The Rothschild's have borrowed $10,000,000 of gold in the United States for the use of Austria to aid her in currency reform.

There are rumors of a gigantic railroad deal at Philadelphia by which the Pennsylvania road will secure through connections from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

The citizens of Lincoln have some consolation as there was a bank in Rome closed its doors on the same day that the Capital National bank did at Lincoln and the Pope is supposed to have $300,000 deposited in its vaults.

The republicans of Kansas have given up the contest for a United States senator, and leave the fight with Senator Perkins who was appointed by the governor to keep Martin out who was elected by the populists.

The populists of Wyoming cast their vote last Thursday for Mrs. Mary T. Bartlett for United States senator. This is the first woman, it is said, who ever received a vote in a state legislature for the United States senate.

The bank failure in Rome is creating as much scandal in the Italian government as the Panama affair does in France, which proves that the banking system of the United States is the best in any country with all its drawbacks.

Those who pretend to be in Mr Cleveland's confidence say that Carliste; Cayard and Lamont are Cabinet candidates and there is room for five more men so that those who have been mentioning themselves for Cabinet posts still have a chance.

It is true, as Congressman Raynor aptly puts it, that the government has the same right to protect the country against a foe like the cholera that it has to declare war against an enemy in human form; and the sooner such power is exercised the better the people will be pleased.

It appears that the retiring democratic state treasurer of Illinois has been loaning the public funds to banks in violation of the pledge upon which he was elected; but then democratic state treasurers are slippery lot, as the people have long since learned by costly experience.

It would be singular to see ancient Egypt precipitate a European war in these closing years of the nineteenth century. But there are people in Europe who seem spoiling for a fight with somebody. Uncle Sam says peace, but will get ready to shed the fighters and take his pay in gold.

The New York Tribune publishes a column on the floor of the house at Washington that was not recorded on the pages of the "Congressional Record." It was the matching of the half dollars by a number of the members while in session which resulted in Mr. Barrows of Michigan carrying off all of the half dollars.

Martin O'Neill of St. Louis Mo., has made a valuable find in southern Illinois in the way of a lead-ore graphing stone which is directly on the bank of the Mississippi river, twenty-six miles above Cairo, and extends ledge is 300 feet deep and extends back from the river a half mile. There is said to be enough to supply the world for 500 years.

A sub-committee of the appropriations committee of the house is preparing a new pension law under instructions, it is alleged of Grover Cleveland, that will, if passed, reduce the pension list from $170,000,000 to $36,000,000 or $40,000,000. It sweeps out the disability provisions of the present law, cuts off all widows who were married to soldiers after 1870, and confers pensions on such soldiers as were actually wounded or incurred disease while in the service or who are absolutely paupers now. By getting rid of the great bulk of the pensioners now on the books of the government, the democratic counselors of Mr. Cleveland hope to be able to cut down the tariff in a very free and easy way. Well, probable it is all right. The party opposed to all the pension nonsense won't be the fight a November.

AMERICAN SHIPPING.

In one respect this present congress has shown admirable statesmanship.

It solved the problem which had perplexed a dozen previous congresses namely, how to build up American shipping by admitting foreign built steamers to the privilege of American registration without discouraging domestic shipbuilding. The solution hit upon is to allow the registration of a foreign steamer on condition that another quite as good shall be built in this country. This was a compromise based on common sense and the only surprise is that it did not come sooner.

The original intention was to apply this policy to only one steamship the city of New York, one of the four or five large vessels of the Inman Line, originally known as the Liverpool and Philadelphia Steamship Company. This steamer and the City of Paris will both haul down the British flag and run up the stars and stripes Washington's birthday. No better date could have been fixed upon for that transfer. Even the Fourth of July would have been no improvement upon the day which ushered in the morning star of American liberty and Nationality.

As these steamships take on their new National character they will drop the "city of" part of their original name. The New York has a net burden of 5,739 tons, the Paris 5,581. They are the largest of the line. The City of Chicago has a burden of 3,383 tons. Under the agreement of the act of congress the new American line already has under contract two new twin screw steamships, the best that the art of shipbuilding has been able to devise. For every steamer of the line which is built on this side of the Atlantic is one of the first-class steamers of the English merchant marine is transferred, and in this way each vessel purchased, and built may vessel duplicate itself.

