

THE DEADLY DYNAMITE

Workman with the Sheeley Bridge Company Killed.

Was in the Act of Throwing the Dynamite in Hot Sand When It Exploded, Fatally Injuring a Man by the Name of Chino—Another Man Knocked Down by the Force.

Patrick Chino, one of the men employed by the J. R. Sheeley Construction and Bridge company, met a sad death yesterday at Nehawka by the explosion of dynamite. The unfortunate man was assisting in the construction of an iron bridge, and while working at the abutment, throwing out frozen dynamite with hot sand, the dangerous stuff exploded while he was handling it. The force of the explosion threw him against a companion standing about eight feet away, knocking the latter down.

The explosive discharge blew both of Chino's arms off, and he was injured in other ways very severely. His death occurred about an hour after the accident. The unfortunate man was about twenty-eight years of age, and made his home with a relative in Lincoln. The body will be taken to Lincoln tomorrow for burial.

RAILROAD NOTES AND PERSONALS

From Thursday's Daily
Machinist Frank Kroehler returned to his work at Havelock this afternoon, having sufficiently recovered from his attack of the grip.

D. C. Woodring, assistant superintendent of bridges, was in town today.

The Union Pacific flyer was wrecked at Weed station, in Colorado, yesterday, caused by a broken rail. One passenger was killed and five injured. There were also two wrecks of freight trains on the Union Pacific, but without serious results. It seemed to be an off day for that road.

The Burlington now has under construction at the Baldwin works two big locomotives. These engines are of the "Atlantic" type and differ somewhat in construction from any locomotive now in use on the Burlington. Their boilers are larger than those of the class H engine, and the flue surface is considerably greater. The diameter of the drive wheel is seven feet—that of 500—but in other details the two new engines are somewhat larger than this one. They will ultimately be placed in the fast mail service.

Henry Miller, an employe of the freight car department at the B. & M. shops, met with a rather painful accident yesterday, which will necessitate an enforced lay-off for a few days. While at work a heavy piece of timber fell on one his feet, breaking the toe.

Ed Frye mashed his finger yesterday while working in the lumber yards, which will give him a ten days' rest.

H. C. Jones been entangled as night operator at the Missouri Pacific depot, G. W. Mason, who has filled the position for the past year having been removed. Mr. Jones is a crack pistol shot and together with his wife used to travel over the country giving exhibitions, but abandoned it on account of rheumatism in the arm. He is very accommodating and will no doubt give good satisfaction in his new position.

C. A. Hull, the Burlington relief doctor, was in town today on company business.

Ed Ryan is caring for a badly mangled finger, which got under a truck. He refuses to take a vacation, but will guard the finger with jealous care.

A Packed House.
White's opera house was filled last night with an immense crowd, who witnessed the first performance of the Irving French company—"The Runaway Wife." The play was interspersed with many funny situations, and from the frequent loud applause, the audience was well pleased with the entire evening's entertainment. Some very fine specialty acting was also introduced, together with many beautiful calcium light views, which were thrown on the curtain between acts. An illustrated song, entitled "Break the News to Mother," sung by Mr. Lowe, was greatly appreciated, and was considered one of the best features of the entertainment.

The same company will appear tonight in a rollicking, musical farce-comedy—"An Irishman's Troubles." An entirely new series of illustrated songs and scenes will be presented, together with other specialties. There will undoubtedly be another immense audience in attendance this evening, as every member of the company is an artist, and this, together with the low price of admission, will go far towards attracting a large crowd.

LOUISVILLE ITEMS.

Cold, colder, coldest, coldest right now.
John L. Burns and wife were Omaha visitors Tuesday.

Now if a man had a few thousand eggs, wouldn't he be in it for a while? M. N. Drako has been called to the bedside of his father, who is lying very sick at York.

Johnnie Mohinkle has the contract for digging E. Palmer's cellar, and anyone looking for work can get a job from John.

E. Palmer is having the stone hauled to build the foundation of his mammoth store building, which he will commence as soon as the frost is out of the ground.

Rev. Taggart is permanently located here now, having moved here this week. He will preach half the time here and half at Springfield. We gladly welcome Mr. Taggart and wife to our humble little village.

Amos Kiser's team, which was being driven by Mrs. Kiser, became frightened at a turkey in the buggy plowing its wings. The horses became unmanageable and ran down Gospel hill, and as they turned the corner at Main street, threw Mr. Kiser and Mrs. Kiser out. The ladies were picked up in dazed condition. They escaped with a severe shaking up.

