The Independents and Democrats Hold the House

THE SENATE IN A LOCK.

Two Sessions Held and no Progress Made as Yet.-A Lively Time In the Lower House Other News.

In a Deadlock.

The legislature of Nebraska convened in regular session at noon Tuesday. The senate was unable to organize, the members of the three parties voting solidly for their own day. candidate for secretary. Two sessions were held without result. In the house a great uproar ensued when the secretary of state called the name of Norton instead of Kruse, but Norton took the seat. The democrats joined with the independents and gave them the organization. Gaffin was elected speaker and Eric Johnson chief clerk. The committee on credentials appointed by the new organization reported against Norton republican and Kruse the independent was seated.

At 12 o'clock Lieutenant Governor Thomas J Majors, took the chair and began arranging the documents on his desk. Mr. Pirtle, bearing the votes of an independent caucus nomination for the impressive prayer. post of secretary, seated himself at Major's right and appeared to be the spectators in the gallery settled down to a condition of quiet expectency. There was not the slightest hint of excitement. It was supposed that the senate would go into a deadlock, and this promise was fulfilled in the most quiet and dignified way imaginale.

At 12:15 the lieutenant governor arose and said that as the hour fixed by the constitution for the assembling of the senate had arrived the body would come to order. He then called upon Chaplain Ger herdt, who officiated two years ago, to offer prayer. The members arose and the chaplain offered an ernest plea for Divine guidance in the work of the session.

Senator Darner of Dawson then nominated C. H. Pirtle as tempory secretary. The nomination was seconded by Senator Dysart.

Senator Everett nominated Frank Wilson, and Lobeck rose to offer a second.

The chair stated that as there was while the senate was in unorgansupporting Mr. Pirtle were asked to rise, fourteen staunch independents sprang to their feet. When Mr. Wilson's name was called fourteen republicans came to his support. In the same way the five democrats testified to their loyalty to Frank Morrissey and the chair announced that there had been no selection.

Senator Mattes rose to ask for information. "Is it necessary to keep minutes so long as we are an unorganized body?"

Lieutenant Governor Majors ansewered that it was the duty of the chairman to keep the minutes pen- the state. ding the selection of a person by he senate.

A third raising vote was taken on the choice of a secretary, resulting in no choice.

The spectators and some of the members immediately hurried over cons of their case presented in a enjoy the bear dance which was reported to be in operation there.

When the senate took a recess it made all around for an equitable disturbution of spoils emanating from organization of the senate. All propositions were declared off and plans were laid for commencing anew. The democrats left feeling secure they held the key to the situation. They claim they have been wooed by both parties. It would not surprise anyone, however, if republicans and independent is joining hannds.
