TRANSPLANTED TO NEW FIELDS.

See the Cook Crows a Harness Maker His Hobbies—Homes—Miss Carey's Entertainment Postponed Other Local Events.

From Last Night's News.

This morning about 4 o'clock, eight police, Murray, heard a noise near the alley south of I. Pearlman's furniture store. He heard a team drive up and back up to a certain house. His suspicions were aroused. Thinking something wrong, the officer accosted the man and inquired what he was doing at that unseasonable hour with a team and wagon, bustling about just as though this were the last day.

The man was U. S. Horton, a harness maker who was recently discharged from the employ of August Gorder. He informed the officer that he was making preparations to move out of town and asked him to inform Mr. Pearlman that he would see him later—about next Tuesday, perhaps.

Horton was married but a short time ago and purchased a large bill of household goods from Mr. Pearlman, giving a mortgage on them. Officer Murray concluded the fellow had it in his mind to get the goods out of town and leave the furniture man to hold the sack. The officer aroused Mr. Pearlman and the two gentlemen proceeded to the house occupied by Horton. When they arrived there they found his jobs had flown, taking with him considerable of the household goods, but leaving all upon which Pearlman had the mortgage.

He left the key to the house with a neighbor and a note for Pearlman saying that he would inform him next Tuesday where to ship the goods he had left behind. It is said quite a number of business men mourn his departure to the amount of "steep dollars or so each."

Performance Postponed.

That it is possible for one person to present a play in which fifteen characters take part, as acceptably as if each character were represented by a particular individual, will be demonstrated to the people of Plattsburgh on Monday evening next at the opera house.

Mrs. Mattie Quinn Carey, dramatic entertainer and memologue artist, whose engagement was announced for tonight, has postponed her recital until Monday evening. She will then recite Victor Hugo's celebrated drama, "Angels and the Actress of Padua." The scene of the play is the city of Padua, Italy, during the time that Padua was a dependency of Venice. The fifteen characters are entirely different, one from another, in passions, manners and life; the story is thrilling and intensely fascinating. This play has been presented by the greatest exponents of dramatic art in London as well as New York.

Lovers of high class entertainment in this city may be assured of a splendid evening next Monday at a price within the reach of all.

Klondikers Heard From.

The Plattsburgh boys who recently started for the Klondike country have been heard from at Seattle, where they arrived in good health and spirits Tuesday. The letter stated they would sail for Juneau either Friday of this week or Tuesday of next week. At Denver a few days ago, Mark White, one of the party, purchased five New Foundland dogs to take along on the trip. The boys say that Mark forgot himself and imagining he was in Plattsburgh, proceeded to show the boys a hot time by giving them a circus in the streets with his dogs. The police ran Mark and the dogs in. Mark had a good time while it lasted all the same.

Arrested For Shooting.

Joseph Sebasta today filed information before Judge Archer against Lewis Meeks with promiscuous shooting inside the city limits. The complainant averred that on several occasions bullets from Meeks's gun had come uncomfortably near him and he feared that sometime he might be dispatched forthwith to the land where they don't shovel snow, hence the complaint.

Judge Archer will adjust the matter this evening after the show closes, both men being employed there. The ordinance provides for a fine of not less than $5 nor more than $20.

Notwithstanding the many social events that occurred last evening the Christian church was again crowded to hear the brilliant young evangelist, H. A. Lemon. His sermon, "The Church," was one of most interesting addresses that has been heard in this city for many months. Three more people—one gentleman and two young ladies—went forward to the altar and promised to follow the teachings of the bible. This makes fifty people who have been converted during these revivals.

The Plattsburgh Edition.

Mr. C. Ralph Brinton, Jr., representing Campbell's Illustrated Journal, the widely-known Journal of World's Fair fame, which has located offices at Omaha, is meeting with encouraging success in his prospect of writing an illustrated history of Plattsburgh and Cass county. Mr. Brinton is meeting with the warmest support of our leading citizens, especially those are possessed of substantial and slightly residences, and also of the city council and board of county commissioners. Our live and up-to-date citizens are embracing this rare opportunity of putting to the front Plattsburgh's inducements to the outside world of inventors who are constantly looking for a location in which to invest their money.

