

A needy woman
—the one who's overworked, nervous, and debilitated. What she needs is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It's made exactly to fit her case—an invigorating, restorative tonic, and a soothing and strengthening nerve, giving tone and vigor to the whole system. But it isn't a mere stimulant. It's a legitimate medicine, that an experienced physician has carefully prepared, for woman's ailments. All the functional derangements, chronic weaknesses, and painful disorders peculiar to the sex, are corrected and cured by it.

And because it's a certain remedy, it can be made a guaranteed one. If it fails to give satisfaction, in any case, you have your money back.

The best pill costs less than any other. Costs less, but does more. They're smaller, too, and easier to take. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the best pills. They regulate perfectly the liver, stomach, and bowels.

SOMEBODY having given it out that the Washington monument has deviated from the perpendicular and become one of the leaning towers of the world, the chief engineer at the capital acknowledges the charge. The monument now inclines a trifle to the southwest. But he allays our fears of its fall by stating that the inclination has existed from the beginning, and that the monument sometimes leans one way and sometimes another, according to the season of the year. Its apex moves around a small annual circle. The inclination is caused by the heating up of the stone on one side by the rays of the sun. A high wind also temporarily affects the direction of the inclination. So the monument is probably safe enough. Another interesting fact is that the foundation of the monument, instead of sinking, has slightly risen since it was completed. The rise is stated in tenths of an inch, but it is comforting to Americans to reflect that their highest column grows instead of dwindling in height.—Lincoln Journal.

It can do no harm to recall the fact that the only attempt ever made in this country to crush honest labor with gangs of convict workmen was by that well-known democratic leader and late chairman of the democratic national committee, Hon. Calvin S. Brice.

As a self-made man there are no flies on Roswell G. Horr.

HON. ROSWELL G. HERR'S speech last night at the opera house is a hard one for the free traders to answer.

HON. ROSWELL G. HERR may not have as silvery a tone as some democratic speakers, but he gave them some awful hard facts last night that they cannot answer.

It is given out that Monte Carlo netted its proprietors $5,000,000 last year. It is now in order for the waiters, faro bankers and roulette keepers to strike and eject the Carnegies from the shop.

The rank and file of the democratic party in Kansas are kicking against the tie-up of the leaders of the alliance and democratic parties and there is likely to be a split in the democratic party in that state.

The democratic cry of "retrenchment and reform" is disclosed to the people as a humbug. It was known to be a humbug when the democratic leaders took it up. They knew that the only place where retrenchment was possible was in the pension appropriation and they also knew that no reduction there was possible while there was a republican president and senate. The measure for reducing pensions has not been framed and will not be until all departments of the government. Then it will come along with free silver coinage and free trade.

"THAT, while providing revenue for the support of the general government by duties upon imports, sound policy requires such an adjustment of these imports as to encourage the development of the industrial interests of the whole country; and we commend that policy of national exchanges which secures to the workingman liberal wages, to agriculture remunerating prices, to mechanics and manufacturers an adequate reward for their skill, labor and enterprise, and to the nation commercial prosperity and independence."—From the republican platform, 1860, on which Abraham Lincoln ran for president.

TIN-PLATE IMPORTS.
The exports of tin plate from Great Britain to the United States for the month of June 1892 were much less than they were in June 1891. To be exact they were 23,550 tons for June 1892 and 62,539 for June 1891. Really the imports for June of this year were very little more than a third of what they were in June of last year. This is a British estimate, and our free trade friends cannot dispute its accuracy. Yet some of them persist in saying that the American tin plate manufacture is not great enough to affect the volume of British exports.

The amount of tin plates sent from Great Britain to the United States between the months of July 1891 and June 1892—inclusive of both months—was 203,941 tons, for the corresponding twelve months of 1890 and 1891 it was 442,306 tons. During the first year of protection to tin plate our imports of that article have diminished more than one half.

But the free traders say that the imports of tin-plate were unusually large during the fiscal year, that lay between June 1890, and June 1891 and that they were made so by the anxiety of dealers to lay up large stocks before the increased rate of duty went into operation.

They are entitled to the benefit of this objection, but we beg to inform them that there is a diminution of more than one-third of our imports of this material when the statisticians of 1892 are compared with those of 1889, in which there are no apprehension of a sudden increase of duty. The import of tin-plate for the year ending June 1889, were 331,673 tons, and for the year ending June 1892, 203,941 tons. It is quite evident that protection does protect in the matter of tin-plate.

By percentages the exports of tin-plate from Great Britain to America for the fiscal year just ended were 46 per cent of those of the year directly preceding it, 68 per cent of these for the year ending June 1890, and 61 per cent of those of the year ending June, 1889.

The American tin-plate industry is getting along very nicely, all reports to the contrary notwithstanding.

These words are very familiar to our reader, as not a day passes without the report of the sudden death of some prominent citizen. The explanation is "Heart Disease." Therefore beware if you have any of the following symptoms: Short breath, pain in side, smothering spells, swollen ankles, asthmatic breathing, weak and hungry spells, tenderness in shoulder or arm, fluttering of heart or irregular pulse. These symptoms mean heart disease. The most reliable remedy is Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, which has saved thousands of lives. Book of testimonials free at F. G. Individuality in Umbrellas.
There is an individuality about umbrellas, taking them all along the years, that is a most interesting study. The big, clumsy-green cotton umbrella which is the heirloom of the old fashioned family is unmistakable in its domesticity. The somber black umbrella of the parson is the very essence of respectability. The demure, unsophisticated umbrella that is always getting lost or hiding behind the doors never survives to old age. The jolly round umbrella that never loses its head in a flirtation with the wind is an esteemed member of the family. The combative umbrella with a cruel beak runs amuck with the populace, and not infrequently kills its man. There is lots of human nature in an umbrella, especially after it has been magnetized by its owner.—Detroit Free Press.
