

LETTER FROM ALASKA.

Fred Stadelman Writes Entertainingly About the Frigid Country

Says That the Sun Does Not Make Its Appearance at This Season of the Year—Have Twilight From Eight O'clock in the Morning Until Three in the Afternoon, at Which Time It Becomes Dark.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stadelman yesterday received the following letter from their son, F. C. Stadelman, who left here last spring for the gold fields of Alaska. As he is well known here the letter will undoubtedly be read with interest. They also received a letter from their daughter, Mrs. Mark White, at Dawson. She is now working in a private hospital as a nurse, there having been much sickness at that place. Mark is freighting with his dog team and doing nicely. Following is the letter:

ON THE FORTY-MILE RIVER, THIRTY-EIGHT MILES FROM FT. CUDAHY, N. W. T., Nov. 16.—Dear Folks: Tomorrow my nearest neighbor is going to Dawson City, and has kindly consented to take some mail for me. This is the first chance I have had to send a letter to you in some time, and I cannot tell just when you will get this—perhaps about January or February of next year. We are living here on the river and doing a little mining, but so far have not struck it rich enough to claim a fortune, although my prospects are very good indeed, and maybe I can leave here next fall with enough to keep me for a while. I have several good claims and am going to hold these at a good price, and the chances are this place will boom in the spring. If it does I am well fixed, if not, I have to wait until capital comes in and opens this part of the country. My two partners left here today to go out prospecting for four weeks in a new and unexplored part of the Forty-Mile. While out they expect to kill enough moose and deer to keep us in fresh meat all winter. On Monday next I am going down to Ft. Cudahy, the nearest settlement, about thirty-eight miles, to bring up some more of our provisions. We have to haul all we eat on a hand sled—hauling about 500 pounds to the lead over the ice and snow. It will take me about ten days to make the round trip, and I want to make three trips before the boys get back. The weather here has been a little cold for four days; we had it there forty and forty-five below zero, but we work out of doors just the same, and don't seem to mind the cold at all. The days are getting shorter and shorter all the time, and now we do not see the sun at all, and daylight lasts from 8 a. m. to 3 p. m. I do not know anything of Mark. I left him some time in August, and have not heard from him since. The last I knew of him he was in some kind of business. I shall be around in this neighborhood for all winter and all of next summer. I am in good health and never felt better in all my life. I am going to write to brother Will tonight so it will go out with this letter. Best wishes to all. Your son,

F. C. STADELMAN.

Tourist Forced Into Bankruptcy.

The first involuntary bankruptcy case that has been brought in this district since the law went into effect has been filed in United States court at Omaha. It was brought by the Krause company of Davenport, Ia., Z. T. Lindsey of Omaha and others, who ask that George Tourtelot of the late Department store be declared a bankrupt. The petitioners allege that on the night of December 18 he assigned his property to W. W. Coates for $1,600. They declare that this was a ridiculously inadequate consideration and that the transfer was made for the purpose of defeating his legitimate creditors.

Nearly every attorney in Plattsmouth has claims for collection against Tourtelot ranging from a few hundred to a few thousand dollars.

Police Court Cases.

The report of the number of cases which have been disposed of during M. A. Clark's term as police judge, including eight months of 1890 and each year since then, shows a gradual falling off of crime until 1898, when the summer adjournment reached its lowest point. Following is the record:

Table with 2 columns: Year, Number of cases. 1898: 103, 1899: 89, 1900: 83, 1901: 83, 1902: 105, 1903: 105, 1904: 105, 1905: 105, 1906: 105, 1907: 105, 1908: 105, 1909: 105, 1910: 105.

Were Pleasantly Entertained.

Mrs. Fred W. Lehnhoff entertained a few friends at her home last evening in honor of Miss Nell Woolson of Windom, Minn. Charades and other games were indulged in and elegant refreshments were served. Those present were the Misses Nell Woolson, Tony Kessler, Minna White, Anna Sullivan, Nettie Morgan, and Mr. Burdick, H. E. Weidman, H. F. Goos, W. B. Elster and F. A. White.

