Perry-Pitman.
On Wednesday evening, the 22d inst., about sixty friends assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Pitman, south of Murray, to witness the marriage of their daughter, Adda, to Glenn Perry of Eight Mile Grove. Rev. J. D. Oldham of the United Presbyterian church performed the ceremony. Miss Ethel Perry, sister of the groom, acted as bridesmaid and Mr. Charles Spangler as best man.

After congratulations were extended the guests were led to the dining room, which was beautifully decorated with smilax, ferns and roses, and there was served a sumptuous wedding supper.

The bride was attired in a beautiful white organdie, while the groom wore the conventional black.

The presents were many and beautiful, among other things two bedroom suits, rocking chairs, center tables and many pieces of silverware.

The newly-wedded couple departed over the M. P. railroad to visit friends in Omaha and Lincoln. In the latter place a reception is to be tendered them.

A Royal Kensington.
Mrs. Thos. Kempton is in Denver, so Mr. Kempton concluded to entertain some of his gentleman friends in a proper manner, and he invited them to a "Kensington" party last evening.

What was the evening amusement, and they say the King was hilarious over it all evening long. The neighbors who it was the poorest crowd that ever assembled in that part of town. They got a row am out his success that the king took am out and stood him on his head and made him hunch over him 3 1/2.

It was a jolly crowd, the refreshments were refreshing and the cigars were fine. Mr. Kempton was voted a royal host, and it was not until a late hour that the guests repaired to their homes. The present was very.

Company B Will Move.

Captain Sheldon went to Omaha last evening in order to have an interview with Col. Bry n. He learned that company B would be called to Omaha to be mustered in either Tuesday or Wednesday of next week. Several members of the company were excused until Monday, and they will go home and make final arrangements for their departure.

There has been a little rumormongering about the fact that some of the boys in the weight might count on not being so far as to prevent it in passing under the army surgeon's examination.

A MASTERLESS MAID.

A masterless maid, with my heart in my keeping,
I wander the world, and I'll wait for night,
With gladness my portion where others know weeping.

And mirth for my sorrows, where others
read pain,
With most appealing, as to the love,
God's world in its fairness his birthright to me.

'Twill me and the sunshine the eyes of no
lover,
All soft tones evading I laugh and go free.

Adown purple hills steal the mists of the coming
ing,
But five are my thoughts that that future
may be,
The lark's sky born anthem, the velvet bee's
humming,

Sound sweeter than love word or love song
to me,
Yet sometimes I linger and hush in my singing
ing,
And wait for the passing of unsteady feet,
And sigh when I hear baby laughter soft ringing,
And wonder awhile if my freedom be sweet.

Yet sometimes comes wanting, unchecked and unchecked,
When cold falls God's sunlight athwart the
pale grass,
And down in the daisies I kneel me, face hidden,
And kiss the kind earth baby footsteps will pass.

—London Spectator.

The Chinaman's Horses.

The Chinese are not usually credited with merciful qualities, but if the man is merciful who is merciful to his beast the quality must be natural to many Chinese in America.

The few Chinese in our great cities who deliver goods to their countrymen or have other uses for horses often possess sleek and well fed animals whose care shows great fondness and generosity.

The Oregonian says that there is a Chinese vegetable peddler in Portland whose two horses have long been admired by his customers. He feeds them on the street, and one day lately some passersby, who saw that the man always seemed to be concocting some special dish for the team, watched him prepare their luncheon.

First he led the horses into the shade, loosened the traces and took off the bridles. Then he took a nosebag for each, and into each bag poured a good measure of rolled barley. Next he cut up some carrots small, put them into the nosebags and mixed them up with the barley. Finally he went to his wagon and got four eggs; two of which he broke into each measure, and stirred them up with the barley and carrots.

The horses watched all these preparations with great interest and were "correspondingly elated," as the election dispatches say, when the election dispatches say, when the bags containing the appetizing mixture were hung on their noses. They proceeded to eat with gusto, and the Chinaman turned to a frugal lunch of his own, which apparently consisted of an onion and a piece of dry bread.

White drivers who give their horses a nicer lunch than they themselves eat are probably rare, east or west.

Remenyl and Pumpernickel.

"My first meeting with Remenyl," says H. J. Cleveland, "was over a lively stable in Council Bluffs. A concert hall was there and he was to play. A jackass in a stall beneath persistently brayed. Remenyl would not play. I was on my way to Japan, or thought I was, and introduced myself to him after his audience had been dismissed. He begged of me to find some pumpernickel for him. I searched Pearl street resorts until I found some and took it to his room. He ate with satisfaction and then played for me, played until, boy as I was, I cried. That was at 2 o'clock in the morning, and in a large hotel filled with people in their nightrobes before that private concert ended. His love for pumpernickel was no more strange than that of Jumanoshek for stale beer, and I have got many a pint of that for her after a most thrilling depiction of Mary, queen of Scots."—Chicago Times-Herald.

Sensible.

"Who is that I see you feeding nearly every night in the kitchen, Nellie?"
"That's my intended, the policeman, ma'am."

"Well, if he's your intended, why don't you marry him?"
"I'm waitin' till his appetite goes down a bit, ma'am."—Yonkers Statesman.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is, at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.
