According to the census of 1890, Chicago takes rank, by virtue of her population of 1,098,576 people, as the eighth largest city on the globe. Most of us desire, at one time or another, to visit a city in which so many persons find homes, and, when we do, we can find no better line than the "Burlington Route." Three fast and comfortable trains daily. For further information address the agent of the company at this place, or write to J. Francis, General Passenger and Ticket Agent, Omaha, Nebraska.

Mr. Van Pelt, editor of the Craig, Mo., Meteor, went to a drug store at Hildale, Iowa, and asked the physician in attendance to give him a dose of something for cholera morbus and looseness of the bowels. He says: "I felt so much better the next morning that I concluded to call on the physician and get him to fix me up a supply of the medicine. I was surprised when he handed me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. He said he prescribed it regularly in his practice and found it the best he could get or prepare. I can testify to its efficiency in my case at all events." For sale by F. G. Fricke & Co.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. M. A. Dixon was an Omaha visitor to-day.

Miss Rose Reilly left for Lincoln this morning.

Will Hyers has returned home from the Black Hills.

Register of Deeds C. C. Parmele is in Nehawka to-day on business.

W. J. Streight returned last night from a pleasure trip through Wyoming.

Mr. M. Parr and mother, of Omaha, are the guests of Mrs. Kate Oliver to-day.

Miss Jennie King and Miss Grace McPherson who have been visiting with their uncle, J. E. Leesley, returned to Omaha this morning.

REPUBLICAN PRIMARIES SATURDAY.

Walking For a Wager.

John Howard and wife, the pedestrians, passed through Kearney yesterday afternoon on their way east. They are walking from Seattle to Chicago on a wager of $5,000. Leaving Seattle March 10, they must reach Chicago September 15. They carry bedding and cooking utensils in a light wheelbarrow surmounted by an American flag. Mrs. Howard is dressed in men's attire. They claim that they will reach their eastern terminus August 28, and have averaged twenty miles per day.

The Injunction Dissolved.

Judge Chapman recently granted a temporary injunction, restraining the city and county from collecting taxes on the storehouse building owned by the B. & M. Yesterday the case was argued by the attorneys and this morning Judge Chapman read a lengthy decision based upon the statutes, refusing to grant a permanent injunction.

Arthur Stotler, son of William Stotler, residing three miles east of Union, died at 2:45 o'clock this morning from the effects of a sunstroke. The funeral occurred this afternoon, Rev. Nichols performing the last sad rites. The deceased was a single man, aged 22 years and 17 days, and in the employ of Ezra Murphy.

Three machinists have been transferred from Havelock to the shops here. Tom Julian came in and went to work this morning. Fred Howland and Meek Davis will go to work here Monday. There is lots of work in the machine shop here and another engine came in yesterday to be rebuilt.

The South Omaha correspondent to the World-Herald this morning says: "Dr. Siggins, who has been ill for some time, became much worse early in the week and yesterday was sent to Little Rock, Arkansas. His family will follow him in a few days and spend the summer in the south."

N. E. C. Meeting, Saratoga, N. Y.

The provision requiring passengers to deposit tickets with the joint agent at terminal lines at Saratoga has been cancelled. Tickets will be honored for return from Saratoga or from any intermediate point, any time up to Sep. 15. It is not necessary to go to Saratoga to have the tickets executed for return.

J. FRANCIS, Gen. Pas. Agt.

ORGANIZATION.

THE PROBLEM THAT HAS AGITATED WOMEN FOR MANY YEARS.

What Organization Has Done for Females—One Writer Says That It Is a Mistake for Women to Regard Men as Enemies—Men Have Helped Them.

The problem of organization is one which has agitated women who work ever since the sex has been regarded as a factor in industrial competition, and it is apparent, from the almost daily discussions of the subject, that it is no nearer solution than it was at its inception. The relative sides of the controversy, whether organization assists in the amelioration of the sex from the evil effects of prejudice, have many champions who argue the question of principle with much wisdom and enthusiasm. To a casual observer, or even one who is interested in the outcome of the agitation without taking part in it, the affirmative side of the proposition would seem to be the most logical and popular, and there are many evidences to substantiate this view.

