

PLATTSMOUTH HERALD.

VOL. XXIX. NO. 11.

PLATTSMOUTH, CASS COUNTY, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY OCTOBER 27, 1892.

$1.50 A YEAR.

SEE J. I. UNRUH FOR

FIRST-CLASS FURNITURE.

HE HANDLES THE

WHITNEY - BABY - CARRIAGES,
AND CAN GIVE GOOD BARGAINS.

PARLOR SETS, DINING ROOM SETS,

BED ROOM SETS, AND EVERYTHING KEPT IN A METROPOLITAN ESTABLISHMENT.

J. I. UNRUH,

MAIN STREET, PLATTSMOUTH.

THE : GREAT : GOOD : LUCK
OF HENDEE

THE HARDWARE MAN OF PLATTSMOUTH.

HARDWARE

AT LESS THAN

25 Cents on the Dollar.

J. W. HENDEE, the Platts-mouth Hardware man has purchased the entire stock of the Omaha Hardware Co., of Omaha, and at such prices that it can and will be re-sold in Platts-mouth at retail—direct to the consumer at from TEN TO 25 CENTS ON THE DOLLAR.

All the common and unsaleable stock was sold as scrap iron and Hendee bought all good stock.

It Will be Shipped to Platts-mouth at Once.

F. G. FRICKE & CO.,

KEEP CONSTANTLY ON HAND

A COMPLETE STOCK OF

Drugs, : Medicines, : Paints,

AND OILS. DRUGGISTS' SUNDRIES AND PURE LIQUORS.

PRESCRIPTIONS CAREFULLY FILLED AT ALL HOURS.

MILLINERY AT

Tucker Sisters

In all the Latest Styles and Shapes--
From a Hat Frame to a Silk Beaver Hat.

We also have a FIRST-CLASS TRIMMER who is posted on all of the LATEST STYLES and will do you GOOD TRIMMING.

TUCKER SISTERS, : Sherwood Bldg., Platts-mouth.

COPY FOR ADVERTISEMENTS FOR THE

WEEKLY HERALD

MUST BE IN BY TUESDAY EVENING.

GO TO ISAAC PEARLMAN'S

GREAT MODERN

HOUSE-FURNISHING : EMPORIUM.

Where you can get your house furnished from kitchen to parlor and at easy terms. I handle the world renowned Haywood Baby Carriages, also the latest Improved "Reliable Process" Gasoline Stoves.

CALL AND BE CONVINCED. NO TROUBLE TO SHOW GOODS

I. PEARLMAN,

OPPOSITE COURT HOUSE PLATTSMOUTH, NEB.

MRS. HARRISON IS DEAD.

She Passed Quietly Away at 1:40 This Morning.

ONE TIRELESS WATCHER.

The President Watched by Her Bedside Until the Messenger Came—Her Last Moments Passed in Quiet Slumber.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 24.—All through the long, weary night the silent watchers at the white house sat waiting for the end, fearing yet believing that death would come with the dawn. All night long the president walked the corridors, sat in the sick room or stretched himself out for a brief rest in his room.

With the coming of the early morning hours the watchers by the bedside waited almost breathlessly for the changing tide but the crisis did not come. The patient lay half sleeping, half waking, never actively conscious. When the hour of greatest danger had passed the president lay down for a brief rest. He was in the sickroom again when the doctor arrived, a few minutes after 7 o'clock. Mrs. Harrison was awake then. She recognized the doctor as he bent over the bed, and whispered a faint greeting to him. The doctor saw that she was weaker, but there were no indications of collapse. The president, however, would not leave the sick room, even to get his breakfast. After the simple morning service had been held in his room, he had some food sent up to him and ate a little of it, and then returned to the sick room.

It was only a half an hour later that there came a sudden change in the patient's condition. Her strength seemed to fail and Mrs. McKee and Mrs. Dimmick, who stood by the bedside, feared that the end was approaching. The doctor, however, by the use of stimulants was able to bring the fleeting vitality back again to the feeble form, and once more the eyes opened and looked upon the world, but the lips had moved for the last time. Even had the will been active the muscles of the face could not have responded. For the remainder of the day the sick woman was lying motionless and speechless on her bed, the flame of life rising and falling, flickering feebly, ready at almost any moment to go out forever. The muscleless throat, too, refused to do their duty, and so the last act of the tragedy begun. There was no pain, no suffering, physical or mental. The faculties were not all benumbed. The eyes could look and know a little, but the wonderful energy which has fought off the end so long had all wasted away.

