

WAYS OF THE FILIPINOS

Frank Johnson Writes an Interesting Letter From Manila.

He Visits a Church Which Was Erected Prior to A. D. 1400—Guard Kills a Sergeant by Mistake—Two Officers Captured by the Insurgents and Were Badly Frightened.

The following extracts from a letter written by Frank Johnson to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Johnson, in this city, will be of interest to NEWS readers, as everyone is interested in the soldier boys now at the front:

MANILA, P. I., Jan. 6.—Conditions here are getting exciting. The insurgents ordered our outpost away from the bridge day before yesterday, and General Otis has given orders to open fire on them if they attempt to move the post. About midnight we received orders to prepare for an attack and were in line of battle until morning, but no attack was made. Each company received 4,000 rounds of ammunition with smokeless powder, but I don't believe we will ever get to use it.

I was through the finest church in Manila January 2. It is something wonderful. There are about 200 old paintings on the walls, many of them being dated back to A. D. 1400, 1500 and 1600. There were also three chandeliers, each weighing 1,500 pounds. There were four altars, two on each side, and each one cost $3,000. A silk curtain, six by ten feet, with the Spanish coat of arms woven into it with gold thread, cost $1,000. A table made of one solid mahogany board five feet wide, fifteen feet long and three inches thick, very highly polished. Several small statues made of ivory with diamond ear rings and necklaces and gold rings on the fingers. There are also some of the finest billiard tables I ever saw.

Our Christmas boxes have not arrived. It has been raining all day. January 8—I was on outpost last night. We patrolled the country from our camp to the Colorado outpost, about three miles. The route we had to go was close to the insurgent outpost, and we could hear them signaling each other all night. They have a small whistle which they use for this purpose. Yesterday Utah out a Gatling gun in position, which covers two of the insurgent strong holds. Trouble seems to be brewing. Today is Sunday. Some of the boys are playing ball, some have gone to Manila, but most of them are reading, writing or sleeping. Yesterday the Nebraska boys played the Twenty-third regulars. The game was six to six in the seventh inning, when they had to quit and go on inspection in heavy marching order. General Otis was the inspecting officer. The boys are all getting tired of camp life. We have company drill in the morning and battalion drill in the evening. On Thursdays and Fridays we have regimental dress parade. During the day it keeps us busy hunting a cool place, the days being fearfully hot, but the nights are fine for sleeping. The Nebraska regiment has very little sickness. There are a number of the boys in Manila dying of smallpox. The Kansas regiment seems to be the worst off.

January 10.—Yesterday was pay day. We are paid every two months. Six privates and a sergeant escorted the paymaster from the city, and I was one of them. We were mounted on native ponies and carried our rifles loaded. Last night one of the Colorado boys was badly cut across the face by two natives. The orders are to halt everybody and see that they have no arms. After convincing himself that they were all right the guard let them go, and as they passed him they whipped out their knives and struck at his throat. They both ran, but the guard shot them both. The guard was badly cut and is marked for life.

A very sad affair occurred the other night at the Oregon outpost. A sergeant had just been around instructing the guards to halt every one and if they didn't halt the first time to shoot. As the sergeant was coming back one of the outposts halted him. He either did not hear or if he did he paid no attention to it. The guard fired, killing him instantly.

Last Sunday two of our officers thought they would take a ride out through the insurgent lines and see the country. They got through their lines without any trouble, but when they got back into the country about four miles they were arrested, made to dismount and walked about four miles farther to an insurgent general's camp. They were questioned as to their business and what they were doing with that photograph machine (a camera they had with them). The officers told them they had heard much about the country and wanted to take some pictures to take home with them, as they expected to go back to America soon. But this did not satisfy the Filipinos so he sent them with a strong guard three miles farther back to a higher officer, where they were again questioned. This Filipino officer told them he thought they ought to be treated as spies, but after keeping them until 10 o'clock at night sent them back with a strong guard. He gave them to understand that he didn't want it to occur again. While they were prisoners the guards made signs like they were going to cut their throats or shoot them. These officers were awfully glad to get back into our lines. The insurgent soldiers used to visit us every day but we see them no more.

January 12.—There has been plenty of excitement here in the last twenty-four hours. I will send you a paper which will tell you all about it. Some of our boys were in Manila when the bugle sounded and what could not get into rigs walked, or rather ran, and when they got into camp were played out.

Our camp guards and outposts are doubled every night. No Christmas boxes yet. I go on outpost tomorrow. Love to all. FRANK.

Suffers Great Pain.

