NEBRASKA FEELS PROUD.

The People of Nebraska of all Political Parties Rejoice Over the Appointment of Hon. J Sterling Morton.

Nebraska Honored.

The telegraph dispatches brought word last Saturday that Cleveland had offered the position of secretary of agriculture to J. R. Morton and that he has accepted, and all Nebraskans were rejoicing.

J. Sterling Morton was born in Adams, Jefferson county, N. Y., April 22, 1832. His ancestry was of Scottish birth and Puritans. Removing with his parents to Michigan at an early age, Mr. Morton was educated at Ann Arbor at Union college, New York, graduating from the latter institution in 1854. While studying he had been shown predilections toward newspaper work and contributed to the Detroit Free Press and other journals of reputation. On October 30, 1854 he married and started west, arriving at Bellevue early in November. After a few weeks at Bellevue the young couple moved to Nebraska city, where he started in to edit the Times newspaper. In 1855 he was elected to the territorial legislature, again a candidate in 1856, when he was defeated by eighteen votes in consequence of his opposition to chartering "wild-cat" banks. He went back a year later, however, and took an active part in the bitter struggle attendant on the removal of the legislature to Florence. Mr. Morton succeeded Thomas B. Cumming as secretary of the territory in the spring of '58, and within a few months became active governor on the resignation of Governor Richardson. In the fall of 1860 the democrats nominated him for congress, but he failed of election. Six years later he aspired to be first governor of Nebraska, but he failed of election, but David Butler secured the honor. Mr. Morton was appointed to represent Nebraska at the Paris exposition, and was one of the commissioners at the Centennial. He has been actively and usefully interested in agricultural and horticultural work, having served as president of the state board in charge of these industries, and claims the honor of being the originator of Arbor day. In economics he is an out-and-out free trader, and the theories of Cobden and the "Manchester school" are to him the "last word" on the subject having all the force and power of a divine revelation. Mr. Morton's last campaign in Nebraska is still fresh in the minds of the readers. He was nominated for governor by the democrats, and made an earnest, personal canvass of the state.

The following from the Fremont Tribune will be read with a good deal of interest by the Cass county friends of Hon. John A. Davies: If anybody has a curiosity to meet one of the brightest young members of the legislature they should send in their card at the New York hotel to John A. Davies, member from Cass. He is not a veteran, but he is the son of one and he feels at home with "the boys."

Mrs. Dearing of Hastings, Iowa, who has been visiting her son, Dr. W. H. Dearing left last Saturday for Lincoln where she will visit a daughter.

Henry C. Tiede and Minnie J. Looz of Berlin, Otoe county, were granted a license to wed last Saturday by Judge Ramsey.

Judge Ramsey united in marriage last Saturday John M. Woolsey of Fremont county, Iowa, and Miss Nellie Smith of Union.

The suit of the Prentiss Brown Stone company vs. Erath & Timm, tried at the last jury term of district court in Cass county, has been appealed to the supreme court. The litigation arose from a disputed settlement in regard to the stone used in the new court house, and the trial of the case in this court resulted in a verdict for the plaintiff.

Harry Todd, one of our enterprising young farmers, whose farm of 380 acres, is two miles south of Murray was delivering at Banning & Son's elevator last week 1,200 bushels of as choice winter wheat as the west can produce, which we think demonstrated the fact that Cass county is the banner county in the state for wheat, oats and corn. This, coupled with the fact that this is one of the best fruit and berry growing counties in the state makes the fact plain that this is a desirable county to live in.—Murray Banner.

Davies, of Cass county, is one of the brightest young men in the house. He does not make himself conspicuous; but when he does get up to talk he has something to say worth listening to, and presents the facts in such elegant and forcible language as commands respect and consideration, Sterling Sun.

Mr. Michael Kennedy of Center precinct died suddenly Sunday of heart failure. He was fifty-eight years old, Mr. Kennedy was a prosperous farmer, and well known throughout the county.

