According to the census of 1890, Chicago takes rank, by virtue of her population of 1,098,576 people, as the eighth largest city on the globe. Most of us desire, at one time or another, to visit a city in which so many persons find homes, and, when we do, we can find no better line than the "Burlington Route." Three fast and comfortable trains daily. For further information address the agent of the company at this place, or write to J. Francis, General Passenger and Ticket Agent, Omaha, Nebraska.

Mr. Van Pelt, editor of the Craig, Mo., Meteor, went to a drug store at Hillsdale, Iowa, and asked the physician in attendance to give him a dose of something for cholera morbus and looseness of the bowels. He says: "I felt so much better the next morning that I concluded to call on the physician and get him to fix me up a supply of the medicine. I was surprised when he handed me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. He said he prescribed it regularly in his practice and found it the best he could get or prepare. I can testify to its efficiency in my case at all events." For sale by F. G. Fricke & Co.

Murray.
Harvest has begun and the farmers are busy in the field.

Murray and Rock Bluffs played a good game of ball Monday.

The farmers are finishing plowing corn and are all glad of it.

Mrs. Frank White is sick with heart disease, but is getting better.

Ben Beckman is shelling the Clark corn and hauling it to Mynard.

We are in need of a good rain, which we hope we will get before it is too late.

W. M. Wheeler is shelling the Dan Wheeler corn and hauling it to Plattsmouth.

The Murray band boys have ordered band caps. The band is doing first-rate.

Fruit is going to be scarce. The apples are all falling off the trees, and those left are small.

The whooping cough is bad around here, Mrs. A. Ramsel's children being confined to their beds.

Mynard.
William Nye has been busy the past week receiving grain.

The carpenters are busy building Mr. Bach's store, which will soon be completed.

The operator had a well dug at the stock yards and has a pump in it, all in good running order.

George Smith, in the employ of William Marks, sold his pony and now wants to sell his saddle.

Mr. S. Olin Cole and family, in company with Mrs. Cook, went to Beatrice last Friday to visit friends. They will remain over Sunday.

Elmer Cole, one of the B. & M. firemen, was out Sunday evening, the 24th, to visit his brother, Olin, in company with Miss Maggie Spangler.

W. N. Halsey, the principal of the High school at Plattsmouth, was out seeing the different school boards and gave Mynard a call. He was showing school charts.

Alvo.
Weather hot and dry. People feeling very much discouraged with the coming prospects.

Mr. A. L. Munger, assistant cashier of the State bank of Alvo, will soon have his fine residence ready for occupancy.

H. W. Maitland has rented the Rockwood store building for the purpose of putting in a confectionary store and ice cream parlor.

Alvo will have a nice two-story schoolhouse erected in the near future. The bids for building it are being examined now. It will be built east of the M. E. church.

W. M. A. Clay, station agent, and family have taken an extended trip to Indiana and Ohio to visit with friends and relatives. Mr. Clay has been a faithful servant since the town first started.

Prouty mills have closed for a week or two during the hot weather, but will take any and all wheat in exchange for flour. Mr. Winsor, the engineer, has gone home to Lincoln to rest during the vacation.

Greenwood Precinct alliance had a picnic here last week, with a large attendance of salvationists. A good time was reported. Another meeting will be held soon. Alvo is the centre of gravity for independent men.

The republican caucus of Greenwood precinct was held in Alvo last Saturday evening. Dr. Sturdivant, George Hanson and J. S. Foster were chosen delegates to the county convention at Weeping Water.

A Great Surprise
Is in store for all who use Kemp's Balsam for the throat and lungs the great guaranteed remedy. MRS. J. A. G. BUELL,
Central City, Neb., apc. E. R. B.

Judge Ramsey to-day granted a permit to wed to Charles E. Ward and Miss Carrie Jenks. Both parties live near Ashland.

There is something like $7 of the Hubbel fine yet unpaid. When will Judge Archer collect it?

Why They Beg Newspapers.

Begging newspapers seems to be one of the occupations of Gotham's small boy, and according to one of theseurchins a good revenue is derived from the business. The practice is known as "Canada business." A gang of eight or ten boys besiege the entrance to the bridge and elevated road every morning and keep an argus eye on all persons carrying newspapers. They stretch out their arms asking for the newspapers and often pull them out of the hands of passers by.

