

AN OLD CASE DISMISSED

Famous Canning Company Case Thrown Out of Court.

Directors Signed Notes For Money to Keep the Institution Running And When It Collapsed $10,000 Indebtedness Remained Unpaid, Which the Stockholders Were Invited to Help Pay.

From Monday's Daily.

Word was received Saturday night from D. A. Campbell, clerk of the supreme court, that the case of Gordon and others, against Connor and others had been reversed and the case dismissed. The case is locally known as the Canning company case, and has been a subject of most vigorous litigation in this county for six or eight years past.

The facts were that during the brief life of the canning company its directors signed notes for large amounts that money might be raised for the use of the company. As the directors would change, so would the signers on the notes change. Finally, when the corporation went the way of all life, it was discovered that about $10,000 indebtedness remained unpaid, with nothing but the plant of the company mortgaged to secure same. The foreclosure of this mortgage was resisted by numerous stockholders, but eventually the right of the directors to foreclose and sell the property, was established. As a result of steady depreciation in the property pending litigation, a small sum was realized from the sale of the property, then the directors paying the indebtedness, called upon the stockholders to stand an appropriate share of this debt. About one half of the stockholders responded, while the remainder insisted that, having paid their stock in full, they were not liable for, and would pay no more toward the debt. The suit referred to was prosecuted to enforce a contribution, which the district court awarded, but it seems the supreme court took a different view of the law, and sent the defendants rejoicing out of court.

Henry Boeck had sold his stock long before the litigation, and defended on that ground. Whether he was let out on his special defense or on the general ground under which his co-defendants escaped, is not known at present. However it may be, the decision rendered ends a long drawn out and bitter controversy and one which has witnessed the bankruptcy and death of many originally engaged therein.

Police Court News.

William Ohm, Herbert Sharp and Joe McCarthy went to John Schiappacasse's place yesterday and ordered oysters and after they had finished eating thought to play a little joke on usually good natured caterer by putting smoking tobacco in the catsup bottle and the salt and pepper wells. However, John could not see the joke and filed a complaint against them in police court. Sharp and McCarthy were arrested, but the police have not found Ohm, whom the former two give the credit for doing the mischief. The case was continued to 7 o'clock this evening, McCarthy and Sharp being allowed to go on their own recognizance.

Police Judge Archer's report for November shows twelve arrests, fines collected, $5; six committed to jail and the sentence of one suspended.

HIT HIM WITH A JUG

The Department Store the Scene of Great Consternation

George Witstruck and Charles Pess attempted to Settle an Old Grudge and the Latter Is Worsted—Members of the First and Third Nebraska Regiments Will Eat Christmas Dinner.

From Saturday's Daily.

George Witstruck and Charles Pess have been holding a grudge against each other for a number of years and in a measure settled it this afternoon in the department store, when Witstruck hit Pess on the side of the head with a jug of coal oil and knocked him sprawling to the floor.

The two men became involved in a wrangle and Pess struck the other fellow, when they were ordered out of the store. Witstruck had some goods in the store and when he went in after them Pess followed him and struck him a severe blow in the eye with his fist when Witstruck resented by hitting him as above mentioned.

There was great consternation in the store for a time as there was a number of ladies in the room who thought the man was killed. One fellow who was in the store ran out for the police, but not seeing one went to the sheriff's office and informed Sheriff Wheeler that a man had been killed in the department store and wanted him to go up and arrest the assassin. Upon his arrival at the store he learned that Pess was not killed, but had gotten his rig and gone home.

Pess lives down on the river near the island and claims Witstruck owes him rent and that is what started the scrap.

The latter gave himself up to the police, but as there had been no complaint filed he was not held.

A. O. U. W.'S NEW HOME

Style of Architecture and Finish a Credit to the Order.

Is the Property of No. 8 and Including Furniture Will Cost About $4,000—Will be Completed by January 1—A Few Points of Interest Concerning the Order in This City—Is in a Prosperous Condition.

The Ancient Order of United Workmen hall, which is under course of construction at the corner of Seventh street and Chicago avenue, is expected to be completed and ready for occupancy by January 1. A NEWS reporter was shown over the building by Contractor Harvey Holloway today and was surprised at its magnitude.

The dimensions of the building are 34x87 1/2 feet and it is two stories high. Upon the main floor there is a large hall 34x64 feet, which will be used for entertainments, etc., with a small kitchen and a reception room in front. Leading from the reception room there is an artistically constructed stairway to the second floor, where there is a lodge room in the rear 33x50 feet and two parlors in the front, besides closets for lodge paraphernalia, etc.