Henry Gable had the misfortune last Saturday night to lose two ten dollar bills which he had placed in memorandum book and kept in his vest pocket, but in some way it got out of pocket. He did not miss it till Sunday morning and then he hitched up his fastest horse and came to town and made a thorough search, but as yet the tenners have not returned.

Two runaway boys from Omaha, aged eleven and thirteen years, slept in a straw stack one mile east of Louisville Wednesday night. They did not suffer from the cold until near morning, when they became badly chilled and approached the home of Jesse Livingston, where they were taken care of and will be kept. They are both very bright little fellows to be out on the road when the thermometer stays below zero.

Jack Buskirk is getting to be quite a sportsman. At least he goes out hunting very often, but nine times out of ten he don't go very far. Jack likes to be in the company of ladies pretty well and if reports are true why Jack is all right. He says he wants to go hunting but that is only an excuse because when he goes hunting with the boys he leaves them after he gets out of town always. Well you can guess where he goes.

There are a few young men in Louisville who are in the habit of teasing and tormenting the smaller boys, thus making life miserable for the latter. They cry it to extremes and the small boys are some times provoked to say and do things which the larger boys don't appreciate and the latter are then mean enough to abuse the little ones. Now, doesn't it look nice to see a man fighting a boy, just for nothing? Such things have happened. If you will torment the little fellows, you must expect to get paid back, with interest.

Louisville is blessed with a gang of young men who seem to take great pleasure in debasing a young girl's reputation. Young men stop for a moment and think. Perhaps you may have a dear little sister who some day may have the same remark made of her. While you are talking of some girl, someone else may be talking of your sister, and if you were to hear the remarks what would you think? A certain young man here in town heard someone else say some thing, so he started to tell it and added a little more to it till finally it was terrible. Beware young man when you blight a girl's reputation.

SAUERKRAUT AS AN APPETIZER
Best Thing in the World for a Sick Cow.
A reporter who spent Christmas among the Pennsylvania Germans of Lancaster county discovered what will probably be to most people a distinctively new use for sauerkraut, a native production of old Lancaster and a staple article of food, says the Pittsburg Times. He had called to see an old friend who keeps a dairy, and found the dairyman in the act of taking great bunches of succulent cabbage from a barrel in the cellar. The odor pervaded the neighborhood and made glad the nostrils of every true and loyal Pennsylvania "Dutchman" within a distance of about half a mile.

The reporter was astonished when the dairyman picked up a bucketful of sauerkraut and carried it to his cow stable. The second animal in the long row of stalls was a big, strong-boned cow. Her head was hanging low under the manger, although there was a plentiful supply of hay in the rack above. Her eyes were half-closed. She was evidently a very sick cow at a time when she should have been in good spirits, for among the Pennsylvania Germans it is still a popular belief that on Christmas eve the cows in their stalls may be heard to talk to each other of the great event the day commemorates. The bucketful of sauerkraut was dumped into the manger. The cow, by some peculiar system of feeding, first gave evidence of her appreciation by slowly switching her tail, which had before hung limp and lifeless. Then she raised her head, poked her great muzzle into the kraut and slowly began to munch the stuff.

Fifteen minutes later she looked quite happy. She had eaten all the kraut, and was taking great mouthfuls of the hay. The dairyman said sauerkraut had long been known as one of the best things in the world to give a sick cow an appetite.

Mrs. George Kroehler is recovering from an attack of the grip.

To the Public.

The board of health requests THE NEWS to notify the public that in view of the fact that many cases of contagious diseases have been found to exist in the city, and were not reported to the proper authorities—the city clerk—such neglect on the part of the people in whose families the disease exists will make them liable to a fine. Many people regard the attendance of a doctor as unnecessary, and thus the matter is not reported to the proper authorities. Hereafter any person having knowledge of the existence of contagious disease, who fail to notify the city clerk of the same, will be properly fined for his neglect.

THE LIFE OF A WATCH
Depends greatly on the care which the owner bestows upon it. A good watch, if CAREFULLY CLEANED and OILED once a year, as it should be, will last a lifetime, yes, a hundred years. Many good watches are allowed to go without cleaning and oiling for years, with the result that the oil is entirely dried up, the pivots are cut and rusted out, so that it costs twice as much to put the watch in proper condition again as it would if given timely attention. I have a long established reputation for serving my customers carefully, as well as doing the best of work. If your watch is not giving satisfaction, bring it to me and I will tell you just what it needs. No charge for examination, and if left with me, I guarantee that you shall have an accurate and reliable TIME-PIECE.
