Burwell Spurlock returned home today after a pleasant visit with his son, George Spurlock.

Robert Livingston is home from his southern tour, having spent most of his time in Arkansas.

Mrs. Peiffer of Omaha returned home today after a brief visit with Mrs. George Longenhagen.

Tom Julian, foreman of the B. & M. round house at Gibson, was in town today shaking hands with old friends.

C. H. Vallery is carrying 17,000 bushels of corn if the price went up to 50 cents he could wear diamonds and quit farming.

The high water on the river bottom secured a telegraphic order to S. H. Atwood & Co., for thirty cars of stone to be used on the K. C. track.

S. A. Atwood & Co., secured the contract for furnishing 100 cars of stone to the Grand Island sugar factories to be used in refining the raw sugar.

Captain Davis, of the Volunteer Army, has gone to Chicago. His wife expects to go to Kansas City, and officers from the Omaha barracks, it is said, will have charge of the meetings here.

Hon. James Hall was in town today on his way down to Major Hall's to see his twenty-fourth grandchild, which, in major's opinion is worth going miles to see, and there is no opinion on the subject better than his.

When you are trying to jar a map peddler loose and get away from him remember that Jay Gould made his start in the world peddling maps, and you may be talking to a man who may own the whole country before he dies.

Minnie Larson of Louisville, aged twenty years, was brought down today and will be examined by the board of insanity tomorrow. It is said that the unfortunate girl has so grieved over the death of her mother that her mind has become deranged.

A party of Grand Army boys and their wives called on W. S. Purdy last evening and the time was very pleasantly spent in conversation. Mr. Purdy is still very ill and is unable to leave his home, and the visit by these friends was highly appreciated by Mr. and Mrs. Purdy.

Dr. S. C. Marshall, D. D. S., graduated with honors from the Kansas City Dental college a few weeks ago, after taking a complete course, and is now well equipped to follow the exacting profession of dentistry. The doctor has had considerable experience and will begin his work under most favorable auspices. For a time he will remain in this city with his brother, C. A. Marshall.

THURSDAY.

Walt Holmes is down from Havelock today.

Mrs. J. N. Wise, we are glad to note, is able to be out again.

George and Dave Lloyd are in from West Rock Bluffs precinct today.

George Poisall, jr., is now in the employ of the B. & M. at Havelock.

The farmers are already nearly through sowing their small grain and work has begun preparing the ground for corn.

The Rt. Rev. George Worthington will officiate in St. Luke's parish on Easterday in the evening for confirmation.

The old canning factory has been demolished and the material disposed of greatly to the improvement of that corner.

Rev. F. H. Freund will hold service on Good Friday evening at 8 p. m. in Waterman's hall. Everybody is cordially invited.

Joseph Maston, aged forty-four, and Mrs. Maria O'Dell, aged thirty-four, both of Greenwood, took out a permit to wed today.

Mrs. Black has had two fine, plate glass windows put in Fricke's drug store that add much to the appearance of that first-class institution.

C. L. Marshall had the misfortune to lose his best horse a few days ago. The animal got out of a stalk pasture and ran into a wire fence, literally cutting it to pieces.

THE NEWS purchased its monthly installment of 40,000 sheets, or eighty reams, of white print paper this week, which is more white print than all the other papers in the county put together would use in a year.

The editor of THE NEWS was called to Greenwood last evening on business, and he found the village in a flourishing condition. Business is much better there now than it was a year ago, and property values seem to be looking up.

Senator Wilberton, of Chaffee county, Colorado, came in last evening to join his wife, who has been visiting Mrs. J. C. Peterson and family. The Colorado legislature has just adjourned, and Mr. Wilberton will rest up here for a week before returning home.

MYNARD ITEMS.

The farmers are busy sowing and cultivating in their small grain, although the ground has been very wet and heavy to work.

W. F. Gillispie shipped a car of oats south this morning.

The people over in the Boeck district had a good time picking up the remains of their school house, which was blown away about a week ago. The debris was scattered for a distance of two miles.

C. N. Beverage shipped a car of cattle to South Omaha last week.

Miss Etta Hartman and her sister, Mrs. Stone, of Alvo, are down at Mynard visiting relatives and friends.

AMONG THE EXCHANGES.

Sunday afternoon John Lehman hitched his horse to the buggy, placed his family inside and in attempting to start the horse reared backward and he fell striking his head, knocking it senseless, where it lay until the next day when it died. Dr. Evans says it died of paralysis of the brain.—Weeping Water Republican.

Rood & Wickstrom are working about twenty men on an order of 400 cars of rip rap for the Elkhorn road. They ship seven cars a day. The outlook for a good business in their line is very bright, we are glad to learn, and the probabilities are they will be working a larger force before long.—Weeping Water republican.

