COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES.

The Plattsmouth High School holds forth at the Presbyterian Church. The close of a most successful year's work in the Plattsmouth high school culminates with the graduation of ten young ladies and five young men at the Presbyterian church tonight. Great preparations have been made, and a select program has been arranged which will call out a crowd that will fill the church to standing room. Rev. Murray, the eloquent Omaha divine will present the diplomas and deliver a short address. The balance of the program may be found in another column.

Tomorrow night the senior class will give a banquet at the Riley to a few invited guests, and on Sunday morning next Rev. J. T. Baird will deliver the baccalaureate sermon at the Presbyterian church.

The church has been tastefully decorated for tonight's exercises and all the best people in town are expected to be present.

Four Hundred Cars of Stock.

Yesterday was a big day at the South Omaha live stock market, the receipts being 4,312 cattle, 13,463 hogs and 2,863 sheep, says the Bee. When it is considered that 400 cars were required to bring in that amount of stock, which would make a solid train considerably over two miles in length, the extent of the business carried on at South Omaha may be better appreciated. Very little of this stock was left unsold at the close of the market, and the packers and other buyers had to pay out over $185,000 for the day's purchase.

Outside of a few stock cattle to be taken back into the country to be placed on feed, practically all of the stock received was bought by the packers and will all be slaughtered and converted into product at South Omaha. That work has all to be done within one day, each day's purchase representing one day's killing at the packing houses.

They Call It an Experiment.

The M. P. only has one passenger train a day now each way through this city, but the freight cars carrying coaches at rear of way car, even the through fast freight stops at all stations up this way. The farmers out by Murray are trying to rent the right of way to raise potatoes on. As the train service don't appear to be profitable, probably the company will lease the track and some enterprising capitalist could put in a motor line. The management resides in St. Louis and hasn't yet learned that the people up this way appreciate a live road with up-to-date service.

Spend a Pleasant Evening.

Last evening the English History class gave their teacher a very pleasant surprise. After a recitation, "God Save the Queen," the young people took possession and the evening was spent merrily in recitations, music and English History games.

Each member wore the class colors—yellow. Dainty refreshments were served, all showing the class colors. The members of the class are Misses Biredda Smith, Capitola Black, Anna Pollock, Rose Winterstein, Ella Spangler, Nell Leonard, Susie Keefer, Addie Smith and Earnest Matthews and Paul Hayes.

A Record to be Proud of.

What is now, and probably will be, the record in this county for a day's stinging was made by John Robbins, jr., the other day on Harvey Holloway's house on North Fourth street. We did not learn whether it was caused by the ladies in the neighborhood watching him or not, but he has some reliable men to support his claim to the honor of being the crack shingler—he having taken off the old shingles and put on new, 5563 shingles, in eleven hours, which is calculated to equal the putting on of nearly 8,000 new shingles.

Upset, but Not Hurt.

Mrs. Cooper and daughter were driving down town this morning when the horse began kicking at a furious rate and finally demolished the dashboard of the buggy. When the avenue was reached, the horse in some way got its foot caught and fell over, tumbling into the ditch. The shafts were broken and it required the services of two men to get the animal out of its predicament. Otherwise, except for fright of the occupants of the buggy, no harm was done.

Cade Rogers on the War Path.

Cade Rogers got an over dose of very bad whiskey last night, and started in to capture the town. His war whoops awakened several people on Vine and on Main street, and he was finally taken to Jailor Holloway's about 3 o'clock this morning. Today he had an inuring before Judge Archer, who gave him some good advice backed up by a fine of $25, which Cade says he will pay out in jail at the rate of $1.50 per day.

Nice Ice.

F. S. White stored an immense quantity of choice crystal ice last winter which he will deliver to any part of the city at lower rates than heretofore. Leave orders at the store, and get the best at prices which are right.

May 19, 1897.—The board met pursuant to adjournment; full board present. The following resolution was adopted by the board defining the boundaries of Liberty, Rock Bluffs and Plattsmouth precincts:

"It appearing expedient to the board of county commissioners that the boundary lines of Liberty precinct, Rock Bluffs precinct and Plattsmouth precinct, all in Cass county, Nebraska, should be more definitely fixed, therefore be it

Resolved, that the boundary lines of said precincts be and the same are hereby defined and fixed as follows: "The boundary lines of Liberty precinct shall commence at the southwest corner of section 34, township 10, north of range 13, east, thence east on the south line of township 10 to the middle of the main channel of the Missouri river, thence up said channel to its intersection with the north line of township 10, thence west on said township line to the northwest corner of section 13, east, thence south on said west line to the place of beginning."

