Sheriff Holloway came near parting company with his dog "Mark Hanna" today. The canine got mixed up under the wheels of a passenger train and it was thought wheels passed over its caudal appendage which showed rough handling. As it was not abbreviated, however, the chances are the dog only suffered a stroke from the brake beam.
Dad Carnes is liable to break out with a bad fit of spring poetry. His room is in the old Boeck building, looking out on the B. & M. park, where the fountain plays, the birds sing and the new shade trees are putting forth their rich green leaves. Dad is said to have received inspiration from the scene, and a touch of the divine effluvia is expected.
The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ratz finally succumbed to that dread disease—diphtheria—at 1:30 this afternoon. Her death is a sad blow to the fond parents who are almost prostrate with grief. It is the more sad when friends can not be with them to assist and give comfort in such trying times, though they have the sympathy of the entire community.

Henry Weidman looks like some dreadful misfortune had befallen him. Up to the time of going to press this afternoon he had written four letters to Omaha, telephoned a few times and was wishing there was an invention whereby he could send himself by telegraph. His a hard blow Henry but all roses have thorns, and you must accept the bitter with the sweet or the sweet would lose its savor.
Col. Sherman, accompanied by his old-time genial smile, is back in town again after an all winter's job in the legislature. He looks hale and hearty, but gave no indication of having any diamonds or gold coin secreted about his person, though he was on speaking terms with the "push" which is said to have made bushels of money out of the legislature. The colonel did not appear to grasp the situation fully till tonight, or else he hesitated about making money that way.
A Well Pleased Audience.
Last evening White's opera house was thoroughly thronged with an appreciative audience, who listened to the Madison Square company's best performance—"A Cheerful Lib." The company is composed of a strong cast throughout, and their efforts last evening were repeatedly greeted with loud applause and laughter. Mr. A. L. Willard, who is well-known to Plattsmouth theatre-goers, assumed the leading role, and his trials and tribulations as "Lysander Lyon, M. D." were very amusing. This evening the company presents "Over the Hills to the Poor House." Mr. Willard again assuming the leading role.
