The Wolves Just Laughed.

Sitting in Thede Wyman's store, a little group of villagers in Sebec, Me., talked of wolves, now seldom seen in Maine, but which half a century ago were much in evidence. William Lyford told the story of Seth Brown's chase of two wolves on snowshoes.

"You know Seth," said "One of the smartest and handiest men in his day that ever cut timber trees or drove the Penobscot. Up in the Ripogon region one February he was out prospecting for timber tracts. The snow was deep, with a light crust, just strong enough to hold up a man on snowshoes. Coming upon a little rise of land in a timber swamp one day, he saw two wolves a little way ahead of him. The crust would not bear them, and they could only wallow along in the snow. Seth would tackle anything that ever ranged the woods. He had no gun, but he set out after the wolves with his ax. What did those wolves do but circle round until they got back upon Seth's tracks. You know how in light snow the steps of a man in snowshoes will pack down the snow. Once the wolves got to Seth's tracks the snowshoes (prints) held them up, and they just ran on them in a circle till he gave up the chase. He was so near that he could almost have thrown his ax to them, and he couldn't get a step nearer. Seth said the wolves sat on their haunches and laughed at him when he had to give up and start along."—New York Sun.

Too Young to Talk So.

We have learned to expect it from many of the married women and from some of the bachelor maids. But out of the lips of a mere lassie, gently reared, a girl still living at home with her mother, skepticism gives one a shock, declares a writer in the New York Press.

A woman of fashion in a checked dress and a great dahlia colored hat, accompanied by a man in modish garments, was tripping along Fifth avenue. She was chatting with marked animation and he was laughing heartily. The attention of the passersby was attracted by the happy couple.

Behind the pair chanced to walk a lassie—the one yet living at home with mamma—and an older woman, a friend of mamma. The lassie spied the modaine in checks and dahlia velvet on ahead and puckered her brow, saying: "Oh, I know that woman—have seen her often at Newport. She is dreadful rich. Now, I remember. She is Mrs. Morris Blankly."

The friend of mamma was interested. She asked: "And is the attentive man with Mrs. Blankly her husband?"

The lassie shrugged her shoulders and scorned the very idea.

"Ridiculous," she replied. "You dear, old fashioned thing, don't you know that women's husbands never laugh in that good tempered way when they are with their wives."

The Imitative Japanese.

A good story is told by St. Barbe of the imitativeness of the Japanese, which is easily credible, for was it not a Japanese who when he was told to make a coat to pattern—the old one being sent—so faithfully did he carry out the order that a rent and darn in one of the tails was carefully executed in the new garment?

"At a certain reception we were asked in morning dress, but knowing people wore their crush theater hats. When we got down to the gunroom, which was devoted to gentlemen's cloaks, the gentleman immediately before me took off his theater hat, crushed it against his breastbone, wrapped it up in his dust cloak and handed it to the Japanese in charge.

"I took off my hat and dust cloak and handed them. To my horror the Jap took hold of my hat by the brim and crushed it against his breastbone as he had seen my predecessor do. Unfortunately the gentleman's hat would not work at first, and he had to use a great deal of force before the springs would fold down. The Japanese therefore saw nothing in my hat's unwillingness to work, but just crushed it and folded my cloak round it.

"When I expostulated, he smiled and presented me with a paper flower—I suppose as a peace offering."

A Phillips Brooks Anecdote.

At the dinner given in his honor in Philadelphia Dr. McVickar, the bishop coadjutor of Rhode Island, told this characteristic anecdote of the late Phillips Brooks: "I remember a few years ago I was traveling with one of the grandest bishops and one of the grandest men of the century. I was sauntering with him from church in Lucerne, in Switzerland, and he said something so boyish and fresh, just as he was ever wont to do. I stopped and looked at him and said, 'Brooks, it seems so strange that you should be a bishop.' He looked at me with almost a startled expression, and he said, 'McVickar, it seems so strange to me that sometimes, when I am putting on my clothes, I have to stop and laugh.' It was just the freshness of that man which always kept him young, and which, I am sure, you will understand as I give it, for I venture to say there has never been such a bishop in our or any other church."

Superstitious.

Mrs. Keeley, the veteran English actress, tells an anecdote of a young actress who in the play is a boy. She is taken before a judge, who asks sternly, "Now, where are your accomplices?" And the young actress, by a happy thought, improved on the author and answered in artless tone: "I don't wear any. They keep up without."

Holloway's bread, which has taken the lead, is made of Heisel's Plansifter flour.

Get Off the Earth.

Just as well be out of the world as to be out of fashion is an old and trite saying. It applies aptly in many things but in nothing quite so apt as regards one's clothing. One cannot appear well, feel comfortable and look dresy with a suit of clothes on which fits very much like a gunny sack over a fence post. A suit or trousers made by a tailor is a thing of beauty and exceeding joy. While they cost a trifle more than a good hand me down or eastern so-called custom made (in sweat shops) the fit is so much more satisfactory and the service so much better that you will always get better values for your money. We carry a large assortment of suiting and pantings. Cleaning and repairing neatly done. J. C. PTAKE, Merchant Tailor, Bank of Cass County Block.

Dovey's Prices.

Doveys have been in business here for more than a quarter of a century and never have they sold shoddy or inferior goods in all these years. The prices they quote in the big ad in this paper may seem like they are too low for the class of goods they carry, but they are the result of close buying and a determination to sell more goods at closer margins. It will pay you to read their ad and inspect their goods.