It is scarcely ten years since organization was tried by industrial women, and an observer epitomizes the result in these words: "Organization has in the first place compelled the recognition of female workers as competitors by the males, who previously usurped the fields into which women have since ventured and succeeded; organization has demonstrated the capabilities of woman more than individual merit could have ever done; it has rendered women independent of the influences of men in the adjustment of labor and social difficulties and in the matter of compensation."

Taking this view of the matter, which, it may be explained, is advanced by a Wisconsin lady who is much interested in the subject, it would seem that organization has not only done much to promote the advancement of women, but has in addition opened up a broad field for discussion as to the claims of women for recognition in other than an industrial sense. Our correspondent argues that "a woman who, in the face of the strong opposition of men engaged in similar industrial pursuits, succeeds in elevating herself by her own efforts to an equal plane with them, is certainly entitled to consideration as a actor in both the social and official sphere of life."

The argument is so logical and patent to the student of the social and industrial status of women that it needs no comment. The assumption, however, that men oppose the progress of women and in any way seek to retard their advancement and restrict their capacity as competitors is ungenerous and, in a large measure, will do much to inspire prejudice in men against women. The facts all tend the other way.

Men are not only not opposed to women as fellow workers, but would, if encouraged, do more to assist women in their struggle for supremacy than any other influence could possibly do. The developments of the agitation in the past few years have shown this. Working women have appealed to the national congress and to the legislative bodies of several states for recognition and have obtained it, purely through the assistance of men who realized the justice of the demands. Without the assistance of these men the recognition could never have been secured.

Further than this, women have found, when seeking to obtain the questionable benefits of organization achieved by men, that they had only to be sincere to secure the same. If men are once satisfied that female workers are sincere in their efforts to secure independence, and are willing to render all social propositions subservient to the purpose, women will have no cause for accrediting antipathy to men, but on the other hand will precipitate the millennium of their ambitions much sooner than by working alone.

The natural conclusion to be deduced from these conditions is, that women shall combine their own (as yet disorganized and incomplete) interests with those of men. Organization under such circumstances will obtain for a woman what she wants. Men are to be made friends, not enemies. To obtain recognition from their admirably organized systems of industrial pursuits is as much of a triumph for working women as they will ever secure. This can be done by working with them, not against them.—A Club Woman in Jenness Miller Illustrated.

The Colored Lights in Roman Candles.

In making Roman candles a cylindrical case is taken and packed with a lot of stars. At the bottom of the case they put some of the composition they put in rockets, and on top of each star is some more of it. By mixing certain chemicals green and red lights are produced. Green lights like those used in death scenes on the stage at the theater are made by mixing a great quantity of nitrate of barytes with small quantities of sulphur, chlorate of potash, charcoal pulverized and arsenic.—New York Evening Sun.

What a "Doublet" Is.

The doublet is the imitation of a jewel, the lower part of which, the cullet, is an appropriately colored paste, while the upper part, the table, is an inferior genuine gem, both being fastened upon the cullet with a water clear cement. These doublets can readily be distinguished by the expert.—Jewelers' Circular.

THE AGE OF PAPER.

The Time Is Coming When Paper Will Be the Only Useful Thing.

The world has seen its iron age and its brazen age, but this is the age of paper. We are making so many things of paper that it will soon be true that without paper there is nothing made. We live in paper houses, wear paper clothing, and sit on paper cushions in paper cars rolling on paper wheels. If we lived in Bergen, Norway, we could go on Sundays to a paper church.

We do a paper business over paper counters, buying paper goods, paying for them with paper money, and deal in paper stocks on paper margins. We row races in paper boats for paper prizes. We go to paper theaters where paper actors play to paper audiences.