On the same day the name of the company will be changed from the Inman Line to the International Navigation Company. The transformation is not limited to the change in the names of the line and the ships. The house-flag of the line will be truly patriotic. It will consist of a blue American eagle on a white ground.

A BLOODLESS REVOLUTION.

The people of Hawaii have disposed of their Queen and organized a territorial government and ask to be annexed to the United States the same as Texas was. The new government has sent a committee to this country to ask our government to take possession and the question of annexation must be taken up soon. Annexation to the United States would doubtless be viewed with disfavor by Great Britain for many reasons. It would extend the boundaries of the United States toward the Australian and Asiatic colonies of Great Britain, which are a source of great revenue to that nation. Uncle Sam's foothold on the Sandwich Islands would therefore be regarded as a menace to British supremacy in Chinese waters and in the Indian ocean.

Donna Maria Isabel, Infanta of Spain, will take in the world's Fair. An Eastern journal posted on Spanish royal etiquette says: As "the representative of the Spanish government the President must from necessity entertain her at the White House when she visits Washington or stand disgraced in the eyes of Spanish royalty." So they are trying to arrange it. There are but five bed-rooms in the White House and whether they will be enough to entertain the senoreta and her suite and let Cleveland and his family go out to sleep at some of the neighbors' is the problem not yet solved. We hope it will be fixed up. Uncle Sam wants no war with Spain this year.

Two bandits by the name of William Van Orman and Frank Lewis of Malvern Kansas robbed the bank at Waverly Kansas last Friday and killed a citizen by the name of Angelman, the robbers were captured and the money returned.

State legislature has cost the people $100,000.00 and it has done nothing of importance yet. If it anything of a republican United States senate will give thanks, the people will.

The little town of Nehawka is on a boom. Business of all kinds is flourishing and Van C... is going to work in the stone quarry.

Since the first of the year, Butte, Hayes, Brooks, Lamar, and Blaine have all died, making an unusual number of prominent men to die in so short a time.

IN THE BLACK BELT.

A year ago Professor Brooker T. Washington, of the Tuskegee (Ala.) Normal and Industrial Institute, called a conference of the poor farmers in the Black Belt to discuss their condition in their own way. Professor Washington is a colored man, has a large school for colored people taught by colored teachers, and he is trying to show that the colored race is capable of development if it only has the opportunity. His conference of poor negro farmers last year was one of the best practical steps toward bettering the condition of the negroes in the Black Belt. He impressed upon them the fact that not politics nor organization could help them, but work and education—they must save money and buy lands. They must learn to increase their crops and not depend upon cotton. They must educate their children, and treat their women as white men treat white women.

Professor Washington has called another conference of the poor negro farmers to meet at Tuskegee next month and he will be able to compare the results of last year with the condition then and see what has been accomplished.

Gibson and McKenna, two democratic senators have just died poor. While republican senators sometimes die, there is not a case on record where one dies poor.—Democrat.

The above from the democrat is true as preaching. When republican senators reach the end of life they are rich, for the reason that they have laid up their treasure where "moth and rust doth not corrupt and thieves do not break through and steal." But when the democratic senator who has embraced the doctrines of his party with their degeneration and corrupting tendencies, is called upon to render an account of his stewardship, he realizes that he is poor, indeed.—Beatrice Times.

If the populists ever expect to elect a United States senator by the aid of democratic votes they will have to forsake the "middle of the road" for the democrats were never known to be in the middle of the road, and if they should happen to stray there they would be surprised that they would not know what to do.

Senator Chandler has introduced a resolution in the United States senate calling upon the president to open negotiations with the provisional government of the late kingdom of Hawaii for the admission of the island as a territory of the United States.

The doctors who performed the autopsy upon the body of the late General Benjamin F. Butler state his brain weighed fifty-six ounces, four ounces more than that of Daniel Webster. Both of these gentlemen were products of New Hampshire.

