THOSE tears our friend Bryan is shedding for India because of high priced flour are very good in their place, but Nebraska is not the right place to exhibit these paroxysms of grief.

INDIA has enjoyed the blessing of free silver coinage for years until a few months ago, and yet its prosperity is of such a feeble nature that a short crop sends millions into a starving condition.

W. H. THOMPSON is now being groomed by the Tribune press for the United States senate to succeed Thurston.

THE opportunity for demagogic mouthings which the Hazleton affair has given is being used by the flat press in lurid fashion.

THE Journal seems to be fearful lest we espouse the election of J. J. Sullivan rather than Judge Post.

JUDGE D. M. STRONG of North Bend has written a letter of acceptance in which he clearly figures out how the prohibition issue is the only real vital issue now before the American people.

THE popocratic press makes an amusing attack on the Dingley act says the State Journal, which allows a returning tourist from abroad to bring in his trunk not more than $100 worth of foreign goods.

NONE but anarchists and their demagogic sympathizers, ever fear the strong arm of the law, and array them selves against the government.

FOREIGNER PAYS THE TAX. THE apple growers of Kansas and Nebraska are having a little practical experience in regard to the tariff question.

The above is pretty good, coming from a democratic organ, and goes to prove what republicans claim, viz: that the consumer does not always pay the tariff, but that the foreigner who wants to sell in our market is the one that the tariff hits.

It is currently reported that our Mathew Gering's great zeal for fusion this fall, is all brought about by his desire for a fusion nomination for congress next year.

It seems to us that most any democrat would have been preferable to the populists than Judge Sullivan, who the democrats have nominated for supreme judge.

It is amusing to note the twaddle of the democratic papers in their efforts to persuade their readers that they are afflicted with "hard times."

All law abiding people will suspend judgment until the proper tribunals have passed upon the case, and they will accept their decision whatever it may be.

THE party of political hunger and unrest, through its organ, the Journal, said something about nepotism not long ago.

THE PENNSYLVANIA RIOT. The New York Sun printed a carefully written and circumstantial report of the events which led up to the recent unfortunate collision between the sheriff at Hazleton and his deputies and the Hun-Pole strikers.

Stated in the fewest possible words the story of the riot and the tragedy is as follows: The strikers in question struck originally without a grievance.

With the renewal of the strike they inaugurated a succession of acts of violence. Miners who refused to join them were beaten by the striking miners and their wives. They armed themselves and went from colliery to colliery, calling out men and assaulting those who would not join them.

Such is the plain story of the affair as it has been gathered from various sources. It will be seen that it affords no justification for the incendiary speeches and resolutions which were delivered and passed last Sunday.

The village of Union is wrestling with the measles, and a number of children in that village are confined to the house by the disease.

It is singular that when any one suggests that any of the candidates are backed by the Watson faction they jump and deny it.

INFORMATION AND OPINION.

An Ohio lad of tender years left home two years ago without saying a word to his parents.

The village of Union is wrestling with the measles, and a number of children in that village are confined to the house by the disease.

It is singular that when any one suggests that any of the candidates are backed by the Watson faction they jump and deny it.

We predict that Nebraska will roll up one of her old-time majorities this fall and that Cass county, as usual, will be heard from in no uncertain sound.