"The boundary lines of Rock Bluffs precinct shall commence at the southwest corner of section 31, township 11, north of range 13, east, thence east on township line to the middle of the main channel of the Missouri river, thence up said channel to its intersection with the north line of township 11, thence west on township line to the northwest corner of section 6, township 11, north of range 13, east, thence south to the place of beginning."

"The boundary lines of Plattsmouth precinct shall commence at the southwest corner of section 31, township 12, north of range 13, east, thence east to the middle of the main channel of the Missouri river, and co-extensive eastward with Cass county, thence up the middle of said channel to its intersection with the middle of the main channel of the Platte river, thence up the middle of the said channel of the Platte river to its intersection with the range line between ranges 12 and 13 east, thence south of said range line to the place of beginning."

Board adjourned to meet June 1, 1897.

JAMES ROBERTSON, County Clerk.

Their Thirtieth Anniversary. Bernard Wurl and his worthy wife celebrated their thirtieth wedding anniversary last evening. A large crowd of friends and relatives gathered at their hospitable home, where a splendid supper was served and a very enjoyable evening was spent. The five sons of Mr. and Mrs. Wurl were all present and helped to entertain the guests. The Mandolin club was there and discoursed some choice music. It was an evening long to be remembered by the host and hostess, as well as fortunate guests, who were all of one mind in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Wurl the return of many more happy anniversaries.

INFORMATION AND OPINIONS.

The time has again arrived when the small boy takes daily journeys to the river or lake for a pleasant "swim." When we see them signal each other from different parts of the street by holding up two fingers, their object is not so very obscure, and serves to remind us of days when we were about their size; when we would swim about the pond as smoothly as any of them, and when we would bask in the mud near the bank like turtles and throw mud-balls at the frogs when they endeavored to gain the bank. It reminds us of the merry times we had paddling around on a hollow log, paying no attention whatever to the contumacious bites and stings of flies and mosquitoes. On a real warm day when the small boy is on his "swim," he is as happy as one may ever expect to see him, and it is apparent he has every reason for being so.

The crew of a Union Pacific extra-ent-bound freight had an exciting experience near Nichols, on the third Nebraska division, at a late hour Wednesday night. Fire was discovered in a furniture car loaded with wool. Every effort was made to save the car and its contents, but with no avail. The train was cut and the car turned over on its side, but the wool kept right on burning. The entire carload of wool, as well as the car, were burned completely. The wool was being shipped to Hollowell & Donald of Boston and was from Mountain Home, Idaho. The origin of the fire is unknown. As the locomotive was throwing out no fire at the time, and as the car was tightly sealed, it is thought the fire originated from spontaneous combustion.—Bee

A great many people will laugh you to scorn if you express your belief that there can be such a thing as a "broken heart." This is, probably, because their own heart is so likened to stone as to be unbreakable. Almost any girl who has been in love some time or other, when asked to give her definition of "love," will tell you it is an inspiration mainly of the heart—not of the mind; then, if that opinion be true, why can not an unfortunate love affair equally affect that organ? Occasionally we see a girl with drooping head and pale cheeks, who, it is claimed, does not get enough exercise or fresh air—yet her affliction is generally located nearer the heart, and can be more appropriately termed a "broken heart." While a "broken heart" is said to be chiefly contracted through an unfortunate love affair, yet as time rolls on and the mind of the afflicted is turned away from thoughts of past events, nature's healing process covers valiantly to the rescue and covers up any marks that may have been inflicted.

The New Omaha Road.

Another evidence of the progress being made by the Kansas City, Pittsburg & Gulf railroad is offered by the filing of a mortgage, or trust deed, for $15,000,000, conveying all rights of the Omaha, Minneapolis & Buffalo railway company to the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Trust company of Kansas City, says the Bee. The former company has no railroad, nor part of a railroad, in operation. It was incorporated to build a railroad through Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan and Canada to Buffalo. The Missouri, Kansas & Texas Trust company is the corporation that is looking after the financial end of the Kansas City, Pittsburg & Gulf railroad. The principal offices of the railway company are to be in Omaha.