John A. Davies, our representative is making his work and will prove to the citizens of Cass that they made no mistake when they elected him to represent them at Lincoln.

Why don't the committee from the democratic house appointed to investigate the Homestead strike, make their report, it is long overdue, let us hear the report.

The question has been asked "what will the new administration do for the civil service reform?" and the answer comes back that it will give it the go by.

The B. & M. are employing all the men that come along and yet they cannot get enough, any one that can drive a nail will be employed.

The Pullman company has put up $14,000 to the city of Omaha for taxes and will now bring suit to recover it back on the plea of unjust taxation.

South Dakota will exhibit a solid cake of gold at the world's fair which is worth $700,000.

Miss Bertha Teegarden was effected by heart failure Wednesday.

night and came near dying. She lay as one dead for two hours, and it required the utmost skill of the doctors to revive her. To all outward appearance no pulsation could be discerned, but by strong efforts she came out all right.

The stockholders of the fair association met Tuesday afternoon for business, and a proposition made by the county association at Plattsmouth was considered. The proposition was that if the Elmwood association will assume the indebtedness of $1,000 Plattsmouth will relinquish all claim on the county fair and peacefully permit it to be removed to Elmwood. This seems to be a very generous proposition, and in fact could be no other wise; because if Elmwood secured the county institution it would necessarily have to assume all indebtedness. Ex-Commissioner Dickson was appointed to further investigate the matter and make a report.

From the Eagle.

The high school room was filled to its utmost capacity last Saturday night, members being there on account of the old fashioned spelling school, others to see the new style of spelling, and all to enjoy the programme which embraced singing, music and declamations by the school. A prize for each style of spelling in the shape of a dictionary was offered for the best in each class. Thos. Martz, S. Orton, A. A. Barden, D. D. Andrus, Dr. Hall, I. N. Woodford and several other old boys ranged themselves in line with the other boys and girls and tried their level best to win the trophy. It proved a futile test, for Miss Alice Perkinson had a corner on it. In the word builders contest, Miss Mable Swearingen was the successful candidate for the other prize.

On the stamps of Egypt we see the pyramid and the sphinx. The triangular stamps of Cape of Good Hope are very odd. These stamps all bear the figure of "Hope" in a recumbent posture. The stamps of Guatemala are adorned by the typical parrot, and those of Peru by the llama. West Australia proudly displays her swan. Newfoundland represents her fishing industries by a seal on some of her issues, and a fishing vessel with full spread sails upon another, and lately has placed her beloved pet, the Newfoundland dog, upon her stamps.—Ohio State Journal.

Deputy Sheriff John Tighs and Coon Valley took Konstony Krosky, the young Poland, that created such a disturbance last Saturday to the insane asylum at Lincoln last Tuesday. He emigrated from Poland only a few months ago and so far as can be found out has no relatives in America. He evidently was shipped to this country for us to take care of and only demonstrates one reason why our immigration laws should be changed.

FRESH EGGS.

The Sign Stated, but Crows Saw a Chicken Break its Way Out of One.

In the window show window of one of these curious little French shops on Ninth avenue possibly a hundred thousand or more eyes looking absently from the elevated trains have seen a lot of eggs carefully arranged on a table, a Columbus, in the following design:

Whether it was the delicacy of humor in this rebuke or the fascination of seeing a couple dozen of fresh eggs in a position so wholly unnatural to fresh eggs, and in a place where nothing else appeared fresh to the naked eye, a good many people passed in front long enough to fully master the sign. It is one of those queer little affairs, where mixed groceries, live birds, coffee and rolls, and toys, candy and cigars are kept on draft. To allude to the egg sign in the past tense because the sign is there no longer. It had been there so long, and was so cute, and was admired by so many variegated people who passed that way day and night that it seems a pity. But its ever thus—"I've seen my fondest hopes decay"—and that is what was the matter with the sign. The difficulty of replacing this neat design every day and so on the warm atmosphere day and night did the business.

At any rate, one early evening when the passing throng of 6 o'clock people was greatest two "gents" and a messenger boy were getting a ten cent dinner at one of the little bare tables in the rear, while the birds were twittering in the cages and the gas in the narrow show window threw the usual yellow but kindly glare upon the rebus below.