Two years ago R. J. Warren, a druggist at Pleasant Brook, N. Y., bought a small supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He sums up the result as follows: "At that time goods were unknown in this section; today Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a household word." It is the same in hundreds of communities. Wherever the good qualities of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy become known, the people will have nothing else. For sale by all druggists.

TRYING TO GET AT THE FACTS.

Kansas Bribery Investigating Committee Makes Some Progress.

TOPEKA, Kan., April 14.—Representative H. A. Keefer of Leavenworth occupied much of the time of the legislative investigating committee today. Keeferhad made charges of corruption, but showed a decided unwillingness to mention names or give other direct testimony. He had much to say of the committee on telegraph and telephones, of which he was chairman, but his testimony in this direction showed principally the existence of ill-feeling between himself and a majority of his committee, which had resulted in the committee blocking all his efforts toward legislation.

When hard pressed for definite statements as to charges of corruption made by him in public, Keefer stated he had been approached by a man who wanted to buy his vote on the railroad bill. The man told him others were getting money and that he was a fool if he did not go home "fixed." He could not remember the man's name. Keefer said he had also been approached several times on the text book bill. R. W. Turner, secretary of the Board of Railroad commissioners, he said, had come to him twice. Turner made no definite offer to him. Representatives Fairchild and Davis and W. L. Brown of Kingman came to him about school book legislation. He also hail been told by State Senator Ed Carroll of Leavenworth that B. P. Waggoner had made the "brag" that he (Waggoner), as head of the railroad lobby, had $50,000 at his disposal to defeat railroad legislation.

Before Keefer concluded Committeemen Grimes, by direct questioning, brought out the facts of a conversation between himself and Keefer, held during the session, in which he made it appear that Keefer had told him that members of the telegraph committee were "fixed" and that he was feeling put out because the telegraph people had not seen him also.

Adjournment was taken until April 27 to give time for the service of a number of subpoenas for additional witnesses.

A LITTLE GARDEN.

I've got a little garden,
A shovel and a spade;
Now, prithee, come and help me,
My pretty little maid!

We'll raise sweet peas, potatoes,
And radishes and beans,
Cucumbers and red roses,
And, O, such early greens!

Behold the hoe and rake here,
And all the seeds I've bought!
Let, lacking you, my garden,
I know, must come to naught.

You look down at your hands, dear,
And smile and hesitate;
Such little hands for digging
Are all too delicate!

You've but to bring the sunshine,
I'll dig and plant and hoe;
You'll smile upon my garden,
And things will surely grow!

How an Owl Saved a Train.

Owls are by common consent adjudged to be birds of ill omen, but Engineer Ned Barnett of the Santa Fe says he happens to know that they are anything but that and tells the following story to prove his assertions:

One morning as the east bound overland was pulling through the mountains west of here, Barnett's engine doing the work, a big horn beaked owl dashed against the front window of the cab with such force as to break the window, the bird itself dropping dead at the engineer's feet. Though Barnett is not, generally speaking, a superstitious man, this seemed so singular an occurrence that he stopped the train and sent a brakeman ahead to see if the way was clear. Strange to relate, the brakeman soon returned, reporting a landslide across the track in the mountain pass about 100 yards ahead. Hands were sent at once to clear the track, and in removing the debris they found another owl, no doubt mate to the first, caught in the crotch of an uprooted tree, crushed to death in the fall.

Barnett had both owls stuffed, and the two now adorn his cab, always insuring him good luck, he says.—Philadelphia Times.

Writing Leaders For the London Times.

I dined with Mr. Walter and his son in Printing House square at 5 o'clock and found that I was expected to write an article there and then on one of the subjects of the day. I protested my inability, not supposing myself capable of doing such a thing in less than a week. This was poohpoohed. I tried, found it possible and found also that I was expected to repeat the process next day, same hour, same dinner, short conversation after dinner, then the subject was announced, and I was left alone till tea time, when Mr. Walter appeared, read aloud what I had done, with criticisms and, after correction, carried off the paper to the printer. When the article was finished, the same process was repeated, and when I was disburdened of the whole article I went home to bed. Gradually it appeared that I was expected (exceptis excipiendis) to do this every evening.—Letters of Frederick Lord Blackford.

Eating What We Know Nothing About.

There is nothing so delicious as the first codfish caught off the 'Sconset shore. You never have them as we do. We eat the "tongues and sounds," and one does not know what codfish is until they have tasted these. Then the "inwards" are sold at 25 cents a quart. What they are I will not explain. But fried in crumbs, there is nothing more palatable. "Britches" and "chitlings" are the names given to the different varieties found under the more general term of "inwards."—Nantucket Cor Springfield Republican.