The trust deed was filed Wednesday afternoon at the court house in this city. Similar deeds have, or soon will be, filed in every county in which the proposed railroad will, when constructed, operate. The deed recites that at the meeting of the stockholders of the Omaha, Minneapolis & Buffalo railway company, held in this city March 1, 1897, it was resolved to issue bonds for $15,000,000 at $15,000 for every mile of railroad built, purchased or acquired. The board of directors resolved to issue 30,000 coupon bonds of $500 each at 5 per cent interest, payable in gold of the present standard of value, or in sterling money free of all government tax or duty, which, if levied, is to be paid by the company. The mortgage includes all lines and branches built or to be built. The bonds are to be issued at the rate of $15,000 for each mile of the railroad as it may be built.

The mortgage was executed in Kansas City by J. L. Brown, president of the Omaha, Minneapolis & Buffalo railway company, and J. McD. Trimble, vice president of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Trust company. It is attested by P. E. Brown, jr., secretary of the former corporation, and A. C. Robinson, secretary of the latter company.

A Typical New England.

Indian Ridge, says Alvan F. Sanborn, speaking of a typical New England community in The Atlantic, has all the defects of all its qualities, and possibly some others besides. It is narrowly partisan in its politics; gossiping and meddling in its temper toward matters of purely private concern; religion, here as elsewhere, in spite of a general wholesomeness, is not entirely free from hypocrisy, morality from inhumanity and self-complacency, integrity from cruel hardness, nor thrift and foresight from parsimoniousness and worry. It is very little alive to the finer issues of country living. Most of them are not so much as suspected by it. For all the mutual helpfulness and abounding sense of humor, the life lacks flexibility, meliorousness, warmth, emotion and emotional expression. It is indisputably trite. Nevertheless Indian Ridge exemplifies the best tendencies of the New England country. These tendencies, owing to its comparative isolation, have been manifested in unique and homely ways in some instances, but the tendencies are the less sound and healthy on that account. They are present to a considerable if not an equal degree, not in all, not in the majority, perhaps, but in many of the rural communities in every one of the New England states. If all instead of a small part of these communities were even thus liberally endowed, there could be no plaint over the decadence of rural New England, for they have in them the germs of permanent progress. Rather they are themselves the very essence of corporate life.

Harnessing the Ether.

Tesla once made a remark which was full of the spirit of future progress in the matter of lighting. "It is of not little interest," he said, "to contemplate that there may be a possible way of producing—by other than chemical means—a veritable flame which would give light and heat without any material being consumed, without any chemical process taking place, and to accomplish this we only need to perfect methods of producing enormous frequencies and potentials."

The words of Mr. Tesla contain a suggestion the full meaning of which has lately been more thoroughly understood. To produce something from nothing has ever been a great human problem not always solvable. Here is a scientific point out a scientific way of accomplishing the feat. The hidden meaning of the remark is not hard to discern. His words would seem to intimate that we have been employing exceedingly crude methods of light production; that in the laboratory of nature means and material exist which may be procured and used for the mere asking; that our proper course would be to first see how light is produced in nature, and then as far as possible to go and do likewise.

The harnessing of the ether means the solution of many great secrets of the universe, the utilization of natural light, the subtle transmission of speech through miles of space, and the greatest triumph science has yet known—Theodore Waters in Exchange.

Socials.

An English statistician says there is not much of a psychological mystery in the fact that so many more people commit suicide in summer than in winter, and he does not think that the difference is in any large measure due to the direct effect of cold upon human minds and bodies. It must be borne in memory, he says, that drowning is the commonest method of self destruction and resort to it is difficult or impossible when rivers and ponds are covered with ice. This accounts for a part of the decrease. Another part is explained by the circumstance that in cold weather people live more in association, and there is thus less opportunity for committing suicide. He does not think, however, that it is possible to explain the matter wholly without reference to the depressing effects of cold on the nervous system and the exciting effects of heat. It requires some energy and determination to commit suicide, and this is lacking in a person suffering from extreme cold. All these considerations working together, the result is that many people endure through the winter a life which they have ceased to value and throw it away when the season comes in which the material difficulties in the way of continued existence are at their minimum.

All the Same.