Real Estate Market Looking Up.

The real estate market is becoming more active in Plattsmouth and the indications for improvements during the coming year are better than for a long time. Among the recent transfers are lots 1 and 2, the newly graded lots at the corner of Seventh and Main streets, C. E. Wescott having purchased them. He says that substantial improvements will be made there on next spring. This is a fine location for a residence or any kind of a building and that portion of Main street will be very much improved in appearance in case a building is erected upon that corner.

There is a den of red foxes down below the bridge in the hills. Several parties have seen them on the ice recently. Fox chasing with a pack of hounds and trained horses is a great sport, but it probably would be a little too exciting among the hills and wilderness below here. This country seems to be getting wild again. Jackrabbits, "possums," coons, foxes and other wild animals that were thought to be extinct hereabouts are becoming quite numerous.

Attorney C. S. Polk was kept busy at the telephone during the greater portion of his day receiving congratulations from his friends upon his good fortune in being appointed private secretary to Lieutenant Governor Harris, as announced in the morning paper. It is stated that he finally bribed the operator into refusing to connect other telephones with the one in his office in order that he could attend to some business matters which needed his attention. The papers made a mistake in the initials, as it was a populist who received the secretaryship.

RAILROAD NOTES AND PERSONALS

Line Repairer Cal Thompson and Roadmaster O'Donnell of the Burlington were in the city today on company business.

Master Mechanic Helms was a north-bound passenger on No. 19 this morning.

James W. Orr, assistant attorney for the Missouri Pacific, located at Atchison, Kan., is in the city on company business.

Passenger coach 123 was taken out on No. 19 this morning, having been remodeled and painted in the local shops. It looked like a new coach.

Fast mail trains between Chicago and Omaha are becoming a fad. The latest road to put on a fast train is the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific. Their new train leaves Chicago at 7:55 o'clock, putting into Omaha at 8 the next morning, and as well as getting its share of mail carries a passenger equipment along.

Burglar at Union.

The general merchandise store of Petring & Schuster at Union was burglarized some time during last night and goods to the amount of about $30 were taken. The burglars effected an entrance by breaking in the rear door of the store. The sheriff was not notified until about 10:30 this morning and it is thought the burglars got out of town with their booty on an early morning Missouri Pacific freight, and were probably in Omaha before word reached the sheriff. A negro and two white men who were looking about the depot are suspected.

The goods taken comprised a little of everything in the clothing line and some gold chains.

Home-Grown Fruit Trees Are the Best.

The Rock Island Nursery Co. has a full and complete stock of all kinds of fruit trees and plants which they have raised on their own farms in my years experience in the business has enabled the manager to grow every stock that will come in with any in the country; they have all the standard and home-grown varieties suitable for the commercial grower and value varieties. They also own building and grafting, and can guarantee their varieties to be true to name and strictly first-class. Why not buy your trees here where you can get them fresh and grown in the same soil and climate in which they are to be transplanted? It will save you time and money. They invite you to come and inspect their stock and be convinced of these facts. Nursery two and one-half miles east and one-half mile north of Union, Neb. Call or write in regard to varieties, prices, etc.

C. F. MORTON, Prop., Union, Neb.

REASON OF SPECIAL PRAYER

Recommendation of Evangelical Alliance to be Carried Out in This City.

On the recommendation of the Evangelical alliance, the first week of each year has been set apart as a season of special prayer for the conversion of the world. Christians of all Evangelical denominations are invited to unite together, either in union services or by meetings in their several churches to consider specified subjects of world wide importance, suggested by the alliance, and by concerted prayer to the giver of all good, endeavor to advance these benevolent objects. The different organizations of this city are meeting together this week at 3 o'clock in the afternoon of each day in the Methodist church. The services are led by Rev. Dr. Baird of the Presbyterian church. All good people interested in the extension of the Christian religion throughout the world are invited to attend and participate.

Topics For the Week of Prayer.

Wednesday—Nations and Their Rulers.

Thursday—Foreign Missions.