Peacemaking.

"I am afraid," said the irascible father, "that the boy feels very unkindly toward me."

"Did you reprove him?"

"Yes, and the result is that I haven't seen him for two or three days."

"I guess you could be friends quickly enough if you would only make some advances."

"Well, I hate to give in, but I suppose I may as well. Hand me my checkbook, and I'll make an advance of $20 to start with."—Washington Star.

A Brand From the Burning.

After the German invasion an officer of the Turkos could not settle down into civic life, but went off to Africa on an exploring expedition. In one of the native villages on the Niger he saw an intelligent, bright looking lad tied up, and on inquiry found that he was being fattened for a feast which was in contemplation in which he was to appear roasted. He bought the lad for a case of Old Tom gin and brought him back to Paris, where he was sent to school, astonishing everybody by his capacity. He has just died in that city, closing a history in which his rescue shines as the most memorable incident.

Harper's Magazine IN 1897

FICTION: "The Martian," the new novel by Du Maurier, the eagerly expected successor to "Trilby," begun in October number, 1896, with illustrations from the author's drawings. A new novel by Frank R. Stockton—developing a Twentieth Century Renaissance—full of humorous situations and characteristically illustrated. "A Pair of Patient Lovers," by William Dean Howells. Other striking novelettes by American authors. Short stories by Mark Twain, Thomas Nelson Page, Richard Harding Davis, Owen Wister, John Kendrick Bangs, Rafle McEnery Stuart, Octave Thanet, Mary E. Wilkins, and other popular writers.

SCIENCE: Story of the Progress of Science during the Nineteenth Century, a series of papers by Dr. Henry Smith Williams, supplemented by contributions on special subjects by expert scientists. Articles on the relations of certain psychological manifestations to physiology by Dr. Andrew Wilson.

AMERICAN FEATURES: "The Mexico of today," a series by Charles F. Lummis, splendidly illustrated—the result of a recent visit to Mexico undertaken for HARPER'S MAGAZINE. Mexico is preeminently a silver-producing country, and its monetary operations rest entirely on silver basis. Owing to the known importance of certain economic problems in connection with issues of urgent importance in American politics, these papers, will command general attention. "American Historical Paper," by Woodrow Wilson, John Bach McMaster, and James Barnes. The true story of "Sheridan's Ride," by Gen. G. A. Forsyth. Continuation of Howell's "Personal Reminiscences" of eminent Americans.

AFRICA AND THE EAST: "Through Jungle and Desert," a fully illustrated series of papers by Poultney Bigelow, the result of personal observations during a recent trip to Africa, covering for the whole field of European exploration of that country. Illustrated articles by Stephen Bonsal on the transformations going on in "Eastern Siberia," recently visited by the author. "Hungarian Sketches," written and drawn by F. Hopkinson Smith. The full story of the recent Coronation of the Czar, by Richard Harding Davis, illustrated by R. Caton Woodville, who was commissioned by Queen Victoria to paint a picture of the ceremony.

Harper's Weekly IN 1897

With the end of 1896 HARPER'S WEEKLY will have lived forty years. In that time it has participated with all the zeal and power at its command in the great political events of the most interesting and important period in the history of the country, and it has spread before its readers the accomplishments of science, arts, and letters for the instruction of the human mind and the amelioration of human conditions and of manners.

What the WEEKLY has been in its spirit and purpose, as these have been manifested principally in its editorial pages, it will continue to be.

It is impossible to announce with precision all the the WEEKLY will contain during the year 1897. It were as easy to announce what is about to happen in the world, what triumphs for good government are to be won, what successes of the people are to be made, what is to be the outcome of the continuous struggle between the spirits of war and peace, what is to happen in the far west, what is to be the state of Europe, the complications, what new marvels of science are to be revealed, or what are to be the achievements of arts and letters, for the WEEKLY is to be a pictorial record of all this.

Cartoons will continue to be a feature.

Serial Stories. A New England story by Miss Mary E. Wilkins, will begin in January. A tale of a Greek uprising against the Turks, by Mr. E. P. Benson, the author of "Dodo," will follow. A sequel to "The House-Boat on the Styx," by Mr. John Kendrick Bangs, illustrated by Mr. Peter Newell.

More Short Stories will appear in the WEEKLY than it has been possible to publish during 1896.

Departments: Mr. W. D. Howell's "Life and Letters" have been among the most charming features of periodical literature, Mr. C. D. Warner and others will continue observations on what is going on in "This Busy World," "Master Spirit" will remain the most important department of its kind in the country.

The WEEKLY will continue to present to its readers the world's news most interesting to Americans, to make important advances in both the literary and artistic features, and to retain for itself the leading place in the illustrated journalism of the world.
