WAGES IN AMERICAN AND ENGLISH MILLS.

While all the democratic and free trade papers are howling against Mr. Carnegie and Mr. Frick for their reduction of 12 per cent, which may be unjust and should be resented, it would be well for them to see what these men are getting and compare it with what is paid in other countries.

The Iron Age of June 30, 1892, gives the following figures as the wage list of "a well equipped mill in Western Pennsylvania, working under the Amalgamated scale, which is the scale determining the rate of wages at Carnegie's works." We place English rates for like work in separate paragraphs:

THE APPORTIONMENT.

The several counties are entitled to representation as follows, being based upon the vote cast for Hon.

W. J. Connell for congress in 1890: One delegate for each 100 votes and major fraction thereof and one delegate-at-large from each county.

Counties, Delegates, Counties, Delegates, Cass..... 19 Ottoc..... 13 Johnson..... 15 Pawnee..... 16 Lancaster..... 15 Richardson..... 16 Nemaha..... 12 Total..... 128

Thus it seems that the lowest price paid for eight hours' work to any roller was $7.78, and the highest for labor of equal duration was $19.76.

We make bold to say that there is hardly one editorial writer on the regular staff of any one of the free trade papers whose editors-in-chief give orders for "slashing articles on Frick and Carnegie's starvation wages" who is paid at the rate of $9,213.44 for 468 "turns" at his work.

The English pay of a roller in iron mills is $2.50.

English pay $2.50 per day. American "starvation wages" from $7.78 to $19.76 for eight hours' work.

In which country does the modern Legree live—in protection America or in free trade England?

Let us now consider how "heaters" are paid in American and in English iron and steel mills. The wages in the Pennsylvania mills have been as follows for the trade year just ended:

Heater in 7-inch mill, 422 turns of 8 hours each..... $2,914.49

Heater in 10-inch mill, 468 turns of 8 hours each..... 4,624.22

Heater in guide mill, 514 turns..... 7,169.32

Heater in bar mills, 276 turns..... 2,146.66

Per turn, 7.78

Thus it seems that the lowest price paid for eight hours' work to any roller was $7.78, and the highest for labor of equal duration was $19.76.

MOSQUITOES THAT NEVER LIVED.

Some of the good people of Stratford, Conn., decided this year to drain about forty acres of marsh land and had the necessary ditches dug. Afterward some of the ditches were partially filled up and the marsh water stagnated therein. On examination the water was found to be a saturated solution of mosquito larva. The local scientists focused their powerful intellects and microscopes upon a specimen of the water and figured it out that the prospective mosquito population had been 20,000,000 to the acre.

As there were forty acres drained, the appalling fact is apparent that 800,000 promising members of the mosquito race, who might have done good and telling work upon the Connecticut country boarders this year, were thus cut off before their youth had a chance to flower or even to sprout, or, to come down from metaphor to fact, to crack the shell of the embryonic state. Among other things, this little story teaches us to keep away this summer from un-drained marshes.—New York Tribune.

NEVER STRIKES INDIANS.

In the course of his New Haven

(Conn.) lecture Rev. Thomas Dana, an educated Indian, made this singular statement: "The Indians never cook anything in the house. They always cook outside, giving as their only reason that if they cook inside the steam will collect in their clothing and draw the lighting. Whether this is true or not I do not know, but I know this—no Indian wigwam has been struck by lightning since the dawn of history, and no Indian has been killed with lightning for more than 100 years."
