

Ought to be smaller—the great, gripping, old-fashioned pill. There's too much unpleasantness for the money. Ought to be better, too. They're big enough, and make trouble enough, to do more good.

That's just what Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets do,—more good. Instead of weakening the system, they renovate it; instead of upsetting, they cleanse and regulate it—mildly, gently, and naturally. They're the original Little Liver Pills—the smallest but most effective, purely vegetable, perfectly harmless, and easiest to take. Only one little Pellet for a gentle laxative—three for a cathartic. Sick Headache, Bilious Headache, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the Liver, Stomach and Bowels are promptly relieved and permanently cured. They're the cheapest pills you can buy, for they're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is returned. You pay only for the good you get. It's a plan peculiar to Dr. Pierce's medicines.

CHEAPER and better process has not made steel rails cheaper in England than here. The only thing that has made the difference is the price paid for the labor.

In answer to the Journal's question about cheaper clothing in England than in America, Mr. Horr answered that question last Monday night from the platform.

The Journal asks this question: "If salt has gone down in price here, why didn't Mr. Horr explain that it has gone down much faster and lower in other lands than ours?" As Mr. Horr is gone we will answer the question. Because it has not.

The Plattsmouth Journal reported Mr. Horr's speech on one page without comment, and on another page tries to make fun of him and denies everything Mr. Horr said, without trying to prove the statements false, and then claims to have published a fair account. The Journal does not know the first principle of fairness.

When Stevenson, the democratic nominee for vice-president, arrived in New York City last Monday he took a suite of rooms in the Hoffman House and prepared himself to receive Tammany with open arms. He remained in the hotel all day and kept his rooms open until midnight, but not one of the magnates appeared to greet him.

The investigation of the Homestead strike answers all of Brother Sherman's questions. It shows that the wages paid the men, both skilled and unskilled labor, averaged $21.55 per week per man. Where is the judge or business man in this part of the country that makes more than that? We will bet a sack of peanuts that the editor of the Journal does not make that much, and we know that there is not a mill in the Old world that pays anywhere near that amount to its laborers.

The Journal, in commenting on Mr. Horr's speech, said that American-made goods were greatly reduced in price during the free trade period from 1840 to 1860, and claims that the cheapening process would have gone on just the same, regulated by the legitimate law of supply and demand. No, Brother Sherman, they would not have been cheaper, for the simple reason that a very few goods would have been made on this side of the ocean, and the Yankee inventor would never have got his work in, because there would have been no inducement for him to do so. What machinery there was would have been on the other side of the ocean while he was on this side. The inventive genius only invents when he is working or sees the machinery at work, and by his watching it he sees where he can improve it.

A HORRIBLE DISCLOSURE.
Is there ever justification in recalling men's evil acts and placing the wrongdoer in the pillory of public scorn?

Certainly, when the wretch manifests no regret or repentance for his crime, and by his subsequent conduct shows that he glories in what he has done. Grover Cleveland's running mate, Adlai E. Stevenson, has been denounced time and again as a relic of the organization known as the Knights of the Golden Circle, composed of the copperhead elements of the democratic party during the war. He has never attempted to deny the charge, nor has he by any subsequent act indicated that he felt regret or shame for having been thus associated.

Nor does this fact render Mr. Stevenson in the least degree distasteful to the democratic party or to Mr. Cleveland. Nor did Mr. Cleveland, himself, do anything during the war to establish that he was not heartily in sympathy with this same traitorous organization. In short, neither of these men did a single act before, during or since the war to entitle him to the consideration of patriotic men.

But the terrible charge hurled against Mr. Stevenson by Mr. J. M. Walker of Ohio, Neb., discloses the tail of the democratic ticket to be as loathsome a reptile as ever crept. And the facts in the case are too circumstantially set forth to permit the possibility of a doubt that the statement is true.

Mr. Walker is adjutant of Hunter Post, No. 122, G. A. R., Ohio. The chaplain of that post is Philip Jenkins, late a lieutenant of Company C, Seventy-seventh Illinois Volunteer Infantry.

On the 10th of January, 1863, at the battle of Arkansas Post, otherwise Fort Hindman, Lieutenant Jenkins greatly distinguished himself and showed his devotion to his country by seizing the regimental colors from the hands of the color bearer, John S. Hornfaker, who fell severely wounded while the regiment was charging the fort, and bearing them through the terrific fire during the remainder of the engagement, and until the regiment entered the enemy's works. Subsequently Lieutenant Jenkins became seriously ill, and in the month of April his colonel sent him home as the only expedient to save his life. Too ill to go alone, his colored cook accompanied him. Now, this same Lieutenant Philip Jenkins is the man that this Adlai Stevenson arrested and prosecuted in Illinois during the war for bringing this colored man into that state about April, 1863. He secured his conviction and had him sentenced to jail. But the boys said, "Don't you put him in that jail, or there will not be a brick left in it."

And this same Adlai Stevenson is the man that the democrats have the brazen effrontery to ask old soldiers to vote for, for vice president, and no one can vote for the presidential electors on the democratic ticket without voting for him, either.

Now, who is the Union veteran that in view of this record can be so base as to do it?—Kearney Hub.