"Then there folks is greatly took wid our eggs," remarked the stout and obliging lady who was putting up a dozen for a lean and hungry looking customer. And she snapped her tousled head toward the window.

Some dirty boys were earnestly gazing into the window in the foreground, but this was common there. It was the fast increasing group of respectable looking people that stirred the pride of the shopwoman. Just at that moment the wicked boys outside raised a Comanche yell, while the well dressed men and women snickered and laughed outright and looked inside the store as if it were afire. The messenger boy at the table gulped down the dregs of his coffee and hurried out.

"Fully gessed" he cried as he rushed back again and hissed in the ear of the proprietress, "it's a chicken!"

"Go 'long wid yer foolin'!" exclaimed the woman.

"It's a live chicken a-tryin to born his self in fresh eggs!" hissed the boy like a heavy villain.

Any lingering doubt was instantly removed by a renewed demonstration outside. The lean and hungry customer who had just received the fresh eggs in a bag and was counting out her change deliberately set the bag down on a barrel, put the change in her pocket and went indignantly out of the store.

In the meantime a tender little fledgling, having burst the bonds that separated it from the busy world and a possible broiler, had paused upon the brink of the adventure and was looking with mixed curiosity and alarm at the strange spectators. It was a mistake quite certain but that there was a mistake somewhere, though the poor innocent didn't seem to know where it was.

The old woman did, however, for she turned off the gas, slammed the door, looking daggers at the crowd that hastened laughingly away. When the light was turned on again the rebus of "fresh eggs" had disappeared.—New York Herald.

Engraving on Stamps. In looking over a collection of stamps one is struck with the variety and peculiarities of the designs. Let us glance over the pages of a well filled album. What collection of engravings could be more interesting than these we have here? We see the finely executed stamps, designed by artists in Europe and in this country. All shades and colors ever mixed are represented. The coats of arms of many countries are upon their stamps, and we are soon able to recognize the heraldic emblems wherever we see them. We also have a portrait gallery of the rulers of the world. Notice one of the stamps of the Hawaiian Islands. We have a beautiful view of the harbor of Honolulu. The stamps of Panama illustrate the isthmus separating the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. Notice also the landscape views on the stamps of Liberia, Nicaragua, Salvador and Costa Rica.

On the stamps of Egypt we see the pyramid and the sphinx. The triangular stamps of Cape of Good Hope are very odd. These stamps all bear the figure of "Hope" in a recumbent posture. The stamps of Guatemala are adorned by the typical parrot, and those of Peru by the llama. West Australia proudly displays her swan. Newfoundland represents her fishing industries by a seal on some of her issues, and a fishing vessel with full spread sails upon another, and lately has placed her beloved pet, the Newfoundland dog, upon her stamps.—Ohio State Journal.

Every friend and acquaintance of Jay Gould know the story of "the man who got a pointer." The story was as follows: Gould was very seldom uncertain or unconfident with his employees, and while he made no promises he was rather desirous to see those who served him thrive and feel on good terms with the world. Mr. Gould on one occasion told a faithful man in his employment about some things he was going to do. His object was to have the man apply the information in his own way and get the benefit of it. Some time afterward he asked this man if he had bettered himself, as he had been shown the opportunity. The man said not that he was afraid that if he would act on the information it would seem like using Mr. Gould's confidence to his own advantage. Mr. Gould for the first time suspected his faithful subordinate to be wanting in quality.—New York World.

English Hares Frequently Take a Swim. I have many times seen hares, several of them at a time, cross a stream to feed on summer evenings and coolly return in the same way back to the woods. The act has been quite voluntary, but one thing I have noticed, they invariably set up to see if they had time to cross before any surprise came—for instance, the movements of a person walking along a footpath in the distance would be watched with some anxiety before the plunge was made. I have also seen snakes swim across streams in the same way, apparently to bask on the sunny side.—Cor. London News.

Many Species of Insects. Entomologists in general concede that about 100,000 species of insects have been recognized and named, but these figures, it is believed, do not represent a tenth of the number actually inhabiting the globe.