Friday—Home Missions.

Saturday—Families and Schools.

THE BOY AND THE BIRD.

Lesson Taught by a Lad's Act of Humanity.

Down on Harwood street the other morning—6 o'clock—some two or three early risers were on their way to market, says the Dallas (Tex.) News. Up the street at full tilt came a boy riding bareback, and he is barefooted and bareheaded. He is whistling and is as happy as only a boy of 10 can be. On he goes at a full gallop, but with a keen eye taking in everything that is to be seen. He has just passed us when with a sudden stop, he wheels his horse and makes for a near-by electric light pole. It is a tall one, and throwing the bridge reins over the nearest iron foot-rest, he dismounts as quick as a flash and up the pole he goes. Hand over hand he climbs to the very top, and once he comes near falling.

But not a bit discouraged is he. That boy is up to something, but for the life of our old fellows down on the ground we can't make it out. Now he throws one leg over a wire and in the entanglement we watch him struggle till he sits astride the center piece. And now he thrusts his hand up into the great glass globe, but his chubby arm is too short to get whatever it is he is reaching for. Another effort and he is standing upright on the cross-timber with his arm away down in the globe, he brings out—well—a poor little, frightened, fluttering bird. It had in some way got into the conical-shaped globe and couldn't get out. Now we know what the boy means—he wants a pet bird and will put it in a cage and in a few days the poor little songster will die of neglect. We couldn't blame the little fellow, for we had all been boys once, but we thought it might have been just as well to have let it stay in its own self-incarcerated prison, and maybe it would have finally learned to regain its freedom. But just then the boy, with face uplifted and a smile all over his sunburned cheeks, raises his hand, palm upward and fingers outstretched, and away flies the bird. Down the pole like lightning, astride the horse in an instant, and riding like mad, he passes by us. Go ahead, little rough rider, breathing the fresh, free morning air—free for you and free for the birds—you are all right. There are other rough riders who risked their life and everything they held dear in the world to help those in prisons and in bondage, and you are both made of the same kind of stuff. Ride ahead, little man, and though you did not hear or notice our plaudits there on the sidewalk, you are all right, and may God bless you.

A GREAT FRENCH ETCHER.

Would Have Been a Fine Painter but for Color Blindness.

Charles Meryon—born in 1821—was brought up to the navy, going first in 1837 to the naval school at Brest, says Pall Mall Gazette. As a youth, he sailed round the world. He touched at Athens; touched at the then savage coasts of New Zealand; made sketches, a few of which, in days when most of his greater work was done, he used as material for some of his etchings. Art even then occupied him, and deeply interested as he soon got to be in it, he seems to have had a notion that it was less dignified than the profession of the navy, and after awhile he chose deliberately the less dignified, because it was the less dignified. He would have us believe so, at any rate; he wished his father to believe so. And in 1845, having served creditably and become a lieutenant, he resigned his commission. A painter he could not be. The gods, who had given him, even in his youth, a poetic vision and a firmness of hand, had denied him the true sight of color; and I remember seeing hanging up in the salon of M. Burty, who knew him, a large, impressive pastel of a ship cleaving her way through wide, deep waters, and the sea was red and the sunset sky was green, for Meryon was color blind. He would have to be an engraver. He entered the workshop of one M. Bery, to whom in after times, as his work was, he engraved some verses of his writing—appreciative verses, sincere and unfinished—a toi, Bery, mon maitre." The etchings of Zeeman, the Dutchman, gave him the desire to etch. He copied with freedom and interest several of Zeeman's neat little plates, and addressed him with praises, on another little copper, like the one to Bery—"a Zeeman, pointre des matelots."

Water as a Stimulant.

According to a high authority, cold water is a valuable stimulant to many if not all people. Its action on the heart is more stimulating than brandy. His own experience is that sipping half a wine glass of cold water will raise the pulse from 76 to over 100.

Abyssinian Avengers.

In Abyssinia it is the law that the murderer be turned over to the relatives of the dead person, they if they please, to put him to death in the same manner in which the murdered person was removed.