At one of our large north country churches recently a fashionably dressed lady happened to go into one of the private pews.

The verger, who is known to be a very stern old chap, immediately bustled up to her and said: "I'm afraid, miss, you'll ha' to cum out o' that. This is a young lady."

"Sir," said the young lady, turning sharply round, "do you know who I am? I'm one of the Fines."

"I dinna care," said the old man, "if you are the big drum, you'll ha' to cum out."—Edinburgh Scotsman.

A Critic of Durer.

A woman visitor to the Durer collection on exhibition in New York had the present day assurance to criticise this old master as follows: "One can but notice how modeling, at least, has grown into an exact science, and what a difference there is between such figure drawing as Durer's and that of any bright young art student nowadays. Why, the flesh seems to hang in bunches upon his nudes. One would think that they were all afflicted with tumors."

One of the British Medical association delegates contends that every cow should be examined by a veterinary surgeon and marked before being admitted to the dairy and its milk sold.

It appears from the testimony of Gerwas, the monk of Canterbury, who flourished about the year 1200, that organs were introduced more than 100 years before this time.

SPECIAL MARKET LETTER

The following market letter is furnished us by McLEAN, BROS. & Co., Commission Merchants, Baito Building, Chicago:

There have been encouraging signs of improvement in general business the past week, which augur well for the future, and although not pronounced enough, in more than a few lines, to warrant the prospect of a general revival of trade, they are sufficiently significant to inspire hope of a gradual renewal of commercial and industrial activity causing a greater demand for money for purely commercial uses and a fair increase in the total bank clearings of the country as compared with those at the corresponding time one year ago.

The armistice between the Greek and Turkish armies has developed a more stable feeling abroad, which has been reflected in the volume of business in foreign exchanges, and in improved demand for American securities. The possibilities which the Cuban question presents tends to restrict any marked improvement, however, and the prospect of an active domestic inquiry for stocks and bonds.

Our wheat market still rates active and irregular, and is daily attracting the attention of a greater number of operators, from the possibilities that the situation presents. While the auspicious weather exerts a bearish influence and encourages free short selling whenever there are any indications of weakness, the rapid depletion of stocks and the fear of the consequences of their reduction to the point of actual scarcity soon checks the selling on long account.

The long wheat, being largely held by a few wealthy operators, does not come on the market on the breaks, on short orders and exhausted margins, as it usually does when held by a large number of scattered traders, rendering it difficult for shorts to provide for more than a small portion of their contracts without causing a sharp advance.

Late advices from France indicate a state of affairs that ere long may generate a decidedly bullish sentiment despite the gloomy reports of crop prospecting from the south and northwest. It is claimed that the yield in that country shows an average condition 12 per cent below that of a year ago, on an acreage 8 per cent less, and that the import requirements will be 12,000,000 bu for the remainder of this crop year and 72,000,000 bu for the next. These estimates have inspired the local contingent with fresh courage, and have emboldened a few to add liberally to their holdings.

The fact that many mills in the winter wheat section have been closed because of the difficulty in procuring suitable wheat to grind, in the face of the city of supplies in first hands, and the courage the belief that but little of the new crop will reach our market for some time after its movement fairly begins.

With an increase in the foreign demand, which the French advices suggest, there are substantial reasons for the belief that before the end of July the situation may become acute. Foreign markets as well as our own have been influenced by optimistic estimates of America's probable yield and are in position to respond quickly to any indication that will present less roseate views. These estimates are all based on the result of the spring wheat sowings, which as yet have merely a favorable start, and still have to encounter the vicissitudes of almost an entire season's growth. There has already been so much damage to winter wheat that the spring variety must mature well, but little damage to insure an abundant total and private advices still further damage to the winter crop are becoming more numerous, the Russian fly having become discouragingly active in many localities. Both bulls and bears realize that the weather in the near future is the most important market factor, and that any change that would cause further injury to the crop would be the signal for a rapid advance.

There is but little to be said of the coarse grains, which rule rather steady and easy except when influenced by wheat. Receipts are increasing, and western operators are inclined to sell, being influenced by large supplies and an increase in the acreage planted this year.

The visible supply of grain in the United States and Canada shows the following changes for the week: Wheat decreased 1,441,000 bu, corn decreased 2,395,000 bu and oats decreased 1,087,000 bu.
