The Sewer on Washington Avenue to be Extended.

$4,900 TO BE SPENT FOR SEWERAGE

Jack Britton Bound Over to the District Court--A Salacious Case in Police Court To-day--

Other News About the City.

The city council met last night in regular session with all members present except Murphy, who came in later.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

A petition, which was signed by a large number of citizens, asking the council for an appropriation to fix up Garfield park, was read. The communication was placed on file. On motion the street commissioner was ordered to repair the sidewalk on Walnut street and also on Winterstein hill.

The reports of the marshal and police judge were read and referred to the police committee.

The treasurer's report was read and referred to the finance committee.

The finance committee reported favorably the following bills:

Jones of the Second moved that the money lying idle in the sewer fund, amounting $4,900, be expended in extending the sewer up Washington avenue. After considerable discussion the motion was carried and the city engineer instructed to make an estimate.

Murphy said that he had a deed on Mrs. Murphy to the lot on South Ninth street and the city clerk had the deed by paying her $25.

An ordinance was read establishing the grade as asked for by the school board on Eighth street, and on motion the rules were suspended and it was placed upon the second and final reading and passed. The finance committee presented resolution transferring $2,000 from the occupation tax fund to the general fund. Murphy amended to make it $1,000, which was lost and a resolution was adopted.

The council adjourned to meet Wednesday evening.

Bound Over.

The officers yesterday afternoon arrested Jack Britton on the charge of burglary. Some one broke into B. Murphy's store last week and carried off a revolver and a pair of combination nippers. When Britton was arrested the revolver was found on his person, and the evidence showed that he sold the nippers to George Dovey for twenty cents. Britton told Dovey he had the nippers when he sold them. He explained to the court as how he came in possession of the revolver. He said he was walking along the alley back of Dovey's store, when his attention was attracted to something lying partially under a board, and, upon picking it up, he found it to be a revolver. Murphy identified both the nippers and revolver as his. After hearing the testimony Judge Archer bound Britton over to the district court in the sum of $50.

The police court was occupied to-day with the case wherein Lou Engle had Howard Thompson arrested for calling her hard names and disturbing the peace. The testimony showed a terrible state of affairs existing. The Engle woman was so bad that the hardened sinners who have been hanging around police court for such trials shed. The judge fined Thompson $5 and costs. The Engle woman was arrested but was discharged.

The name of Harrison is upon every lip. He is growing stronger every day, while his antagonist is losing ground.

We venture to say that never in all our political history has the national campaign year brought broader, deeper and more prevailing questions down closer to the people. There is not an issue that does not touch a vital spot in what most concerns the masses. Our opponents may proclaim and plead, their speakers may conjure and manipulate, but our position is pre-eminently of and for the people. The questions we present are of economy, home, family, labor, personal rights and money. We propose to make of the campaign a school of education, and the school will swarm with enthusiastic scholars, all intent on knowing what is best for their comfort and prosperity.

We are proud to know that our party has embodied the principle of the McKinley law, in which the principles of protection have been carried to its logical conclusion and no longer leaves a doubt to the readers of republicanism, the position the old party takes upon that subject. Articles which can be manufactured or produced in this country in sufficient quantities to support our own needs, are brought under the shelter of protection, thereby leaving competition among our own people to regulate the prices.

Those articles, which from climatic or other reasons, cannot be produced in this country in sufficient quantities to regulate the price, are put upon the free list.

We of the republican party believe this to be the true theory of protection. Protection on a new article may temporarily, and by some percent of the duty levied, increase the price, but the price declines as the home manufacture of the article enlarges and home competition sets in.

Example of the above workings of the tariff: Cost of a bar of tin plate (108 lbs.) in Liverpool, Jan., 1891, $4.23, additional duty after July 1, 1891, $1.29. Cost of a box of tin plate after April 1, 1892, $3.02. Who pays the tax? More anon.

JOHN THE REVALATOR.

The Chaplain's Collection.
Rev. Benjamin F. Diefenbacher, late chaplain of the Nebraska house of representatives, delivered a very enjoyable lecture at McKendree M. E. church, Massachusetts avenue, last evening. He has collected a large number of stereopticon views of persons, places and public buildings during his six months in Washington, which were thrown on the canvass by Prof. P. B. Murray. The chaplain is a ready speaker, and his explanations and comments gave effect to the views presented. It is understood that the lecturer will exhibit his pictures to the people of his state in the near future. Those who feel an interest (as all must) in the beauties of the National Capital city, and in those illustrious personages whose lives are so interwoven with our country's history, will find that the chaplain's collection has been made with rare judgment, and that his investigations enable him to impart a great deal of valuable information.--Washington Post.