There were intervals of stupor and intervals of wakeful semi-consciousness all through the day. The doctor had stayed until 9 o'clock, then he had gone away to his other patients. He returned about noon and again at 1 o'clock. He said at his third visit that Mrs. Harrison might live for four or five hours. He came again at 3 o'clock and said that she might live three or four hours longer. The president saw but one visitor today, in fact, only one person who was not a member of the household. The exception was Dr. T. S. Hamlin, the pastor of the church of the Covenant, of which the president and Mrs. Harrison have been members. He came to offer a few words of comfort to the president, and Mrs. McKee saw him for a few minutes in the upper hall way, with this exception the president saw no one—not even Mr. Halford. No business was brought to his attention and there was no attempt to intrude upon him. The White house was closed to all visitors as it is on Sunday. A card on the door announced the fact.

At 9:30 o'clock Dr. Gardner said "Mrs. Harrison may live until midnight and she may die in half an hour. She is very low. She is only just breathing. With the cessation of that breathing her life will pass quietly away. There will be no struggle. She is too weak for that." The family has kept their vigil in the sick room since half past 4 this afternoon excepting that any moment the end might come.

A few moments before 10 o'clock Lieutenant Parker came from the sick room. He said that he thought Mrs. Harrison might live for an hour or two. When he left the room Mrs. Harrison was sleeping. At midnight Mrs. Harrison was sinking slowly, with the chances in favor of death coming to her within a few hours. She was sleeping. The president remains at her bedside and the members of the family are still in the sick room. Only Mr. Halford, Mr. Montgomery and four of the newspaper correspondents were left in the brilliantly lighted vestibule. The doorkeeper guards the entrance to the mansion and answers the questions of those who come at long intervals to ask how Mrs. Harrison is.

Nothing has been said in the family about the funeral arrangements. Probably no thought has been given to them. But it seems likely a simple service will be held in the church of the Covenant here on Wednesday morning and the funeral party will go west Wednesday afternoon. The final services may be held in Indianapolis Thursday afternoon. The Pennsylvania road has tendered a special train if it should be needed.

At 12:45 Dr. Gardner, on coming from the sick room, said he did not believe Mrs. Harrison could live half an hour longer.

At 1:40 a. m. Mrs. Harrison passed peacefully away.

A SONG OF FRIENDSHIP.

One friend here I who love have none—
One friend of loyal heart—
A girl whose faith, compels my soul to act its noblest part,
Who loves unspooled by tide, praise, unweary
By faithful care,
And who is sweet as she is true, and good as she is fair.

Oh, love's a flower that climbeth high and
aims to reach a star,
But friendship's plant creeps close and clings
with scent that's sweeter far!

She sings to me, and I grow glad; she talks,
and I grow wise;
Her ways are frank and sisterly; there's sunshine
in her eyes;
Her loving heart holds balm for every ill that falls on man.

And earth is fairer, heaven's more near, because
she is my friend!

Oh, love's a song that rings and swells with
passion's rapture strong,
But friendship is a lullaby that soothes a whole
life long!

A FLOOD OF SYMPATHY.

Telegrams From all Over the World Have Been Received.

WILL AVOID ALL SHOW.

The Funeral Arrangements—Simple Services at the White House and at Indianapolis—Last Sacred Rites.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 26.—The guard around the executive mansion to keep out intruders was continued today. It was found impracticable to hold the funeral services Wednesday, so it was decided to postpone them till Thursday morning. They will be in no sense public, admission to them being limited to those invited. Only relatives, members of the cabinet and their families, and a very few intimate friends will be in attendance. As far as the official position of the president will permit, the services will be the same as in the case of a member of a private family. They will be held in the east room, conducted according to Presbyterian form by Rev. T. S. Hamlin, pastor of the church which the president attends. The body will not lie in state. After the services the body will be accompanied to Indianapolis, where services of a more public character will be held in the First Presbyterian church, and the body will be interred in Crown Hill cemetery.

All night long and today telegrams of condolence poured in at the white house. If any, only a few will be given the public, including those from persons of unusual prominence, or from other governments. The president is averse to parades of this sort.

The remains were embalmed this morning. A plain black crape-knot on the door is the only outward symbol of mourning.

Secretary Rusk will reach here tonight and Secretary Elkins will also arrive in time for the funeral, so that all the members of the cabinet will be present at the ceremonies. They will act as honorary pall-bearers at the services in this city. Vice President Morton, who telegraphed during the day asking the time when the funeral would take place and Chief Justice Fuller may also be asked to serve as pall-bearers.