The "newsies" are very persistent, and occasionally get into little snarls with dyspeptic persons who get down town in bad humor. The temper of these people might be intensified did they know that, according to a confession of one of the boys, a newsdealer of a speculative turn of mind originally put the boys up to the practice they follow. If the newspapers are too much soiled to sell, the boys turn them over to the speculator, who holds them in reserve, paying the boys a pittance and then realizing full value by handing them over to the respective newspapers as "return" and getting copies of the current date for them.

The youngsters have learned his method though, and most of them do their own "returning" as well as "begging" now. The practice is bad every way, as it is fast converting the little hustlers into indolent beggars.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

"All's Well That Ends Well."

The Scotch, with unconscious absurdity, sometimes talk of "tempting Providence." In writing "All's Well That Ends Well," Shakespeare was "tempting" the higher criticism. Ever since the days of Zenodotus in Alexandria the higher criticism has revealed in "atheizing," or marking as spurious, this part of an author's work because it is "unworthy of him," that part because it is "not in his style," a third portion because it is a repetition of something he has said elsewhere, and so on, till in Homer there are few lines to which some German or some Alexandrian Greek has not urged objections. To similar exercises of idle ingenuity has "All's Well That Ends Well" been exposed.

When Lucian met Homer in the Fortunate islands, he asked the poet which of the rejected passages were really his own. "All and every one of them," answered the shade; and Shakespeare's ghost might have made as inclusive a response to critical inquiries. Yet "All's Well" is certainly a play full of difficult tests and enigmas. It was first printed in the folio of 1623, and very badly printed it was. None of the drama contains so many passages that appear to be corrupt; none is so rich in the unintelligible; none so open to conjectural emendation.—Andrew Lang in Harper's

Crafty Master Fox.

A fox was one day seen coming out of a pile of stones near the water side.

He hid in the heather for awhile and then poked out something on the water, which proved to be a bunch of moss. The wind took it into the middle of the lake and blew it past some ducks sitting on the surface.

Having watched his venture for perhaps ten minutes with apparent satisfaction, and observed that it neared the ducks without arousing their suspicions, our friend began to collect another and larger bunch of moss, which he allowed to float in the same direction, but this time he swam behind it, taking care to show only his eyes and nose above water.

Just as it was passing the group of ducks he made a sudden dive, pulled down a bird and swam back to shore under water. Arrived there he carried the duck to the pile of stones, where his wife and daughter were no doubt waiting to enjoy the fruits of his labors.—"Forty-five Years of Sport."

Immunity to the Fireflies.

Birds do not eat fireflies, and even bats, which seem to eat everything else that they can chew or swallow, never touch a lightning bug. There must be something distasteful in this insect to the feathered world, and thus the species is preserved, for if it were not so lightning bugs would soon become extinct, as the torch they carry would only serve the purpose of attracting their enemies.

It may be that the uncanny appearance of the insect, giving forth as it does a brilliant flash of light every moment or two, deters birds and bats from attacking it, but if a lightning bug were a toothsome morsel to a bird's bill, any number of the feathered world would soon overcome their repugnance to the little living torch and go hunting for lightning bugs.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Wild Horses in Russia.

In the steppes of Russia, where wolves abound and the horses lead a wild life and have to shift for themselves, it is said that a young colt will sometimes be made so furious by the persecutions of his enemies that he will rush wildly among a drove of wolves and bite and strike until he has slaughtered a large number of them. These horses are exceptionally fierce, rendered so, it is supposed, by the extreme variations in the climate. At one time of the year they suffer from the intense heat of a tropical sun and at another they live among raging snowstorms and extreme cold.—Washington Star.

The Polite Swimmer.

Directly the bathing season comes on a prominent feature of it appears in the person of the polite and gentlemanly swimmer who is of no earthly consequence on land, yet whose natorial accomplishments render him, in his own eyes at least, absolutely bewitching in the water.

He is so polite, is this essentially swimmer production. His hand is always outstretched to guide into the briny the timid, shrinking bather of the feminine persuasion. So good is his heart he needs no introduction. He is above the mere petty trifles of mundane propriety, and in a spirit of genuine philanthropy comes to the rescue of the fair in a promiscuous manner delightful to behold. His attentions are extremely numerous, yet he does discriminate in a measure, as his gentle offices are usually performed for the prettier and younger novices at the shrine of Neptune.

