THE MISSOURI ON A RAMPAPE.

Highest At This Point Since the High Water of 1881.

The old Missouri is again on the rampage. At noon the government gauge showed 13.8.10 above mean low water, and on the Iowa side east of the city it is cutting its way into the land. As a result of this it has not raised much since morning. The Burlington river track on the Iowa side is under water, but it has not reached the main line.

At Yankton, a huge ice house was floated against the Great Northern bridge over the Pine river, and both structures are threatened with destruction. Heavy rains fell in all this section last night and today and streams emptying into the Missouri are all running back full again. The river here will rise at least twenty-four hours longer.

Last evening the river broke over into its old channel by Omaha, flowing into Florence lake, which was formed when the river changed its course nearly twenty years ago. Last night the water was pouring down through the lake and has flooded the bottoms in the vicinity. All the houses in North Omaha, two or three hundred in number, are surrounded, and the inhabitants have been moving to higher ground. The Missouri Pacific and Elkhorn tracks are under water. The river is still rising.

The water from the break into Florence lake is finding an outlet into Cut-off lake and if the rise is much greater there is great danger that the river will re-establish its abandoned course of twenty years ago. In this event the property loss will be enormous, as there are enormous railroad plants, factories, etc., in the line of the threatened cutoff. It was still raining there at midnight and there was no way of telling what damage was being done in the darkness by the unruly waters.

A Lively Runaway.

Chris Volenagie, a farmer residing south of town, came in early this morning and tied his team in front of Clark's grocery. The animal that was tied managed to slip his bridle off and they immediately started to run. The team ran up Main street to seventh and circled back around to the court house on Vine where the tongue to the wagon broke and they were stopped. No damage was done except to the wagon.

The Christian Church Entertainment.

The entertainment given by the ladies of the Christian church at White's hall last evening proved a gratifying success, both financially and socially. A good crowd was in attendance and the program was highly appreciated. A good supper was served, to which those in attendance did ample justice. A neat sum was realized for the church.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. VESTAL.

Was a Devout Member of the Methodist Church Since the Age of Sixteen.

Mrs. Martha Vestal, who passed away last Friday, was born in Indiana, January 22, 1847. When four years old her parents moved to Iowa, living one year in Keokuk county, then locating in Powashiek county, where she passed her childhood. At the age of sixteen she embraced the Christian religion, joining the Methodist church, of which she has been an earnest and devout member ever since. During her last hours, while suffering great bodily pain, she fervently sang "When I Can Read My Title Clear" and "Nearer My God to Thee," and was ready when the messenger came to bid her come up higher.

Knowing full well that the time had come for her to go, she was prepared for the journey, resting on the promises of God, which the consciousness of a well-spent life alone can give. Mrs. Vestal was indeed a truly noble woman, whom none knew but to love. She had a kind word and a cheerful smile for all, with a word of encouragement for those in trouble.

Martha (Allen) Vestal was married to L. H. Vestal on November 6, 1855, in Iowa. They removed to Kansas the following year, where they resided until 1871, when they returned to Des Moines, Ia. Remaining there until about eight years ago, they moved to Nebraska, locating near Ashland. From there they removed to Plattsmouth, and have been residents of this city for the past six years. There is left to mourn her departure her beloved husband and three daughters—Mrs. W. E. Polmeter, of this city; Mrs. Willis Babbitt, of Cedar Rapids, Ia., and Mrs. Edward Richards of Ashland.

Mother, dear, has gone up yonder,
Where the good alone shall go,
She to us seems fonder, fonder—
We have learned to love her so.
From all earthly pain she's free,
On that bright, eternal shore;
By the strand of the crystal sea,
There we'll meet her as of yore.
Her kindly word and pleasant smile
We will miss on our journey here;
We will trust in God the while,
For we know she is happy there.
God guide us all while here below,
That we may when our voyage is o'er,
Find up there our resting place,
Where our dear one has gone before.

Death of an Old Lady.

Mrs. Jane Rhodes passed to her final reward at 4 o'clock this morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Jones, Pearl and Thirteenth streets, aged seventy-three years. Deceased had been a sufferer from asthma for three years. She was the widow of G. W. Rhodes, a soldier in the Fifty-first regiment, Missouri infantry. Funeral will be held at the residence Wednesday at 2 p. m. and interment will be made at Oak Hill cemetery.

It ever occur to you, gentle reader, that when those harbingers of spring—the twittering robin and the cackling hen—are heard in the land it is to remind of the approach of spring—that delightful season of the year when your wife ties her hand up in a towel, tumbles the furniture out in the yard, tears up the carpets and tells you to

YOU