Elias Sage, mention of whose unfortunate accident was made in yesterday's NEWS, is still suffering great pain from the injuries which he received. Dr. Schildknecht, the attending physician, was out to see the unfortunate man this morning, and reports that he is yet unable to ascertain whether or not Mr. Sage sustained internal injuries, but the injured limb is mending as well as could be expected.

It will be remembered that Mr. Sage has for some time been undergoing treatment in Omaha for his eyes, and had partially regained his lost sight, when this unfortunate accident befell him. He has the sincere sympathy of his many friends, who hope for his early recovery.

Hempel Out of a Job.

The State Fish Commission have decided that the office of assistant superintendent at the state fish hatcheries was a luxury more than necessary and accordingly have informed Henry Hempel that his services in that capacity were no longer needed. The Courier has been of the opinion for a long time that the only need for an assistant at the fisheries was to give some fellow a job and as long as it was held by a Cass county man The Courier didn't feel like raising a keck. Superintendent O'Brien has the ability and push about him to run the ranch alone and the only assistance he needs are a few able bodied work men whose services are more needed, and who come cheaper than assistant superintendents.—Louisville Courier.

Friday evening at the Presbyterian church Charles Behanessy will give his noted oriental entertainment, giving a description of the manners, customs and costumes, religion and languages of the different oriental races within the Turkish empire. The entertainment is highly recommended and will undoubtedly draw a large crowd.

A Good Smoke.

Just a whiff of one of our cigars will give you an idea of the quality of them. Only the best tobacco used. They burn freely, don't bite the tongue, and have a flavor that is altogether pleasant. The favor of our cigars is not artificial, but the natural aroma of the tobacco.

To the Public.

The board of health requests THE NEWS to notify the public that in view of the fact that many cases of contagious diseases have been found to exist in the city, and were not reported to the proper authorities—the city clerk—such neglect on the part of the people in whose families the disease exists will make them liable to a fine. Many people regard the attendance of a doctor as unnecessary, and thus the matter is not reported to the proper authorities. Hereafter any person having knowledge of the existence of contagious disease, who fail to notify the city clerk of the same, will be properly fined for his neglect.

FEELING OF BEING STARED AT.

A Psychologist Who Says That It Is All Nonsense.

There are scores of scientific people in the world that seem to find no better fun than demolishing popular notions about things, says the New York Tribune. Here, for instance, is Prof. E. B. Titchener, of Cornell university, who discusses in a letter to Science the widespread belief that a person sitting quietly in an audience occasionally becomes aware that he or she is the object of scrutiny, and on looking about, finds that this is true. The Cornell expert declares that there are some facts underneath the supposition, but that the facts have been misinterpreted. That's only a polite way of saying that people are awfully mistaken. In the first place, it is pointed out that a nervous disposition to turn around in one's seat, glance over one's shoulders, and perhaps fumble the back hair is a common trait of many well-bred as well as many ill-bred folk.

In the second place, it is argued that in any large and well-filled auditorium there will always be several persons so seated as to be looking, naturally and not by design, toward the spot where any individual might be. Consequently, if the individual turns around and begins to survey the house, he can not fail to catch the eye of some one, who will thus appear to have singled him out. The muscles are always under more or less unconscious strain that calls for some sort of motion to secure relief. It is this that deludes a person into the belief that he "must" turn about in his chair. Prof. Titchener insists that such compulsion is no more mysterious than the disposition to turn one's ear so as better to catch a sound. That this Cornell person is a heartless wretch as well as a hardened skeptic is evident from the cold-blooded way in which he presents his final plea. He asserts that he has experimented with a lot of people that pretended to be sensitive to the gaze of other persons, or to be able thus to influence other people. And he says that he invariably gets "negative results." By which he doubtless means that the sensitive folk cannot be persuaded to look around at the proper moment and in the right direction, and that those who lay claim to a special capacity for controlling others fail to control "em. The goblins will catch Prof. Titchener some night "if he don't watch out."

THE LIFE OF A WATCH.

Depends greatly on the care which the owner bestows upon it. A good watch, if CAREFULLY CLEANED and OILED once a year, as it should be, will last a lifetime; yes, a hundred years. Many good watches are allowed to go without cleaning and oiling for years, with the result that the oil is entirely dried up, the pivots are cut and rusted out, so that it costs twice as much to put the watch in proper condition again as it would if given timely attention. I have a long established reputation for serving my customers carefully, as well as doing the best of work. If your watch is not giving satisfaction, bring it to me and I will tell you just what it needs. No charge for examination, and if left with me, I guarantee that you shall have an accurate and reliable TIME-PIECE.