Simply in a spirit of kindness and with a desire to overcome their excessive timidity he guides them far out where the water is deep and the waves are high, and then smiles rapturously when they cling to him in abject terror. He does not realize that they would embrace a rope or spar with the same fervor, but considers it a compliment to his own personality, which, in all probability, has made no impression whatever on the terrified female.

When not playing knight to beauty in distress he splashes, floats and swims for the edification of the people assembled on the beach and seems to consider himself the star attraction of the resort. He is indigenous to this season and this land. No other clime could produce so rare and perfect a specimen of officious masculine vanity as does our own delightful one.—Philadelphia Times.

Luc's Genealogy.

The late Professor Elias Loomis became interested in the subject of genealogy in early life, and for nearly forty years before his first publication he collected from time to time materials for a list of the descendants of his ancestor, Joseph Loomis, who came from Braintree, England, and settled in Windsor, Conn., in 1639. In 1870 he published a list containing 4,340 descendants of Joseph Loomis bearing the Loomis name. After five years of research he published the second edition of the "Loomis Genealogy," in which are given 8,686 names which bore the Loomis name, descendants of Joseph Loomis in the male branches.

Five years later, in 1880, he printed, in two additional volumes, a provisional list of 19,000 descendants of Joseph Loomis in the female branches. At the time of his death he left in manuscript many corrections and additions that will be of use to the future Loomis genealogist.—Newton's Memoria of Elias Loomis.

He Never Drinks Water.

Jack Irvin, of the Glover's Mill country, bears the distinction of being probably the only living man in the United States who has not swallowed a drop of water for thirty-six years. Mr. Irvin is now in his eighties, and for more than an average lifetime has rigorously abstained from the use of the liquor that fills but does not inebriate. Neither does he drink intoxicating liquors. At his meals Mr. Irvin drinks coffee or tea or milk, as the notion takes him. Between meals when Mr. Irvin feels his thirst growing he gets out his pipe and smokes it. While Mr. Irvin is in pretty fair health, his neighbors say that his looks would indicate that he is pretty well dried up.—Glasgow Times.

Canada's Biggest Man.

Leonard Whitton, of Brighton, brother of the cheese inspector, James Whitton, of Belleville, has continued to gain in flesh, and is now classed as the biggest man in Canada. He weighs 469 pounds. His measurement is as follows: Around the shoulders, 5 feet 6 inches; chest, 5 feet 2 inches; hips, 6 feet 2 inches; neck, 1 foot 11 inches; arm at shoulder, 1 foot 2 inches; arm below elbow, 1 foot 5 inches; thigh, 3 feet 9 inches; calf, 2 feet. His head measurement around the temples is 23 inches. Ten years ago he did not weigh more than 150 pounds. He is under forty years of age.—Brighton Ensign.

Few Accidents on English Railways.

The Englishman who, following Charles Francis Adams, declared that the safest place in which to spend a hour or two in an express train on one of the main railways, has had his idea confirmed by the fact that last year only five passengers were killed on all the railways of the United Kingdom, whereas in the streets of the metropolis alone 147 deaths and 5,784 personal injuries resulted from accidental circumstances connected with the vehicular traffic.—Boston Transcript.

Too Hot to Think.

A Brooklyn housewife took her cook to task the other day for carelessness and forgetfulness. "Why is it, Maggie," said she, "that you keep on making the same mistakes over and over again? Why do you not try and remember what I tell you?" "Sure, mum," was the frank reply, "I can't be after aggravatin me moind this hot weather."—New York Times.

A Columbus Relic.

It is claimed that the anchor lost by one of Columbus' ships on the night of Aug. 2, 1498, off the island of Trinidad, has been recently unearthed on that island.—Boston Globe.

Allow me to add my tribute to the efficacy of Ely's Cream Balm. I was suffering from a severe attack of influenza and catarrh and was induced to try your remedy. The result was marvelous. I could hardly articulate, and in less than twenty-four hours the catarrhal symptoms and my hoarseness disappeared and I was able to sing a heavy role in Grand Opera with voice unimpaired. I strongly recommend it to all singers.—Wm. H. Hamilton, leading basso of the C. D. Hess Grand Opera Co.