Chaplain Diefenbacher will be at the Presbyterian church Thursday and Friday evenings, July 13 and 14. Admission, 25 cents; children, 10 cents.

To the Temperance Union!

This union will hold a called meeting at the M. E. church Wednesday, July 13, at 3 p. m. Important business requires your presence. The district convention will be held in this city August 30 and 31. We trust every one interested in temperance work will recognize the necessity of making every effort to properly entertain this convention and make it one of interest to all, that it may result in much good. Let every member enrolled be present and each do all in her power for its success, and we ask the clergy and all citizens to cooperate with us. By order of COMMITTEE.

Judge Ramsey rendered a decision in the Vandeventer-Stull case to-day. The judge's decision was in favor of Vandeventer.

ANOTHER BATTLE.

This Time in the Idaho Mines at Wallace.

FOURTEEN MEN WERE KILLED.

The Conflict Was at the Gem and Frisco Mines--The Deadly Work Was Done by Exploding Giant Powder.

WALLACE, Idaho, July 11.--The strained situation in the Coeur d'Alene labor troubles culminated this morning between 5 and 6 o'clock. The Gem and Frisco, non-union mines, were guarded by men behind barricades armed with Winchester. This morning a miner from the Gem started for Burke. When opposite the Frisco mine he was fired upon. Soon the miners in town armed themselves. They marched in a body toward the Frisco mills. When scarcely within rifle range a volley from the mine greeted them. They scattered and a regular battle ensued. One miner and one non-union man were killed, and perhaps six were wounded during the engagement. The miners in the meantime loaded a Union Pacific car with 750 pounds of giant powder and sent it down the track toward the Frisco mine. Directly in front of the mill the explosion occurred, shattering the mill and making it a complete wreck.

The non-union men then showed the white flag and surrendered. They marched the miners to Union men and guarded them. No indignities were offered after the surrender. While the fight was going on at the Frisco, the Gem guards suddenly began firing volley after volley into the town of Gem, riddling the buildings with bullets. John Ward was wounded in the arm and Gus Carlson, a union miner, was killed. All attempts to recover Carlson's body were met with a volley, and when the body was recovered an hour afterwards he was dead.

At 8 o'clock a truce occurred and the sheriff, district attorney and deputy United States marshals appearing upon the scene, peace negotiations were immediately set on foot and a truce declared, and at 12 o'clock the mine force surrendered to the union men.

The number killed so far as learned was fourteen and about ten wounded, though there may be bodies under the Frisco mill. Besides Carlson, Farry, Cummings and two other unknown men killed and wounded, Hugh Campbell and J. W. Gakardoger will die, also Sam Peters and Pettibone.

Later--It is reported that twenty non-union men were killed in the explosion of the mill at the Frisco mine. No confirmation has been received.

History of the Trouble.

The Frisco and Gem are the only two union mines in the east end of Coeur d'Alene. The strike in Coeur d'Alene began about nine months ago. The fight was between the miners and Mine Owners' association, organized to resist the demands of the miners union. Twelve miners, including all the leading ones, are included in the organization, and money has been freely contributed to carry on the fight. The former rates of wages were $3.50 per day to miners and shovelers, and the strike of the miners grew out of a reduction in the shovelers wages to $3 per day. All miners working under ground demanded $3.50. There were several acts of hostility when the strike began but the miners union did its best to prevent by peaceable means, men working at the reduced wages. The United States circuit court issued an injunction forbidding anyone interfering with the men employed by the company or the mine property. About two months ago matters were straightened out and work went on as usual, but since the Carnegie trouble began the old question of wages has been revived by the men and resulted in to-day's bloodshed. A Spokane telegram says that the union men at the Poorman and Tiger mines quit work and captured all the non-union men working in the union mine near Burke.

Save Your Eyes

"Persons having normal vision will be able to read this print at a distance of 14 inches from the eyes with ease and comfort; also will be able to read it with each eye separately. If unable to do so your eyes are defective and should have immediate attention. When the eyes become tired from reading or sewing, or if the letters look blurred and run together, it is a sure indication that glasses are needed. The lenses sold in the cheap goods are of unequal density and have imperfectly formed surfaces. Continued use of these poorer lenses will result in positive injury from the constant strain upon the muscles of accommodation to supply the defects in the glass."

Dr. Shipman will test your eyes free and fit you with perfect lenses in gold, silver, steel, zynolite or rubber frames.