The Journal which Mr. Brinton represents, has its circulation amongst boards of trade, real estate exchanges, trust and banking associations all over the country, thereby reaching the class of people with whom we should be brought in contact. Campbell's Illustrated Journal gained a reputation for his publication during the World's Fair at Chicago, being the only publication to receive an award of honor for high-class illustrations and authentic histories concerning that great exposition.

The publication is now being devoted to the furtherance of Nebraska's interests, and no better time than the present, nor no better medium than Campbell's Journal will ever be given to the people of this community to put before the great mass of people who will visit the commonwealth, just such inducements as they have to offer for an investment of capital with a sure return of good profits. It is the duty of every business man and private citizen of Plattsburgh to do all that is possible to make a creditable showing of our city and county's resources, and nothing will do this so well as to have our principal business blocks, private residences and attractive surroundings fully portrayed in the write-up.

The illustrations are all copper engravings of the highest order, and the Journal, aside from its virtue as an advertising medium of the city's future, is a work of art that may be kept as a souvenir of the Omaha Trans-mississippi exposition, of which it will give a complete history, together with high class engraving of each building and exhibit. Mr. Brinton has nearly completed his work here, and should be liberally aided to secure all available material for this most worthy undertaking.

A Born Character Reader.

Prof. R. J. Black, who is well known in this city and who at present is in the south, was recently at his old home in Vinton, Ia., and the Cedar Rapids, Ia., Republicans, in speaking of his remarkable philological gifts, says: "Prof. R. J. Black, of Nebraska City, Neb., spent last evening in the city enroute for his old home in Vinton. He was a guest at the Grand hotel, and a number of traveling men and citizens, including Col. R. G. Ingersoll and party, invited him to the parlor for an entertainment of philology. The professor was in the best of spirits, and for two hours entertained the company most royally, his wit keeping the company in a roar of laughter. At the close Col. Ingersoll applauded the professor, took him by the hand and gave him the following compliment: "You are a natural born reader of character; you have the divine spark, the touch of nature, the poetic and pathetic intuition that cannot be acquired by study. I congratulate you. You stand on the threshold of a great career, as you are the best reader of character that ever came under my observation." Professor Black has been in Plattsburgh several times and always made a good impression on those he saw any of his work. The last time he was here he furnished amusement for the court house crowd by reading the character of each officer and several attorneys. He has promised to return to Plattsburgh at an early date.

The King's Daughters Entertain.

There was considerable method in the madness of the "Mad March Party" given last evening by the King's daughters at Mrs. Agnew's. It was decidedly original in its get-up, but most entertaining in all its features. The young ladies and many of the guests were dressed in old-time costumes and a program consisting of music, recitations and an old-fashioned spelling school were pleasant features of the evening's entertainment. The refreshments consisting of delicious ices, sandwiches and tea were served contrary to the established order of precedence, to carry out the idea of its being a Mad March party. Everyone had a good time as the crowded parlors up to a very late hour testified, and a nice sum of money was realized by the young ladies in charge for the church.

Were Nicely Entertained.

Miss Alice Shipman, a member of the senior class of the High school, entertained the other young ladies of her class from 3 to 6 yesterday afternoon. Elegant refreshments were served and the dining table was beautifully decorated with pink roses.

Talismanic souvenirs were placed at each plate which was supposed to mark the future of the recipient, and much merriment ensued when each read her future lot.

The following couple fell to the lot of one of the young ladies, which seemed hardly fair: "Full of oil thou employ thy art, yet never exhaust laddies' heart."

Miss Shipman, assisted by Mrs. Shipman and the latter's sister, proved splendid entertainers and a more enjoyable afternoon could not have been desired by fair the seniors.

Woman's Club Meeting.

The Travel department of the Woman's club, Mrs. C. C. Parmele, leader, furnished the program for last evening's meeting. The topic for the evening was most interesting and the papers were carefully prepared, showing study and research. Mrs. Travis talked about the gold fields of California; Mrs. Howland about the "Gold Fields of the Rockies," while Miss Gass had "Alaska" for her subject. Mrs. Wise read a short essay on the 49ers; Mrs. Davis gave a talk on the "Old Overland Trail"; and Mrs. Herold an instructive paper on "Methods of Mining." Some business was transacted and the club adjourned.

