"A Victim of a Crime."

A very small but well-pleased aud. ence assembled at White's opera house last evening to witness that most sensational of all comedy-dramas. "A Victim of a Crime." For fully two hours and a half the audience were entertained in a most pleasing monner, and Manager Kirke has every reason to expect better patronage from our theatre- goers than was received last evening.

Quick as a flash as the net of justice slowly winds around the guilty one, the suspense and interest manifested by the audience can be better imagined than described. The specialities which the company carries, and which are given between acts, were very pleasing and provoked loud applause.

The company remains in the city an entire week, giving a change of program nightly. Tonight the company appears in "Midnight Watch," and it idly from the rear. is safe to predict that the opera house will be filled to the doors, as the company merits all the patronage which it can possibly receive.

It seems that last Sunday evening John took his wife and five children to church at Eight Mile Grove, and when they went in and got seated, John did not remember until the setmon was half over that he was shy one youngster which he had left than asleep in the sleigh.