As the age develops the coming man will become more deeply enamored in the paper net. He will awake in the morning and creep from under the paper clothing of his paper bed and put on his paper dressing gown and his paper slippers. He will walk over paper carpets, down paper stairs, and seating himself in a paper chair will read the paper news in the morning paper. A paper bell will call him to his breakfast, cooked in a paper oven, served on paper dishes, laid on a paper cloth on a paper table. He will wipe his lips with a paper napkin, and having put on his paper shoes, paper hat and paper coat, and then taking his paper stick (he has the choice of two descriptions already), he will walk on a paper pavement or ride in a paper carriage to his paper office. He will organize paper enterprises and make paper profits.

He will sail the ocean on paper steamships and navigate the air in paper balloons. He will smoke a paper cigar or paper tobacco in a paper pipe, lighted with a paper match. He will write with a paper pencil, whittle paper sticks with a paper knife, go fishing with a paper fishing rod, a paper line and a paper hook, and put his catch in a paper basket. He will go shooting with a paper gun, loaded with paper cartridges, and will defend his country in paper forts with paper cannon and paper bombs. Having lived his paper life and achieved a paper fame and paper wealth, he will retire to paper leisure and die in paper peace. There will be a paper funeral, at which the mourners, dressed in paper crape, will wipe their eyes with paper handkerchiefs, and the preacher will preach in a paper pulpit. He will lie in a paper coffin; he has a chance of doing so already if he is a paper—we mean pauper. He will be wrapped in a paper shroud, his name will be engraved on a paper plate, and a paper hearse, adorned with paper plumes, will carry him to a paper lined grave, over which will be raised a paper monument.—Paper Recorder.

A Battle with a Bee.

An observer writes us that he is satisfied that there is just as much rivalry between humming birds and bees in their quest for honey as there is between members of the human race in their struggle for the good things of life, and describes a recent quarrel that he saw in a Portland garden, where a humming bird with an angry dash expressed its disapproval of the presence of a big bumblebee in the same tree. The usually pugnacious bee incontinently fed, but he did not leave the tree. He dashed back and forth among the branches and white blossoms, the humming bird in close pursuit.

Where will you find another pair that could dodge and dart equal to these? They were like flashes of light, yet the pursuer followed the track of the pursued, turning when the bee turned. In short, the bird and the bee controlled the movements of their bodies more quickly and more accurately than he could control the movements of his eyes. The chase was all over in half the time that it has taken to tell it, but the excitement of a pack of hounds after a fox was no greater. The bee escaped, the bird giving up the whole chase and alighting on a twig.—Portland Transcript.

The Stomach of a Fish.

Mr. Hyman Herman, who has been fishing in Keg creek, near Sandersonville, Ga., during the past week, has returned. He had most remarkable luck in the piscatorial sport, and brought to some of his friends large assortments of fish. He gave one string to Mr. Mack Duggan, and while the cook was cleaning a large channel catfish she was dumfounded by discovering two brass buttons in the fish's stomach. On close inspection the following inscription could be discerned on one of the buttons: "Gen. Wheeler, 1864." The other button contained these words, "Sherman bound for the sea."

They were scratched on the under side of the button by some sharp pointed instrument.

It is an historical fact that during Sherman's raid through Georgia he camped one night on the banks of Keg creek, on the same ground which General Wheeler had occupied the night before, and soon after a freshet washed the buttons in the creek. Mr. Duggan has the buttons and intends sending them to the World's fair. He has been offered twelve dollars for them, but refused the offer.—Atlanta Constitution.

Lake Erie, it is said, produces more fish to the square mile than any body of water in the world. This is because of the result of the good work done by the fish commissioners.

Allow me to add my tribute to the efficacy of Ely's Cream Balm. I was suffering from a severe attack of influenza and catarrh and was induced to try your remedy. The result was marvelous. I could hardly articulate, and in less than twenty-four hours the catarrhal symptoms and my hoarseness disappeared and I was able to sing a heavy role in Grand Opera with voice unimpaired. I strongly recommend it to all singers.—Wm. H. Hamilton, leading basso of the C. D. Hess Grand Opera Co.