The structure is substantially built throughout. Instead of being weatherboarded the outside is finished with Berger's steel siding—an imitation of rock faced brick—which sets the building off beautifully and which is a very substantial siding. The window and door sills are imitation of stone, the floor is of two and one-fourth inch maple flooring and the inside woodwork is of yellow pine, oil finish, while the roof is galvanized iron. There is a very pretty design for the front. It is imitation of stone and brick with the letters "A. O. U. W." appearing very prominently and also the lodge emblem. The building is plastered with Acme cement, a very hard finish which makes nice walls. In the cellar is a hot air furnace from which the building is heated.

The building is the property of A. O. U. W. lodge No. 8 and was designed by Frank Boyd, Frank Vermilyen and George Hawkins, as trustees of the order. Harvey Holloway had the contract for the erection of the building and his skill as a carpenter is apparent throughout the structure. Harry Johnson had the contract to do the plastering.

The Degree of Honor will turn over to No. 8 all of their dishes and utensils to be used in their kitchen when entertainments are given. The building will be nicely furnished throughout and will cost about $4,000 all told.

The different A. O. U. W. lodges and auxiliaries will meet in the hall and it will probably be used by other orders and as a consequence will be used about every night in the month.

The A. O. U. W. a Strong Order

The Ancient Order of United Workmen is the strongest beneficiary order in Plattsmouth, having a membership of something over 400. There are four lodges, Nos. 8, 84; the German lodge, No. 81, and the Swedish, No. 297, and also two ladies' auxiliary lodges—Ivy lodge No. 13, Degree of Honor, and Star lodge No. Degrees of Honor, all of which are in a prosperous condition. No. 8, the lodge which erected the new hall, was organized about fifteen years ago and has a membership of 250. The total amount of insurance carried by the members of the order is $1,000,000, not including that of the Degree of Honor members, which would swell the amount considerably. F. J. Morgan is grand receiver for Nebraska and takes in and pays out an average of $30,000 per month.

Born Under Lucky Star

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 9.—Two years ago Samuel Heiney was the postmaster at Morland, Randolph county, Indiana. The humorist life of a village postmaster becoming distasteful to him, he left for parts unknown, taking with him government funds to the amount of $467. Today Heiney walked into the office of the United States marshal and gave himself up. After being taken into custody investigation showed that the indictment against Heiney had recently been nolleed at the instance of the district attorney, who had given up hope of ferreting out the recalcitrant postmaster. Heiney now stands in the position of having sinned, of being willing to expiate his crime, but of being beyond the pale of the law. He freely admits that he was born under a lucky star.

Will Address the Plattsmouth Club.

At a recent meeting of the Omaha Woman's club the subject of the 1899 exposition was discussed at length and all of the ladies except one were heartily in favor of it. Dr. Lankton had the temerity to oppose it and in no uncertain tones. As her ideas conform with those of the members of the Plattsmouth club the ladies have wisely engaged her to address the club at the next meeting. Dr. Lankton is a very interesting talker and her views upon the proposed exposition will be listened to with interest.

Stands at the Head.

Aug. J. Bogel, the leading druggist of Shreveport, La., says: "Dr. King's New Discovery is the only thing that cures my cough, and it is the best I have. J. F. Cambell, merchant of Safford, Ariz., writes: "Dr. King's New Discovery is all that is claimed for it; it never fails, and is a sure cure for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I cannot say enough for its merits." Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds is not an experiment. It has been tried for a quarter of a century, and today stands at the head. It never disappoints. Free trial bottles at F. G. Fricke's drug store.

A sled on which a number of school children were coasting on the school house hill collided with a bob sled Thursday and Grover Livingston, son Jesse Livingston, was quite badly hurt by being struck in the stomach, one of John Group's boys received a gash in the calf of his leg and Johnie Murphy received a bump over one of his eyes. It is a miracle that no lives were lost or no bones broken, as the hill is very steep and the sled was flying through space as if shot from one of Dewey's guns.

Twenty-five years ago a well was dug on the Ferdinand Hennings farm, east of town. At the depth of 55 feet and while the workmen were eating their dinner a stream of water broke through at one side of the well three feet from the bottom, and when the workmen returned to go to work there was six feet of water in the well. A pick and a shovel were left in the bottom of the well and could not be recovered. A year or two ago the well had become so much filled up that it went dry and this week when it was cleaned out the pick and shovel were taken from their long hiding place and were found to be in a perfect state of preservation, the handles being as sound as the day they were left in the well, 25 years ago.

This was the statement made in our office within a few months by a resident of that part of Boston called the Brighton district. Inquiring into the reason for the statement, we learned that the person who gave the information was 70 years of age, and that at 50 he was said to have that dread disease, consumption. Warm new milk and whiskey was recommended, and knowing his cow and believing in our representations that