PEOPLE AND AFFAIRS.

The Plattsmouth Canning Factory has been leased to cater parties and will run at its fullest capacity the coming season.

Noah Crabtree who has resided near Nehawka for years past, departed last Friday for Frontier county where he will till the soil in the future.

Jno. Urish has purchased the old Ruby farm in Mt. Pleasant precinct, consisting of 100 acres of C. H. Parmele. The price was $6,800.

The T. J. Thomas farm property northwest of town consisting of 318 acres was sold at referee's sale last Saturday afternoon, it brought nearly $10,000.

District court convened last Monday morning with Judge Chapman presiding.

The following named persons were examined last Saturday by County Superintendent Noble: Lizzie Leach, Plattsmouth; Carlo Livingston, Amanda Walsadt and Norma Hall, Louisville; Frank Davis, Walter Cox, and Stella Norris, Murray; Jos. Pearson, Ashland; Lillie Buck and Elizabeth Klepser, Union; Esther Perry, Eight Mile Grove; and Rhoda Banning, Nehawka.

We are pleased to state that Plattsmouth's dinner party brigade is growing quite rapidly. Any one watching the men going to and coming from their work can see an increase each day.

Mr. Chas. L. Laughlin, jr., and Miss Harriet R. Middelkoff, of Greenwood appeared before Judge Ramsey last Thursday and were made one by the judge.

Prof. Halsey of our public school has turned his leisure moments this winter to inventing. He has made a wheel to be anchored on a boat in the river, which with the weight of the current is expected to furnish power that will be valuable running machinery. He tested his model last Thursday by cutting a hole in the ice and the result was very satisfactory, and with a little further experiment he thinks that he will be able to solve the great problem, "how to harness the great power of the river that goes to waist every year."

On Monday Judge Ramsey issued licenses to wed to the following persons: Chas. S. Rosenbaum and Hattie M. Gilmore of Weeping Water; Geo. Clausen and Amelia Mikkelsen of Weeping Water; to Jos. Mastin and Mrs. May E. Young of Greenwood, and to Simon Hansen and Hannah Corbin of Weeping Water. The latter couple were married in the court room.

Hon. J. M. Patterson and daughter-in-law, Mrs. T. M. Patterson returned Sunday from their visit in California. Mr. Patterson is delighted with the California climate.

TO ELECT OFFICERS.

A meeting of the young men's republican club is called for Monday evening February, 27 at the police judges' office at 8 o'clock for the election of officers and such other business as may come before the club. J. L. Root, Pres. M. N. GRIFFITH, Sec.

Messrs. E. E. White, A. W. White, Joe Klein, Dave McEntee, Burt Pollock and Tom Patterson attended the banquet Tuesday evening in Omaha, given by the Life Undertakers Association. They were the guests of General Agent Neily of the Equity Life of N. Y. who is vice president of the Underwriters Association, they report having a very pleasant time.

The masons resumed work on the Waterman block Monday morning and have finished up the brick work, and the carpenters are busy putting on the roof.

Harry Dray who has been connected with this office for the past two years left last Monday for Peru where he was married yesterday to Miss Emma E. Randol. The Herald wishes the young couple a happy journey through life.

The Union Ledger has taken a forced lay off for a few weeks on account of a supreme court decision which requires that the number in the Ledger office be returned to its original owners, Manker & Sine, the Ledger bought of C. A. Manker. The litigation is between Manker and Sine. The Ledger is all right and we are glad to state that it will appear again and more than likely in a new dress after the trouble has been settled.

Last Wednesday February, 15th being the forty-sixth birthday of C. H. Petersen, his friends and neighbors planned a surprise on him which was a complete success, in every way. During the day his wife purchased him a secretary and while he was admiring it in the evening his friends arrived in a body, they brought well filled baskets, also a fine gold headed cane, of which Mr. Petersen is very proud of.