The body bearers will be employees of the white house. The pall bearers who will officiate at Indianapolis have been selected. They are: Dr. H. R. Allen, John B. Elam, Hugh Hanla, E. B. Martindale, General Lew Wallace of Crawfordsville, Hon. William E. Niblack of Vincennes, John R. Elder and Theodore P. Haughey.

All the members of the president's family, with the exception of his three grand children, will accompany the remains of Mrs. Harrison to Indianapolis. This, of course, includes Dr. Scott, the venerable father of the deceased. It was at first felt that his advanced age would prevent his making the trip, but when the matter was broached to him, he announced emphatically that he proposed to go and would not listen to a proposition to the contrary. Mr. J. R. McKee, the president's son-in-law, has cancelled an important business engagement in Baltimore and will also accompany the body, as will the members of the cabinet and possible the ladies of their families. It is also likely that Vice President Morton and family, Chief Justice Fuller and a few others will be especially invited to accompany the party.

Mrs. Miller, wife of the attorney general, and Mrs. Rusk and other ladies of the families of the members of the cabinet, called this morning and spent some time with the family. A few others intimate friends were also received. Mrs. Parker met most of the callers who went up stairs.

GRAND ISLAND, Oct. 25.—A bell boy named E. B. Owens, who has been employed at the Palmer house, was arrested today for stealing from the guests and samples from the travelling men. In his trunk were found several pairs of pants one overcoat, silk umbrella, sample hats and caps, and other things too numerous to mention, taken from the sample room. About $80 worth of dentists' gold leaf and scores of letters that had never been mailed were found. One letter contained a draft for $50 and another said "Enlished in the present century.

A SONG OF FRIENDSHIP.

One friend here I who love have none—
One friend of loyal heart—
A girl whose faith, compels my soul to act its noblest part,
Who loves unspooled by tide, praise, unweary
By faithful care,
And who is sweet as she is true, and good as she is fair.

Oh, love's a flower that climbeth high and
aims to reach a star,
But friendship's plant creeps close and clings
with scent that's sweeter far!

She sings to me, and I grow glad; she talks,
and I grow wise;
Her ways are frank and sisterly; there's sunshine
in her eyes;
Her loving heart holds balm for every ill that
falls on man.

And earth is fairer, heaven's more near, because
she is my friend!

Oh, love's a song that rings and swells with
passion's rapture strong,
But friendship is a lullaby that soothes a whole
life long!

There has been twenty-seven cases of insanity in the Bavarian royal family during the present century.

A FLOOD OF SYMPATHY.

Telegrams From all Over the World Have Been Received.

WILL AVOID ALL SHOW.

The Funeral Arrangements—Simple Services at the White House and at Indianapolis—Last Sacred Rites.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 26.—The guard around the executive mansion to keep out intruders was continued today. It was found impracticable to hold the funeral services Wednesday, so it was decided to postpone them till Thursday morning. They will be in no sense public, admission to them being limited to those invited. Only relatives, members of the cabinet and their families, and a very few intimate friends will be in attendance. As far as the official position of the president will permit, the services will be the same as in the case of a member of a private family. They will be held in the east room, conducted according to Presbyterian form by Rev. T. S. Hamlin, pastor of the church which the president attends. The body will not lie in state. After the services the body will be accompanied to Indianapolis, where services of a more public character will be held in the First Presbyterian church, and the body will be interred in Crown Hill cemetery.

All night long and today telegrams of condolence poured in at the white house. If any, only a few will be given the public, including those from persons of unusual prominence, or from other governments. The president is averse to parades of this sort.

The remains were embalmed this morning. A plain black crape-knot on the door is the only outward symbol of mourning.

Secretary Rusk will reach here tonight and Secretary Elkins will also arrive in time for the funeral, so that all the members of the cabinet will be present at the ceremonies. They will act as honorary pall-bearers at the services in this city. Vice President Morton, who telegraphed during the day asking the time when the funeral would take place and Chief Justice Fuller may also be asked to serve as pall-bearers.

The body bearers will be employees of the white house. The pall bearers who will officiate at Indianapolis have been selected. They are: Dr. H. R. Allen, John B. Elam, Hugh Hanla, E. B. Martindale, General Lew Wallace of Crawfordsville, Hon. William E. Niblack of Vincennes, John R. Elder and Theodore P. Haughey.