Don't Know Just Where They Are At—Planning to Capture City Offices—A New Church Edifice In View—Other Events.

A meeting was arranged for last night at the office of J. M. Loyda, of the populist and free silver republican wheel horses, to discuss the feasibility of uniting forces in the coming city campaign, with a view to capturing all the lucrative city offices, and possibly inaugurating a new system of government for the city of Plattsburgh which would revolutionize the financial, commercial and social system of government from stern to gaudium. The so-called free silver republican and populist leaders got together and talked matters over as to the best methods of saving the country, capturing the offices and doling out jobs. The boys evidently had not compared notes, and were not certain as to just what tactics to pursue, so after "chewing the rag" awhile, adjourned to meet Monday night, when it is presumed they will lay their plans to capture everything in sight at the coming election.

From the inside we learn the slate is practically made up as follows: Mayor, Dr. Cummins; clerk, Dr. Eistner; treasurer, M. Morris; police judge, H. D. Barr; councilman First ward, W. D. Messersmith; Second ward, Andrew Dill; Third ward, John Cory; Fourth ward, Robt. Vass; Fifth ward, J. D. Tatt; City Attorney, J. M. Loyda.

At a meeting of the board of trustees of the M. E. church last evening, steps were taken looking toward the erection of a new place of worship in the city. A society that has paid off a debt of $11,000 in one year, as was done by this congregation, is certainly deserving of a handsome edifice in which to worship. We note with pleasure the evidences of prosperity attending this organization, and wish it success in its new enterprise.

A Pleasant Birthday.

Mrs. J. Pearlman gave her bright little daughter, Ida, a birthday party yesterday afternoon to which quite a number of her little girl friends were invited. It was Ida's eleventh birthday anniversary and she and her guests had a good time. When a News reporter looked in they were enjoying a feast of good things to eat which would make a newspaper man envious. Mrs. Pearlman was assisted by Margaret Warren and Edna Peterson.

The guests were the Misses Herma Spies, Louise Drummond, Clara Johnson, Helen Dovey, Nellie Anthony, Helen Sherman, Pauline Davis, May and Edna Peterson, Gretchen Donnelly, Nellie Gault, Maggie Warren, Jessie Olson, Blanche Robertson and Iva and Willie Pearlman.

Our Sunday Morning Edition.

THE NEWS greets nearly 10,000 readers this morning in a special edition, which contains the latest telegraphic news, together with a melange of interesting happenings about town. A Sunday morning paper is a new venture in this city, and we are not sure that we can afford the added expense, but if our patrons appreciate our efforts to the extent that it is not a losing venture, we will make THE SUNDAY MORNING NEWS a regular visitor.

Successful merchants who have something to sell seek the best medium to reach the people, and only by their patronage can a morning paper be sustained in this city.

Republican Committee Meeting.

The republican city central committee met Saturday evening and talked over the date for primaries and convention, but no time was fixed, the matter being left open until Monday. The best of feeling prevailed, and the certainty of the election of a republican ticket at the county election was conceded by all.

Chapman Reversed Again.

The supreme court has shown slight regard for ex-Judge Chapman's legal opinions and at every sitting where a Cass county case was up for the last two years has reversed him. The latest case of Mr. Chapman's got the following treatment yesterday: Cooley vs. Jansen. Appeal from Cass county. Reversed and dismissed. Opinion by Chief Justice Harrison.

1. The title to lands of which a man dies seized which he has not devised and which during his life and at the time of his death was the homestead of himself and family vests in the widow for life and remainder in the heirs exempt from any liability for the payment of debts existing against either the husband or wife at the time of his death except such as exist or have been created of the kinds and in the manner prescribed in the chapter of the statutes relative to homesteads; and this is true whether she after the death of the husband occupies the property as a homestead or not.

2. The right of an administrator to possession of the real estate of which his decedent died seized arises from his being subject to payment of the debts of the decedent and is not of force relative to a homestead.
