time may change;
Misfortunes may divide,
New ties estrange.

Sorest of all will come
Some sad offense;
Mistrust will chill, and doubt
Drive friendship hence.

Oh, slow of heart to learn
What yet we own—
One only perfect friend
Hath any known!

—H. M. Kimball in New York Independent.

The Transition of Electrical Theories.

To the question, "What is electricity?" which is often asked, no absolute and satisfactory answer has yet been found. Notwithstanding the wonderful development of electrical applications, electricians are still feeling their way as to the nature and many of the principles of the operation of the mighty force that they are learning to control. This was suggestively shown by a remark made by the vice president of the American institute of electrical engineers at the annual convention of that body.

The speaker claimed that the present theories of electricity should be regarded merely as stepping stones to more comprehensive and satisfactory ones. He contended that modern theories of electrical phenomena, if adopted as an absolute framework of all our knowledge of these subjects, may, in a few years, become prison bars that will prevent the mind from making a free and unprejudiced investigation of new theories and new phenomena, and giving due weight and significance in the general science of electricity to the results obtained by the most recent experimenters.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The Future of the Mississippi Valley.

The delta of the Mississippi, below its junction with the Ohio, richer than the Nile or the Rhine, exceeds the combined area of Holland and Egypt, and is destined under the stimulus of free labor and the incentives of self government to build a fabric of society more opulent and enduring. Add to this the inexhaustible alluvion of the streams above, and the fertile prairies from which they descend, and the arithmetic of the past has no logarithms with which to compute the problems of the economic and commercial future of the west. It will be predominant in the development, not of this country alone, but of the hemisphere, and will give direction to the destinies of the human race.

We stand in the vestibule.

We have not yet entered the temple.—John J. Ingalls in Lippincott's.

He Was the Duke.

When, in 1883, Professor Freeman was examining Battle abbey, he found himself dogged by a person who, as he thought, somewhat officiously obtruded his offers of assistance. After vainly trying to shake him off, he broke forth with: "I don't want your assistance. The Duke of Cleveland promised that I should not be interfered with by the gardeners." "Exactly so," was the reply; "I hope they have obeyed my orders. I am the Duke of Cleveland."—San Francisco Argonaut.

A London Bachelors' Club.

The Bachelors' club, a London institution, in 1891 suffered no fewer than twenty-three defections in the shape of members who married; but the club gained £575 in fines at the rate of £25 a wedding. The club is flourishing, and seems on the whole to encourage rather than depreciate matrimony as a fine art. There are still 839 bachelors in the list of members.—London Tit-Bits.

Deaf Mute Pupils.

It is not generally known what wonderful progress has been made in this country of late years in teaching the dumb to speak. It appears from the official records that last year articulation was taught to no less than 4,245 pupils in American schools for the deaf. In a large number of these cases the infirmity dated from birth and was inherited.

Discovered Affection.

Clara—Can it be, Dolly, that you are to marry Mr. Smith, after saying to me repeatedly that you could not endure him?

Dolly—The truth is, Clara, dear, that until I heard that his aunt had died leaving him a fortune I was deceived in my own feelings toward him.—Exchange.

The Spanish government has taken possession of the largest shipbuilding works in that country, and is offering inducements for English shipwrights to superintend the work.