All the members of the president's family, with the exception of his three grand children, will accompany the remains of Mrs. Harrison to Indianapolis. This, of course, includes Dr. Scott, the venerable father of the deceased. It was at first felt that his advanced age would prevent his making the trip, but when the matter was broached to him, he announced emphatically that he proposed to go and would not listen to a proposition to the contrary. Mr. J. R. McKee, the president's son-in-law, has cancelled an important business engagement in Baltimore and will also accompany the body, as will the members of the cabinet and possible the ladies of their families. It is also likely that Vice President Morton and family, Chief Justice Fuller and a few others will be especially invited to accompany the party.

Mrs. Miller, wife of the attorney general, and Mrs. Rusk and other ladies of the families of the members of the cabinet, called this morning and spent some time with the family. A few others intimate friends were also received. Mrs. Parker met most of the callers who went up stairs.

GRAND ISLAND, Oct. 25.—A bell boy named E. B. Owens, who has been employed at the Palmer house, was arrested today for stealing from the guests and samples from the travelling men. In his trunk were found several pairs of pants one overcoat, silk umbrella, sample hats and caps, and other things too numerous to mention, taken from the sample room. About $80 worth of dentists' gold leaf and scores of letters that had never been mailed were found. One letter contained a draft for $50 and another said "Enlished in the present century.

LETTERS FROM GRAND ISLAND.

LETTERS FROM GRAND ISLAND.

"YE EARLIE TROUBLE."

Lucy Laws's Opinion of Henry Guy Carleton's Revolutionary Melodrama.

JANE STUART.

on that occasion, the present production affords the first opportunity to judge squarely of the merits of the play. The American revolution affords very little opportunity for dramatic effect unless the facts of history are ruthlessly distorted and violated. This Mr. Carleton has done, and he justifies his act by a quotation from the preface to "Pevearl of the Peak."

But even as it is, "Ye Earlie Trouble" is entirely unworthy the transcendent ability of Mr. Carleton. His characters are horribly overdrawn and are walked on and off the stage in the most aimless fashion. The climaxes with perhaps a single exception are strong in the sentiment appealing quality, but they are worthy only of the middle grade of melodrama, in which category "Ye Earlie Trouble" properly belongs.

The play is interpreted by an excellent cast, including Joseph Haworth, William F. Owen and Jane Stuart. Miss Stuart and Mr. Owen easily eclipsed the others. This young lady is, in my opinion, one of the best ingenues on the American stage. Her every word, act and gesture denote inspiration as well as studied art. This was first made conspicuously manifest when she was a member of Augustus Pitou's excellent stock company, now defunct. I cannot understand why it is that Palmer, the Frohman and Daly do not snap up this great artist for their fine home organizations. She would then credit to any one of them.

Modjeska's revival of "Henry VIII" at the New York Garden theater does not seem to have been an unqualified success. Strange to say, it is Shakespeare who has been condemned, while Modjeska, her leading man, the Skinner, and the stage setting have been praised by the critics. After all, commendable as is Modjeska's revival of this unfamiliar work of "the immortal bard," it must be admitted that the prodigious and epigrammatic crowd on the dramatic element in "Henry VIII" that it is a very poor acting piece at best.

PROFESSOR KAARLUS.

Schaefer, Stosson, Vignaux and Ives are generally recognized as the champion billiard players of the world. Everybody knows that, but everybody does not know that there is a man in New York city who makes with ease billiard shots that none of the champions can make. This man is Professor Kaarlus, and when playing his favorite game he carries a weight of 100 pounds on his shoulders. Kaarlus invents difficult shots and has offered to play any man in the world at this game for $50,000. He is also the inventor of the two ball game, which teaches the art of playing for position.

RICHARD BAXTER, the great Brittan preacher, was the son of a tenant farmer, and until nearly grown the future author did the work of a farm hand.

If you wish success in any society avoid the belle of it. This will put you in favor with the other women—and eventually with the belle.

Frederick Barbarossa, emperor of Germany, was drowned while crossing a small river in Asia Minor when on his way to fight the Turks.

No Head for Business. —Mosé Schaumburg, Jr.—Yoder, a shentemans wants to know if dot unshrinking undershirt don't shrink a leedle any way.

Western Giants. —There are giants even in these days in the far west. A family in Walla Walla county, Wash., consists of ten members, the average weight being 224 pounds, and the average height 6 feet 6 inches.

A Holyoke (Mass.) confectioner is putting in a cough drop machine that will cough out one ton of drops a day.